Warplanes Bomb Red Mortar Posts

SAIGON (AP) — Rapid-firing U.S. Air Force Dragon ships loosed nearly 50,000 shells against suspected Communist positions early Saturday to counter a rash of mortar attacks on allied posts in the Mekong Delta.

Red mortarsmen hit the U.S. 9th Infantry Division headquarters at Dong Tam, 42 miles southwest of Saigon, with about 35 rounds under cover of night and wounded 16 Americans. Four government camps in the delta were other targets of Communist mortars.

The Dragon ships, old twin-engine C47s specially equipped with flares and Gatling-type 20mm guns to suppress night attacks, raced to the rescue. With each equipped to turn out 18,000 shells a minute, they fired short bursts by the light of the parachuted flares. Whether from direct hits or other cause, the mortars fell silent.

Political infighting in Saigon attended scattered ground operations in the war up and down the country.

The nation's provisional assembly is to rule by Monday midnight on the validity of the victory of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and his running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, in the presidential election Sept. 3.

Its election committee, which is expected to be overruled, recommended 16-2 that the assembly throw out the results on the

Russians Stage War Exercises

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet people were assured Saturday that their armed forces have proven tough and ready in widely publicized maneuvers.

The war exercises, largest staged in the Soviet Union for many years, received more publicity than old Moscow hands could remember for military maneuvers. Beside emphasizing strength and alertness, press and radio reports stressed the army's modern mechanized mobility.

Military attaches and diplomats in foreign embassies here suggested several theories for all the publicity.

The most popular one was that the armed forces wanted their share of attention as celebrations get under way for the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on Nov. 7.

More military attention will come on Nov. 7 when, the attaches expect, a number of new weapons will be displayed in the traditional Red Square parade. Rockets already are rumbling through midnight Moscow in rehearsals.

Publicity now emphasizes that "our people can rely fully on their army in the defense of their great achievements."

"The exercises were a demonstration of high combat qualities of the armament and fighting equipment, of readiness of the troops to defend their motherland," a communique said.

Curiously, however, public emphasis seemed to be more on attack than defense, with strong

China Prepares For War With U.S.: Mansfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaders of Red China seem to expect war with the United States eventually and to be preparing for it, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday.

He said that prospect "haunts the Chinese leadership in Peking."

The Montana senator commented in a report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his recent trip to the Far East.

He qualified his comments with the observation that information about Red China is severely limited.

Mansfield said it is dangerous to assume that internal problems in China make it unlikely that Peking would intervene in Vietnam.

"What could be better calculated to restore unity among the quarrelling factions than a threat to what is conceived to be the security interests of China or a direct attack on Chinese territory?" he asked.

Mansfield recalled that mainland China had internal problems similar to those of today when it intervened in the Korean War.

He proposed that the United States, at the proper time, launch efforts for trade and other exchanges with Red China.

37 Year Search For Mother Ends With Reunion

TUSCOLA, Ill. (AP) — When Bernard Behl was six years old his mother placed him in a Roman Catholic school in Minneapolis.

She felt that, because of ill health, she could not properly care for two boys, as well as the unborn child she then was carrying.

That was 37 years ago.

Friday, Behl and his mother, Mrs. Pearl Parrish, of Tuscola, Douglas County, met at a tearful reunion at the Coles County Airport in nearby Mattoon.

Behl said: "I'm a very happy man after all these years of search for my mother."

Rails To Lose Post Office Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department plans to eliminate railway post office cars from 162 passenger trains throughout the nation before the end of the year, and this will mean a loss of revenue to the railroads of more than $17.1 million annually.

One result could be the discontinuance of more passenger trains.

Directly affected will be 20 railroads and more than 2,224 postal employees. The workers will be transferred to other postal operations.

William J. Hartigan, assistant postmaster general in charge of transportation, said the moves

Texas Sweeping Up After Flood Tamed

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The monstrous Rio Grande, its flood tamed at last with time and Mexico's sacrifices, sent its crest near the sea Saturday while upstream residents struggled to bring order from the disaster.

For the first time since the river went wild, river gauges showed Saturday that the silt-murky water had dropped below flood stage at Rio Grande City, about 200 stream miles from the Rio Grande's mouth.

The Weather Bureau at Brownsville said late Saturday the big river "looks like it may have crested" at 17.40 feet. The level had dropped to 17.22. A Weather Bureau spokesman said a second, larger crest sometimes occurs, but he added that no trouble was expected

Synod First Step To Church Government

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI attributed "great authority" to his international synod of bishops Saturday and opened the way for it to become more powerful in the government of the Roman Catholic Church.

But he also reaffirmed his primacy among the world's half-billion Catholics and made clear the synod was a first, cautious step toward true shared power in governing the church.

The Pope presided at the first working session of the month-long synod, the first assembly of its kind in an experiment in helping the pontiff rule Catholicism.

He delivered a major speech in which he:

- Enunciated the synod's character and role.
- Decreed the Vietnam war and asked for negotiations.
- Lashed out at what he called restriction on religious life in Communist Poland and other countries.
- Said the synod had great importance for Christian unity.
- Announced that Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras of Istanbul would travel to Rome at the

Romney Ends 19-Day Inspection Of Slums

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. George Romney ended a 19-day tour of the nation's slums Saturday and said he was more convinced than ever that "unless we reverse course and build a new America the old America will be destroyed."

From his experience in the Detroit rioting and from listening to the "voice of revolt in U.S. ghettos," Romney said, he concluded that this summer's rioters had "the tacit support of the bulk of the Negro community."

Destruction of "old America," he said in an interview, might "come through open rebellion with bullets, cannon and all the violent means imaginable."

Or, he added, it might come from the "dry rot" of the majority's indifference of the aspirations of the minorities.

The Michigan governor — an undeclared candidate for the Republican presidential nomination — concluded a 10,000-mile coast-to-coast inspection of the nation's urban problems Saturday in Pittsburgh.

As the governor arrived at the Alcoa Building for a briefing on housing he found 10 pickets who identified themselves as being young Americans for Freedom. One of the pickets signs said "Now that your brain has been washed why not throw in the towel?"

In a statement the pickets jumped on Romney's statement that his original support for the American involvement in Vietnam was due to a "brainwashing" he received by U.S. generals and diplomats during a visit to the war zone in 1965.

LBJ Hints Need For More Money

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday that failure of Congress to enact a tax increase now would cause dangerous and costly inflation.

He said "the small request" he made for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes "is very necessary if we are to avoid the evil effects of a more burdensome tax—inflation tax."

Johnson held an impromptu news conference in an airplane hangar at his LBJ ranch primarily to announce the appointment of Erwin N. Griswold, 63-year-old dean of the Harvard Law School, to be U.S. solicitor general. Griswold succeeds Thurgood Marshall, who was elevated to the Supreme Court.

After his announcement, the President sparred a bit with newsmen about whether his Friday night speech indicated any change or softening of U.S. policy on halting the bombing of North Vietnam.

"I will let the speech speak for itself," said Johnson, but he added that he did not feel "any requirement to submit any new material" in what he said was a discussion of general government policy on Vietnam that he has made "time and time again."

Johnson said he has had no new word from Hanoi on any peace proposals.

On politics, the President smilingly turned aside a question as to whether he has made a decision on seeking reelection.

Election Annoys Saigon Assembly

SAIGON (AP) — The military government announced Sunday a new ban on demonstrations and street meetings in Saigon and riot police turned out in full strength to enforce it.

The action came as the National Assembly was scheduled to resume its politically charged debate on the validity of the Sept. 3 national elections. The debate has important implications for the Vietnamese and U.S. governments and for the course of the war.

At midday the capital was quiet and there were no new antigovernment demonstrations by militant Buddhists and by students who are demanding the election results be rejected. Demonstrations have swept Saigon since Thursday.

Heavy cordons of police armed with tear gas, carbines and wicker riot shields were thrown around potential trouble spots. They were concentrated near Independence Palace and the National Assembly building.

The assembly adjourned Saturday night without deciding whether to validate the election of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu as president. Its election committee had recommended

Violence Ends Sharply With Wildcat Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The violence that punctuated the eight-state truckers strike dropped off sharply Saturday. But there was little hope that steel would start moving over the highways in volume before midweek.

Word of the tentative agreement reached at marathon negotiating sessions must filter down the hastily erected organization the truckers built to enforce their wildcat strike. The rank and file around the big steel centers at Pittsburgh, for example, will not get to vote before Tuesday or Wednesday, a spokesman said.

However, he said he expected a virtual end to the gunfire, rock-throwing, beatings and vandalism directed at the truckers who defied the boycott the last two weeks.

The agreement was not a settlement of the dispute between the truckers, estimated to number between 10,000 and 20,000, but was only the ground rules for a back-to-work movement.

The details were not made public pending votes by the truckers.

Presumably the truckers got assurance that the Teamsters Union would try to re-open negotiations with the companies that lease the steel trucks and that no reprisals would be taken. These were the demands they made during the six-week protest movement which started in Gary, Ind., and spread to Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Michigan, Illinois, and Kentucky.

The truckers' goals are a 6 per cent increase, to 79 per cent, in their take from the value of each shipment they haul, and penalty pay for time waiting to load and unload.

Senators Call For UN Action In Ending War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., called Saturday for a "third effort" to get action by the United Nations toward ending the war in Vietnam.

Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, and Fulbright, the Senate foreign relations chairman, have been critical of escalation of the war. Fulbright called for an immediate halt in the bombing of North Vietnam but Mansfield said any decision of that nature must be left to President Johnson.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he knows of no response by Hanoi yet to Johnson's latest peace talk offer. But he was apparently not optimistic about prospects for a favorable reply.

Nixon Cancels Program For Mother's Funeral

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Hannah Milhous Nixon, mother of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, died Saturday at the age of 82.

Aides said Nixon, his wife and two daughters would fly here Sunday from their home in New York. He canceled plans for a speaking tour next week.

Mrs. Nixon, ailing for several years, died in Whitman Convalescent Hospital, which she entered two years ago.

The quiet Quaker woman, who reared her sons in the same religion, was asked in 1960 if she would help him campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

"It's been a campaign since the day he was born," she said. "All his life I've been his campaigner."

Mrs. Nixon once recalled she never spanked Richard. "My friends warned me I'd spoil him, and then I'd have only myself to blame," she said. "But it didn't work out that way, did it?"

LYING DOWN ON THE JOB, rather than on the strike, were these "pickets" of the United Auto Workers local in Milpitas, Calif. They seem, at least momentarily, to have lost some enthusiasm for the strike against Ford.

She crashed into the Texas-Mexico border Sept. 20, raged up the Gulf of Mexico coastline with severe winds while 114,000 on the U.S. side alone huddled in shelters, erratically turned northwest and battered herself to death on Mexico's mountains. She brought the floods with her with rains of 20 to 30 inches.

Saturday's crest, a long, almost indiscernible one, was in the Brownsville-Matamoros area with another 18 miles to go to the sea.

The relative safety of Brownsville and Matamoros occurred because of an elaborate floodway system and the fact that Mexico deliberately flooded vast areas of its farmland to lower the stream's height.

The Mexican action was a sacrifice of the moment, but it appeared probable the maneuver will help the farms because of the rich silt.

Das Kapital

A century ago this week there was published the first volume of the most influential single work of economics ever written, "Das Kapital," by Karl Marx. Approximately half the world lives today under the rule of Communists and Democratic Socialists who claim to be intellectual descendants of Marx. There is no contemporary industrialized country where Marxist ideas have not made an appreciable impression both upon the climate of intelligent opinion and upon the nature of government policy.

It is easy enough to fault Marx. His labor theory of value is today an embarrassment to the new generation of Soviet econometricians and has long been rejected by most Western economists. Time itself has refuted his predictions about the increasing misery of the working class, the inevitability of capitalist economic crises, and the role of the working class as the grave digger of capitalism. Wide-scale private ownership of capital survives today in precisely those advanced industrial countries where Marx thought it would be wiped out first. Only in backyard, agrarian countries like Czarist Russia of 1917 and China of the late nineteenforties, have violent Marxist-led revolutions triumphed.

Marx's real greatness was as a master propagandist, who put his understandable moral outrage against mid-nineteenth-century capitalism in the form of a scientific system which claimed to do for economics what Newtonian mechanics had done for physics. Thus presented, Marxist "scientific socialism" had an appeal and a power far beyond all rival socialist systems.

Marx was fundamentally wrong because he underestimated the ability of capitalism to change peacefully and to alter those terrible conditions of work and life the recital of which bulks so large in "Capital." He did not understand that capitalism was only in its infancy in his time, and that it still had vast potentials for increasing the world's wealth. But in part because of his effective indictment and of the forces it set in motion, modern capitalism is a far different system from that which Marx knew and the much more abundant production of today is far more widely and justly distributed. Marxism-Leninism rules today in Russia and China because the needed changes were not made there in good time and in adequate measure.

Investment In Society

At a time when many find indications of conflict between business and the best interests of society, a recent move by some of the nation's major life insurance companies is an historic one. Announcement of plans by the insurance industry to invest a billion dollars in urban slums marks a departure from rather conservative investment practices generally followed.

Though the money will be invested primarily in real estate, this will be in an important sense an investment in society. The sum, small in relation to the total invested by the industry each year, is enormous in terms of potential impact on slum life, as well as on other businesses which might consider taking similar steps.

Since 1960 some 15 billion dollars

of insurance money has been invested in urban renewal spread over large areas of cities. The investment now planned will be concentrated, and its results will be easier to measure. This new approach is not only good social planning but wise business. Insurance money is heavily invested in urban real estate. Protection of it through rehabilitation of the core of urban areas is a sound move.

There is reason to hope that the insurance industry's commitment will encourage similar contributions in other areas of public concern: transportation, education, recreation, pollution and so on. The idea that private enterprise must be in conflict with social progress is plainly untrue. More and more, realistic approach demands cooperation for mutual advance.

Francis R. Rantz of Waverly will be in charge of the next group of draftees, due to depart Oct. 5th for Camp Taylor, Ky.

Yesterday the local board of exemptions received orders to hold all men now working on farms until the corn is harvested, if that is at all possible.

The Board of Deacons of the First Presbyterian Church wishes to highly commend your newspaper on the recent series of well written and photographed features describing recreational facilities open to the public in nearby communities. Your series ended with the sad lack of proper care and only a nine hole golf course at Nichols Park—due to lack of monies because Jacksonville has no park district. This highlights a direful need for a park district to alleviate the faults of our recreational program.

We appreciate and compliment your willingness to take a stand for the improvement of the community in this and other issues.

As co-chairmen of the Band Parents Association 13th Annual Chicken Fry, we want to thank the public for the overwhelming response given by attending this event. A record number of 2,500 plates were served, and more than 300 band parents families worked enthusiastically to make this fund-raising project successful.

We feel a deep regret and offer sincere apologies to those who waited long for carry-out service, and to those we could not serve, because of inadequate supplies. In all, we served 600 MORE carry-out orders, than we had anticipated.

Now that we realize how popular this service is with the public, we will be able to plan to fill this demand more effectively in the future.

To all donating time, energies, and materials, thank you and to everyone who attended we hope to serve you even better in the years to come. Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gillespie

Good-Natured Teasing Is O.K. With Lynda Bird

By DAVE BURGIN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sign on the mirror of a Georgetown pub: "I was Robbed — George Hamilton."

These and other inevitable cracks reportedly have the President's daughter, Lynda Bird, upset. One White House source said Lynda commented that she doesn't mind some teasing, but when cracks become personal, "they hurt people who are just as human as those who make them."

She didn't mind, for example, the joke comedian Bob Hope made, referring to her fiancé, Marine Corps Capt. Charles S. Robb, as being "General Chuck" after the wedding.

Capt. Robb is on orders to Vietnam sometime after the first of the year. He chuckles now at the irony of it all.

"I put in for Vietnam a year or so ago," he said. "To be quite frank, I was disgusted when I got orders to be an aide in the White House."

The Marine Corps shouldn't be worried about "protecting" a presidential son-in-law from the clutches of the enemy in Vietnam.

Or so says James Roosevelt, an ex-Marine who served in combat during WW II while his father served in the White House.

"The Japanese all but ignored me," Roosevelt recalled. "There was one occasion when we hit the beach at Makin Island and the one Jap stuck his head up and yelled, 'To hell with Roosevelt' — I'm sure he meant my father, not me."

Zip code story of the week: Really now, zip code snafus have become a bit of a bore. But this one is hard to pass up.

Seems former Assistant Postmaster General Tyler Abell has a canceled envelope which he is going to forward to former presidential press secretary Bill Moyers.

The letter was addressed to Tyler's wife, who is none other than White House social secretary, Bess Abell. The address read: Bess Abell, care of The White House, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington D.C.

Stamped to the returned, and re-returned, envelope was the Post Office request to supply a zip code.

The jubilant Abell says he is sending Moyers the letter because it was Moyers who insisted the White House not be zip-coded "since everyone knows where it is."

Reds Set Up Long-Range 'Brain-Drain' Program

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The North Korean agent had $25,000 in U.S. $100 bills when he was picked up by Seoul police.

The bills were genuine. He was well-trained, capable, disciplined, typical of the North Korean agents infiltrating south in increasing numbers and being sent, too, to West Germany and Italy, where South Korean students are numerous.

The South Korean police now pick up these agents at the rate of 200 a year. No one knows how many get through and entrench themselves without being caught.

This breed of Communist agent has a highly specialized job. He finds a South Korean in a jam who needs money badly to complete his education or to tide his family over a very difficult period.

If the young man or woman shows enough future promise, an agent will call, offer a loan or gift — "without strings." (The student, if he accepts, will be secretly photographed taking the money.)

These North Korean Communist agents apparently aim only at young men and women specializing in five fields:

1. Young politicians of such caliber they could be cabinet ministers a decade or two from now.
2. Young scientists who show promise of being among the top men in their field in the late 1970s or early 1980s, especially in the field of electronics.
3. Young teachers or men and women preparing to be teachers who have the potential for being topflight college professors or high school teachers.
4. Potentially outstanding artists, writers, poets, dramatists.
5. Potential generals or admirals.

Note that the Communist program aims at no quick results. The payoff will come in 15 to 20 years or so.

Note also that the program is highly selective. It takes relatively few agents and aims at capturing a relatively small number of people.

Note further that though each agent may have considerable amounts of money — in dollars — the over-all program is not costly. Nevertheless it has a potential for sizable results.

Obviously, Korea isn't the only country in which the Communists are following this program.

The Chinese Communists captured several of the top scientists in their missile and nuclear weapon programs while these men were students in the United States, Europe and Japan.

In Japan the Communists have centered their efforts on Japanese professors in those top colleges which train Japan's political and industrial leaders.

In the United States the small U.S. Communist party is concentrating much of its strength on college campuses.

The Communist theory is that if they can win men who will someday be in key posts, they need need numbers.

No one knows how successful the Communists will be in this attempted "brain drain." But the United States and its allies must find a counter or we will be in for some rude surprises in two decades.

Ann Landers: Seventeen and in Double Trouble

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: About the worst thing that can happen to a guy has happened to me. Not once, but twice. I am 17 years old and two girls I have been going with have told me within the last week that they are pregnant. One girl is 16, a real sweet kid (but very dumb), and nobody I would want to spend the rest of my life with. The other girl is 19, has been around a lot and while I have taken her out several times, so have 50 other guys.

I have one year of high school left so don't suggest marriage to the sweet kid because I wouldn't think of it. And please don't tell me to talk to my folks because my mother would have a heart attack and my dad would kill me.

I used to think your column was square but I am beginning to believe your advice makes a lot of sense. Please tell me what to do because I'm fading fast.

—DUBBLE TRUBBLE

Dear D.T.G. Your parents are going to know about this—either from you or from the parents of one or both girls. I believe it would be better if you told them.

I am not suggesting marriage, but I am suggesting that you learn what your legal responsibilities are and live up to them. I hope this letter shakes up a few thousand guys out there who are playing games with live bombshells. How about paying some attention to my square advice, fellas?

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you have room in your column for a lesson that might help some of your readers make a decision. It has to do with relatives in business.

Several years ago my husband and his brother went to work for their father. It was a good business, but there was so much in-fighting and aggravation that my husband decided it wasn't worth it. When my husband announced he was quitting to start a business of his own, everyone said, "You're a fool. You'll regret it. Your brother will inherit everything."

Well, they were half right. His brother DID inherit everything — ulcers, migraine headaches and a nervous condition of the eyes. My sister-in-law has told me 50 times that she wished her husband had quit when mine did. The old man has become more tyrannical and utterly impossible through the years. Even though he will soon be 69 he has made it clear that he intends to run the business till they carry him off on a stretcher. I think they will carry off his son first.

My husband and I have not had an easy time but we are comfortable and happy. We enjoy good health and life is fun. I don't know where we got the courage and the good sense to get out when we did, but I thank God for it. — MR. AND MRS. CONTENT

Dear Mr. and Mrs.: I am happy for you and sad for your husband's brother and his wife. Not ALL relatives in business have trouble. Only 90 per cent.

Confidential to Would You Cut Off Your Foot To Get Rid Of An Ingrown Toenail? Well, it makes about as much sense to divorce the father of your four children because he bought his mother a $250 coat without asking you. You've let him know how you feel, now forget it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The judge ordered the 18-year-old Hatcher to get his shoulder-length hair cut or pay the $85 fine.

Das Kapital

A century ago this week there was published the first volume of the most influential single work of economics ever written, "Das Kapital," by Karl Marx. Approximately half the world lives today under the rule of Communists and Democratic Socialists who claim to be intellectual descendants of Marx. There is no contemporary industrialized country where Marxist ideas have not made an appreciable impression both upon the climate of intelligent opinion and upon the nature of government policy.

It is easy enough to fault Marx. His labor theory of value is today an embarrassment to the new generation of Soviet econometricians and has long been rejected by most Western economists. Time itself has refuted his predictions about the increasing misery of the working class, the inevitability of capitalist economic crises, and the role of the working class as the grave digger of capitalism. Wide-scale private ownership of capital survives today in precisely those advanced industrial countries where Marx thought it would be wiped out first. Only in backyard, agrarian countries like Czarist Russia of 1917 and China of the late nineteenforties, have violent Marxist-led revolutions triumphed.

Marx's real greatness was as a master propagandist, who put his understandable moral outrage against mid-nineteenth-century capitalism in the form of a scientific system which claimed to do for economics what Newtonian mechanics had done for physics. Thus presented, Marxist "scientific socialism" had an appeal and a power far beyond all rival socialist systems.

Marx was fundamentally wrong because he underestimated the ability of capitalism to change peacefully and to alter those terrible conditions of work and life the recital of which bulks so large in "Capital." He did not understand that capitalism was only in its infancy in his time, and that it still had vast potentials for increasing the world's wealth. But in part because of his effective indictment and of the forces it set in motion, modern capitalism is a far different system from that which Marx knew and the much more abundant production of today is far more widely and justly distributed. Marxism - Leninism rules today in Russia and China because the needed changes were not made there in good time and in adequate measure.

Investment In Society

At a time when many find indications of conflict between business and the best interests of society, a recent move by some of the nation's major life insurance companies is an historic one. Announcement of plans by the insurance industry to invest a billion dollars in urban slums marks a departure from rather conservative investment practices generally followed.

Though the money will be invested primarily in real estate, this will be in an important sense an investment in society. The sum, small in relation to the total invested by the industry each year, is enormous in terms of potential impact on slum life, as well as on other businesses which might consider taking similar steps.

Since 1960 some 15 billion dollars

of insurance money has been invested in urban renewal spread over large areas of cities. The investment now planned will be concentrated, and its results will be easier to measure. This new approach is not only good social planning but wise business. Insurance money is heavily invested in urban real estate. Protection of it through rehabilitation of the core of urban areas is a sound move.

There is reason to hope that the insurance industry's commitment will encourage similar contributions in other areas of public concern: transportation, education, recreation, pollution and so on. The idea that private enterprise must be in conflict with social progress is plainly untrue. More and more, realistic approach demands cooperation for mutual advance.

Both aspects of life in Novosibirsk are reflected across the Soviet Union.

In some ways, this is a very sophisticated nation. The visitor can meet Russians who know more about his own literature than the visitor does himself; who are more familiar with classical music, who are generally more cultured in an Old World sense.

Such Russians are the people who patronize the 117,000 public

It also heightens the boredom problem. A paper plate makes a wonderful tray for that messy can of paint and provides a good resting place for the brush.

If you are a brunette, chances are your complexion is alive. If you're the outdoor girl type, you may have a golden-brown skin tone.

What is a good make-up plan for the brunette girl?

Make your foundation a golden-beige shade. This will tend to "brighten" your skin.

Choose a tawny color for your brush-on rouge. Highlight your cheeks and the tip of your nose with the brush-on rouge.

Use a brown color for your brows. Your liner and mascara should be a very dark brown.

Good eye shadow colors for you range from the brown shades to different shades of green.

An amber-pink lipstick is a good choice.

SCULPTURE HASSLE rivaling Chicago's controversial Picasso has unfolded at Anchorage, Alaska, where the William Seward monument honoring the man who purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867, was unveiled recently. Set at a focal point in downtown Anchorage, the memorial was sculpted from Alaskan marble by Gerald Conaway of the Alaska Methodist University staff. Comments ranged from "I think it's beautiful... whatever it is," to a newspaper that wondered why they memorialized "Mr. Seward's kidney."

50 Years After Revolution Russ Among World's Most Sophisticated

Editor's Note—On a comparative basis, Soviet citizens 50 years after the Bolshevik Revolution are among the world's most sophisticated, in terms of education and general culture. But they also have their share of social problems. Among the worst are boredom and drunkenness—both serious enough to warrant government concern as the Soviet Union phases its workers from the six-day to the five-day week. Another is occasional articles reviewing various aspects of Soviet life after half a century of Communist rule.

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The large display in the waiting room of Moscow's International Airport depicted the Siberian industrial city of Novosibirsk as a cultural center. Photos showed the ballet troupe, the opera company, the symphony orchestra, the Shakespearean theater and other sophisticated diversions for the one million residents on the Siberian frontier. It was an impressive display for foreign visitors.

About the same time recently, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda wrote that drunkenness was increasing in Novosibirsk.

The reason, Pravda said, was the habit of drinking on payday plus "the emptiness of leisure time and the inability to put free time to good use." Seven out of 16 persons interviewed by Pravda said they got drunk "out of sheer boredom."

Both aspects of life in Novosibirsk are reflected across the Soviet Union.

In some ways, this is a very sophisticated nation. The visitor can meet Russians who know more about his own literature than the visitor does himself; who are more familiar with classical music, who are generally more cultured in an Old World sense.

Such Russians are the people who patronize the 117,000 public libraries—the average Russian may read more books per year than the people of any other developed nation. They are the Russians who patronize more than 500 theaters, 128 concert halls and 132 art museums.

The Soviet Ministry of Culture, which likes to brag about these statistics, says there are more than 220 million attendances every year at "theatrical shows and concerts." The 970 museums of all types count 75 million visitors.

But boredom remains a major problem in this nation of 235.5 million which will be celebrating 50 years of Communist rule early in November. Related to it are other social problems such as broken families and juvenile delinquency.

Paradoxically, however, some of the same problems are aggravated by the reverse of idleness: the lack of spare time caused by inadequate public service facilities.

Waiting in line is the Russian way of life.

In an effort to provide more leisure, Soviet leaders are now switching most of the nation's 81 million non agricultural workers from a 41-hour week spread over six days to a five-day week of the same number of hours. The long weekend is being advertised as a boon of communism.

It also heightens the boredom problem.

A paper plate makes a wonderful tray for that messy can of paint and provides a good resting place for the brush.

Daylight Burglars At Work In Jersey

JERSEYVILLE — For the fourth time in less than one week, a Jersey County rural home was the target of daylight burglars Thursday afternoon. Sometime between one p.m. and 2:30 p.m., daylight burglars broke into the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Wendle Jr., in Elsie Township, Godfrey Rural Route, and carted away furnishings valued at more than fifteen hundred dollars.

A color television set, set, just purchased and installed in the country dwelling at a cost of one thousand dollars was the principal objective of the thieves. In addition, they also took a portable television set; four wrist watches, a sum of money, silverware and other items of value.

At the time of the break-in, Clement Wendle Jr., was working about the farm and discovered the burglary when he returned from the field and entered the house to get a drink of water. He immediately notified the office of Sheriff Adam DeScherlia at Jerseyville.

Two similar house robberies were reported Wednesday afternoon to the office of Jersey County Sheriff Adam DeScherlia. One of the daylight burglaries was committed at the country residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weaver, who live eight miles east of Jerseyville. The other occurred at the home of A. C. Christensen, near the Jersey and Greene county border northeast of Jerseyville.

At the Weaver residence, the burglars obtained $27 in bills from a wallet and tossed it on a bed. They overlooked $90 in additional bills in one of the folds of the purse.

They carted away one portable television set, one 410 shotgun, two 12 gauge shotguns, one man's wrist watch, a number of other watches, rings, tie clasps and a transistor radio.

The thieves refused to take $87.50 in United States Savings Stamps. They opened a chest of silverware but did not take it. They also rejected a carton of cigarettes, tools in the adjoining garage and other items.

Members of the Weaver family were absent from their home from 9 a.m. until after 4 p.m. Wednesday. The burglars broke a piece of glass in a rear door of the brick residence, reached inside and released the lock.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Gerald Naim and Deputy Sheriff Adolph Schultz investigated. They were en route home when they were advised by police radio to go to the Christensen home in northern Jersey county to investigate a similar break-in.

A check at the Christensen home revealed the thieves had stolen the contents of a piggy bank, approximately $5, but had overlooked $17 in coins in rolls nearby. They took a quantity of costume jewelry and an electric heater and carried a chest of sterling silver to an outside porch. They opened the chest, but abandoned it on the porch with all of its contents.

Local officials attribute the midweek break-ins to the same parties who burglarized the Mrs. Eldon Moore home in Fidelity Sunday morning between 9:30 and 11:20 a.m.

The loot obtained by the thieves at the Moore residence was extensive and was valued at more than $1,000. A new color television set, valued at $530, was the principal item taken from the Moore dwelling.

Mrs. Henn, 92, died at 12:45 p.m. Sunday at St. John's hospital in Springfield. Her husband Henry Henn died in Ashland in 1939.

Knife-Wielding Patients Threaten Car Salesman

A quick-thinking used car salesman battled two would-be auto thieves with a pair of pliers shortly after 6 p.m. Friday. Both suspects were caught and later identified as two patients from Jacksonville State Hospital on pass.

Former Alderman Dean Strubbe of 10 Sunnydale was in the process of showing a car to the two young men. One of the men pulled a knife out of his pocket and held it against Strubbe's throat.

Strubbe told investigating city police later that he noticed briefly that it was an ordinary table knife and pulled a pair of pliers out of his own pocket and struck both young men on the head.

Both suspects are expected to carry marks of the encounter for several days, one a large knot, the other an open cut.

City, county and state police searched the area near Lincoln Avenue and West Morton for quite some time. Jacksonville Airport sent a plane up to aid in the search.

A check with state hospital security authorities disclosed that no patients had been reported as escaped. Later, hospital security police reported two young men had just returned from a "pass" and fitted the description given by Strubbe.

Strubbe made positive identification of the two young men at the hospital about 8:45 p.m. City police identified the two as 16 and 22 year-old patients from Sangamon county. Names of the patients were not made available.

Both young men are expected to be charged at a later date.

Vehicle Safety Award Presented To Post Office

The Jacksonville Post Office Saturday received a Motor Vehicle Safety Award for meritorious safety performance during fiscal year 1967. The award was presented by Donald L. Swanson, Chicago Region Postal Director.

Vehicle drivers in the Jacksonville Post Office met the following criteria in achieving the award:

1. The accident, casualty, and cost rate per million miles driven did not exceed or was lower than the rate for the Region as a whole.

2. The Jacksonville Post Office maintained a no accident record for the second successive year.

Postmaster Phillip Day announced the news to his employees with special emphasis on the fine contribution which is being made by his courteous drivers. "Courtesy is the key to good vehicle operations and to patron respect which we have earned as symbolized by this award."

"Our objective," Postmaster Phillip Day said "is to achieve and maintain the goals of The President's safety program - U.S. Mission Safety 70." "This goal is to reduce all accidents by 30 per cent, by the end of fiscal year 1970." This year's objective on a nationwide basis is a reduction of accidents by at least 6 per cent.

The Jacksonville Post Office Fleet is part of a huge postal fleet which travels more than half a billion miles a year in moving tremendous loads of mail. Nearly half of the total employees in the postal field service use vehicles in their work.

"The safety record and the award received is a credit to our drivers," Postmaster Phillip Day stated "when you consider that postal vehicles must operate at peak traffic hours in our community."

In denouncing Goldberg's version of this offer, Hanoi said "this means that the United States would stop its piratical acts without reciprocity and bargains. This is an insolent and ridiculous allegation."

CHARGED WITH MURDER
MILWAUKEE (AP) - A 46-year-old Oak Lawn, Ill., man was charged Saturday with first degree murder in the stabbing of his estranged wife during what police said was an argument over reconciliation.

Police charged that Cooper stabbed his wife Patricia, 34, in the chest with a kitchen paring knife as the couple rode in an automobile Friday night.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—A man has been arrested on a charge of attempting to extort $3,000 from Harry (Skins) Taylor, chairman of the Illinois Republican County Chairmen's Association, after threatening to kill a member of his family.

Police Chief James May announced Saturday that the charge was placed Friday against Jerry L. Washburn, 26, a former employee in Taylor's firm, the Decatur Warehousing Co.

May gave this account: Taylor found a letter poked under the door of his office last Saturday saying that unless he left a package containing $3,000 a member of his family would be killed.

Taylor contacted police and left a dummy package at the place indicated but it was not picked up.

That night he received a telephone call that he had not followed instructions and was told to leave the money on an upper floor of the Star Hotel in Decatur. This dummy package was not picked up.

Thursday morning Taylor received a letter in the mails directing him to place the money at a different location in the hotel.

Taylor did not follow instructions, however, because he was in Eureka for the appearance of Ronald Reagan, governor of California.

May said Washburn was a resident of the Star Hotel and that his arrest was based on three pieces of evidence the chief declined to reveal.

He said Washburn worked for the Taylor firm about six months, lost his job a year ago and left the state. He said Washburn returned about six months ago, applied for his old job and was turned down.

Taylor also is chairman of the Macon County Republican Central Committee.

"I had no trouble spotting you," Behl told his mother, who was at the airport with a stepbrother, Donald Walker, also of Tuscola. Behl had exchanged pictures.

Behl's lifetime search for his mother ended three weeks ago when an elderly priest at the school where Behl had been placed 37 years ago told him he had been baptized in a church in Tuscola.

Behl grew up in Catholic schools where he remained until graduation. He never was adopted.

The 43-year-old Behl served in World War II. Through the years he kept up the search for his mother. He telephoned the Rev. Vincent Heraty of Forty Martyrs Roman Catholic Church in Tuscola who told him that as a 4-month-old infant he had been baptized in the church before the family moved to Minnesota. Records showed that Behl was born July 17, 1924 near Mattoon.

The successful telephone call to Father Heraty took place about the time of Mrs. Parrish's 65th birthday. Behl arranged for this weekend's visit. He now is an electrical engineer and has five children.

Behl planned to return to his home in Robbinsdale—a suburb of Minneapolis—Monday. But he assured his mother he would be back.

The Weather Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS STATE

Temperatures were in the upper 60s and into the 70s across Illinois Saturday as southwesterly winds brought relief from the recent taste of winter-like weather.

Thousands in the Chicago area flocked to outdoor recreation areas. A spokesman for the Cook County Forest Preserve District estimated some 100,000 persons used the preserve's picnic areas, bridle paths and golf courses.

The sunshine in the Chicago area was somewhat of a novelty after the rain and clouds of the past few days. Scattered traces of snow were reported in and around Chicago Wednesday and Thursday.

U.S. Weather Bureau records show the earliest snow for Chicago came Sept. 25 in 1928 and 1942.

The high reading across the state Saturday, 75, was reported at Moline, Quincy, Springfield and Vandalia.

Other temperatures were: Chicago 70, Champaign 73, Peoria 72 and Rockford 71.

Did You Know?

Why Morgan County is second to none in its safety program? It's because two of our local United Fund agencies are continually on the job preparing for any emergency that occurs.

Your Morgan County Red Cross last year:

—Certified 134 individuals in First Aid Classes?

—208 persons attended Water Safety Classes and out of this group 196 received certificates?

—Our local hospitals were furnished over 1,000 units of blood by donors through the Red Cross program?

—The Bloodmobile made ten visits to Jacksonville and 981 donors presented themselves?

Knife-Wielding Patients Threaten Car Salesman

A quick-thinking used car salesman battled two would-be auto thieves with a pair of pliers shortly after 6 p.m. Friday.

Both suspects were caught and later identified as two patients from Jacksonville State Hospital on pass.

Former Alderman Dean Strubbe of 10 Sunnydale was in the process of showing a car to the two young men. One of the men pulled a knife out of his pocket and held it against Strubbe's throat.

Strubbe told investigating city police later that he noticed briefly that it was an ordinary table knife and pulled a pair of pliers out of his own pocket and struck both young men on the head.

Both suspects are expected to carry marks of the encounter for several days, one a large knot, the other an open cut.

City, county and state police searched the area near Lincoln Avenue and West Morton for quite some time. Jacksonville Airport sent a plane up to aid in the search.

A check with state hospital security authorities disclosed that no patients had been reported as escaped. Later, hospital security police reported two young men had just returned from a "pass" and fitted the description given by Strubbe.

Strubbe made positive identification of the two young men at the hospital about 8:45 p.m.

City police identified the two as 16 and 22 year-old patients from Sangamon county. Names of the patients were not made available.

Both young men are expected to be charged at a later date.

SPACE STUDENTS

Sometime in the near future, Man will touch down onto the Moon's surface and, attired in his protective spacesuit, step out to walk that airless void.

Outer space itself is a hazardous and still-unknown realm. One microscopic meteorite penetrating a spacesuit could be disastrous. Cramped conditions in the space craft for long periods of travel time could impair a man's ability to function.

To acclimate the astronauts of today and tomorrow to these and many other related factors, the United States Government puts each trainee through a rigorous and never-ending training. More and more sophisticated practice and training methods are conceived and carried out across the globe: from the Panamanian jungles to the rocky slopes of Nevada, from underwater submergence tests to walking the Idaho flatlands in a spacesuit. All training is oriented to furthering the education in survival away from Earth while adding to the scientific knowledge of Man and his environmental adaptability.

It is a hard and demanding job. Each student knows, however, once in the environs of the new realm of space, his ability to function and bring back the information necessary, scientific and spatial, will be only as good as his training.

Further, behind him will come the new generations, following his pioneer footsteps for the long walk across the Universe and whatever lies beyond.

James McDivitt, who already has gone into the first realm of space, checks out in a Gemini simulator.

As Clifford Hopson, specialist in Petrology and Vulcanology, University of California, Santa Barbara, looks on, Navy Lt. Thomas K. Mattingly II, an astronaut since May, 1966, studies rock formations.

EXTORTION TRY MADE AGAINST HEAD OF GOP CHAIRMAN

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—A man has been arrested on a charge of attempting to extort $3,000 from Harry (Skinny) Taylor, chairman of the Illinois Republican County Chairmen's Association, after threatening to kill a member of his family.

Police Chief James May announced Saturday that the charge was placed Friday against Jerry L. Washburn, 26, a former employee in Taylor's firm, the Decatur Warehousing Co.

May gave this account: Taylor found a letter poked under the door of his office last Saturday saying that unless he left a package containing $3,000, a member of his family would be killed.

Taylor contacted police and left a dummy package at the place indicated but it was not picked up.

That night he received a telephone call that he had not followed instructions and was told to leave the money on an upper floor of the Star Hotel in Decatur. This dummy package was not picked up.

Thursday morning Taylor received a letter in the mails directing him to place the money at a different location in the hotel.

Taylor did not follow instructions, however, because he was in Eureka for the appearance of Ronald Reagan, governor of California.

May said Washburn was a resident of the Star Hotel and that his arrest was based on three pieces of evidence the chief declined to reveal.

He said Washburn worked for the Taylor firm about six months, lost his job a year ago and left the state. He said Washburn returned about six months ago, applied for his old job and was turned down.

Taylor also is chairman of the Macon County Republican Central Committee.

Washburn was held in the Decatur City Jail, pending arraignment on the charge of attempted extortion.

"I had no trouble spotting you," Behl told his mother, who was at the airport with a stepbrother, Donald Walker, also of Tuscola. They had exchanged pictures.

Behl's lifetime search for his mother ended three weeks ago when an elderly priest at the school where Behl had been placed 37 years ago told him he had been baptized in a church in Tuscola.

The 43-year-old Behl served in World War II. Through the years he kept up the search for his mother. He telephoned the Rev. The Weather Elsewhere

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS STATE

Temperatures were in the upper 60s and into the 70s across Illinois Saturday as southwesterly winds brought relief from the recent taste of winter-like weather.

Thousands in the Chicago area flocked to outdoor recreation areas. A spokesman for the Cook County Forest Preserve District estimated some 100,000 persons used the preserve's picnic areas, bridge paths and golf courses.

The sunshine in the Chicago area was somewhat of a novelty after the rain and clouds of the past few days. Scattered traces of snow were reported in and around Chicago Wednesday and Thursday.

U.S. Weather Bureau records show the earliest snow for Chicago came Sept. 25 in 1928 and 1942.

The high reading across the state Saturday, 75, was reported at Moline, Quincy, Springfield and Vandalia.

Other temperatures were: Chicago 70, Champaign 73, Peoria 72 and Rockford 71.

Vehicle Safety Award Presented To Post Office

The Superior Court jury found the corporation and driver Matthew Rodgers liable after nearly 10 hours of deliberation Friday. Judge Elvin F. Sheehy said the decision ended the longest civil trial in Sacramento history, lasting more than two months.

Two men were killed and a woman was severely burned in an accident involving the Corvete on July 18, 1965. Rodgers admitted liability but claimed the car's gasoline tank was placed to allow fuel to spurt into the passenger compartment in minor collisions.

More than $1.5 million in damages is sought by Mrs. Carol Badorek, 22, disfigured in the wreck, and in behalf of the dead victims: Mrs. Badorek's husband, Norman, and brother, Philip W. Dustman, driver of the car.

The jury is scheduled to meet Tuesday to decide how much money should be awarded.

The accident happened when Dustman slowed along the Yolo Causeway on Interstate 80 west of Sacramento while passing a minor accident. Rodgers' faster vehicle crashed into the Dustman car from behind.

"They did respond publicly and very harshly" to a similar proposal put forth by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg at the United Nations last week, Rusk noted. He spoke in a planese interview on his return from a week in New York meeting foreign leaders attending the U.N. General Assembly session opening.

The Ho Chi Minh regime rejected Goldberg's "perfidious maneuver" in a Sept. 26 statement in the official Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan.

Johnson used phrasing similar to Goldberg's in his Friday night speech at San Antonio offering to halt the bombing of North Vietnam "when this will lead promptly to productive discussion."

"We would assume that, while discussions proceed, North Vietnam would not take advantage of the bombing cessation or limitation," the President added.

In denouncing Goldberg's version of this offer, Hanoi said "this means that the United States would stop its piratical acts without reciprocity and bargains. This is an insolent and ridiculous allegation."

CHARGED WITH MURDER — MILWAUKEE (AP) — A 46-year-old Oak Lawn, Ill., man was charged Saturday with first degree murder in the stabbing of his estranged wife during what police said was an argument over reconciliation.

The husband, Thomas L. Cooper, appeared before County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr., who set bail at $25,000 and continued the case until Oct. 2.

Police charged that Cooper stabbed his wife Patricia, 34, in the chest with a kitchen paring knife as the couple rode in an automobile Friday night.

Brass Quintet To Open Concert Series Oct. 6th

The American Brass Quintet opens the 1967 session of the Jacksonville-MacMurray Music Association Friday evening, Oct. 6. The concert will be held in the Merner Chapel beginning at 8:30 p.m. An open reception follows the concert in McClelland Dining Hall.

An ensemble of two trumpets, a french horn, tenor and bass trombones, the Quintet is one of the pioneers in the rebirth of chamber music for brass.

Doubling as musicologists, the artists of the ensemble have done much study and research on style and performance practices of the pre-Bach periods, the source of a good part of the Brass Quintet's repertory. They have transcribed and brought to light many 15th, 16th and 17th century masterpieces and have recently had several editions of early music for Brass Quintet published.

Not overlooking their role as modern-day musicians, they maintain an interest in, and a strong commitment to contemporary composition. They were the first Brass Quintet to perform experimental works using live performances in conjunction with electronic music. Critics and musicians throughout the country have acclaimed their exciting and authoritative performances of both new and old music.

The American Brass Quintet was originally organized in 1957 to specialize in educational concerts. They made their concert debut in New York in 1960 and since then have appeared in 30 New York recitals as well as toured the United States and Europe.

They had the distinction of being the first brass quintet to appear as soloists with a symphony orchestra in New York's Carnegie Hall in April of 1967.

Four more concerts are scheduled in the series. Memberships are still available and can be purchased by contacting Mrs. Frederick James, Ivywood Drive. Cost is $7.00 for adults and $3.00 for students.

The remaining programs will be: Oct. 29, Northern Sinfonia Orchestra; Dec. 9, Nelson and Neal, internationally known-duo pianists; March 6, The After Dinner Opera Company and April 18, William Walker, Metropolitan Opera Baritone.

Mrs. George Clark Jr., 407 Pendik, is president of the Association.

SPACE STUDENTS

Sometime in the near future, Man will touch down onto the Moon's surface and, attired in his protective spacesuit, step out to walk that airless void.

Outer space itself is a hazardous and still-unknown realm. One microscopic meteorite penetrating a spacesuit could be disastrous. Cramped conditions in the space craft for long periods of travel time could impair a man's ability to function.

To acclimate the astronauts of today and tomorrow to these and many other related factors, the United States Government puts each trainee through a rigorous and never-ending training. More and more sophisticated practice and training methods are conceived and carried out across the globe: from the Panamanian jungles to the rocky slopes of Nevada, from underwater submergence tests to walking the Idaho flatlands in a spacesuit. All training is oriented to furthering the education in survival away from Earth while adding to the scientific knowledge of Man and his environmental adaptability.

It is a hard and demanding job. Each student knows, however, once in the environs of the new realm of space, his ability to function and bring back the information necessary, scientific and spatial, will be only as good as his training.

Further, behind him will come the new generations, following his pioneer footsteps for the long walk across the Universe and whatever lies beyond.

James McDivitt, who already has gone into the first realm of space, checks out in a Gemini simulator.

As Clifford Hopson, specialist in Petrology and Vulcanology, University of California, Santa Barbara, looks on, Navy Lt. Thomas K. Mattingly II, an astronaut since May, 1966, studies rock formations.

Taking the required eye examination, one of the many continuous tests given the astronauts, is James McDivitt.

Glow in Velvet

Velvet carvings will make the cocktail and dinner circuit this winter. Not since grandma's day were they treated so elegantly. Rich jewel tones make them glow for dancing and deeply etched tapestry, done in a remarkable manner, will set the party scene.

Travel Talk

by Thelma Bacon

A phone call to your airline or steamship office will tell you how much your transportation to Europe will be.

Hotel rates vary. A comfortable double room in an average hotel will be about $15. Without bath, it will be approximately 12% less.

You can eat better for less in Europe than in America.

Smaller, unpretentious restaurants and hotels offer a clearer picture of the country. In these small inns, breakfast may be included with your room.

Local sightseeing trips are reasonable. If you choose to drive, this, too, is reasonable. Your own valid driver's license is usually acceptable.

First timers abroad are often happier with a professionally-planned and escorted trip. That way, you relax and leave the sightseeing schedules to the tour guide. You are an expected guest wherever you go and will see the outstanding sights.

Brass Quintet To Open Concert Series Oct. 6th

The American Brass Quintet opens the 1967 session of the Jacksonville-MacMurray Music Association Friday evening, Oct. 6. The concert will be held in the Merner Chapel beginning at 8:30 p.m. An open reception follows the concert in McClelland Dining Hall.

An ensemble of two trumpets, a french horn, tenor and bass trombones, the Quintet is one of the pioneers in the rebirth of chamber music for brass.

Doubling as musicologists, the artists of the ensemble have done much study and research on style and performance practices of the pre-Bach periods, the source of a good part of the Brass Quintet's repertory. They have transcribed and brought to light many 15th, 16th and 17th century masterpieces and have recently had several editions of early music for Brass Quintet published.

Not overlooking their role as modern-day musicians, they maintain an interest in, and a strong commitment to contemporary composition. They were the first Brass Quintet to perform experimental works using live performances in conjunction with electronic music. Critics and musicians throughout the country have acclaimed their exciting and authoritative performances of both new and old music.

The American Brass Quintet was originally organized in 1957 to specialize in educational concerts. They made their concert debut in New York in 1960 and since then have appeared in 30 New York recitals as well as toured the United States and Europe.

They had the distinction of being the first brass quintet to appear as soloists with a symphony orchestra in New York's Carnegie Hall in April of 1967.

Four more concerts are scheduled in the series. Memberships are still available and can be purchased by contacting Mrs. Frederick James, Ivywood Drive. Cost is $7.00 for adults and $5.00 for students.

The remaining programs will be: Oct. 29, Northern Symphony Orchestra; Dec. 9, Nelson and Neal, internationally known-duo pianists; March 6, The After Dinner Opera Company and April 18, William Walker, Metropolitan Opera Baritone.

Mrs. George Clark Jr., 407 Pendik, is president of the Association.

Travel Talk

by Thelma Bacon

A phone call to your airline or steamship office will tell you how much your transportation to Europe will be.

Hotel rates vary. A comfortable double room in an average hotel will be about $15. Without bath, it will be approximately 12% less.

You can eat better for less in Europe than in America. Smaller, unpretentious restaurants and hotels offer a clearer picture of the country. In these small inns, breakfast may be included with your room.

Local sightseeing trips are reasonable. If you choose to drive, this, too, is reasonable. Your own valid driver's license is usually acceptable.

First timers abroad are often happier with a professionally planned and escorted trip. That way, you relax and leave the sightseeing schedules to the tour guide. You are an expected guest wherever you go and will see the outstanding sights.

ARENZVILLE SUBDIVISION—Tower View subdivision at Arenzville, located on the Virginia Road, will be open for inspection sometime in mid-October, according to a spokesman for the Greater Arenzville Development Corporation, promoters of the experiment in country-living.

Arenzville Does It Again

Residents Pool Funds For Building

Arenzville's done it again! But, you can bet they didn't get Bobby Weaver's O.K.

Some months ago, several of the residents began thinking about the expanding industrial facilities being developed in Jacksonville and Beardstown.

As Harold Nobis explained, "With all the new employees, we thought we could entice some of them, who might like country living, to come here and live with us."

So, with a little imagination, the Greater Arenzville Development Corporation was formed to buy land and build.

This approach to community self-help is not new for Arenzville though.

The ingenious Dutch developer, Batis Park after Sam Batis

daughter donated the land for the facilities. Later, members of the village pitched-in and with several local organizations built the community hall.

Just Natural
Thus, it was kind of natural for a Greater Arenzville Development Corporation to come along eventually. After all, everyone's got one, so why not Arenzville?

Six men put their noggins together last March, and with the help of 12 other Arenzville residents, filed corporation papers. Nobis is president of the board of directors; Edward Carls, vice-president; Tim Huey, secretary, and Don Wessler, treasurer.

Each of the 18 put a little in the kitty and purchased the Tower View addition, located within the Arenzville city limits on the north side of the Virginia Road overlooking the Big Indian creek valley.

Since the organization was formed, 15 new members have been enlisted.

Tower View addition includes seven lots, one house already constructed, a black-topped drive and turn-around, underground service and utilities, plus sewer and water.

More Possible
Nobis pointed to the east and explained that the corporation has an option on an additional 21 lots in a now adjacent empty field.

Arenzville, which recently dedicated a sewage disposal system, will also have a new junior-senior high school, scheduled to open next fall.

Who knows, if those city feelers keep rioting, Nobis and the Greater Arenzville Development Corporation may have to purchase another 20 lots.

Country living is beginning to look more and more attractive each summer.

Mrs. Robert Williams returned home from Passavant hospital last week.

Cricket, rugby and tennis are popular sports in the Cook Islands of the South Pacific. Tensions that build up—once vented in almost continued strife in the islands—find release in the hotly contested games.

AN OLYMPIC SIZE POOL will be housed in the new YMCA. Picture at top shows a view of the swimming pool area from outside. The large expanse of glass provides the south wall of the pool area. Below, the pool is now ready for the tile and other finishing touches. The pool was filled with water for a brief period last week to check for leaks and plumbing operation. The pool is expected to be among the first items on the completion list prior to Dec. 1.

Jacksonville has had a Y.M.C.A. since 1871, executive director Robert Mowry told the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club Thursday. During the first hundred years it has been primarily a youth center.

A membership campaign will begin soon, in anticipation of the Sherwood Eddy Memorial Y.M.

Lance Corporal Gayle Edward Stoneking has been home for a 10 day leave and returned Friday to Camp Margaret, Calif. His wife and son accompanied him home.

Both Lewis and Gayle are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stoneking of Frederick.

Sergeant and Mrs. Donnie Stoneking and family left Monday, Sept. 25, for their home at Fort Carson, Colo. after a two week visit here. They were honored at a potluck dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Palmer and family.

C.A. fall program which begins on Oct. 9. Activities will include gym classes, swimming instruction and recreation, youth clubs, instructional classes and other special interest programs, and adult activities.

Prior to the time this fall when the "Y" can move into its new facilities, the activities will be held in the Jonathan Turner Junior High gymnasium, the Illinois School for the Deaf swimming pool, and at 423 West State Street.

Interested persons in the community will be able to help offer "scholarships" to youth joining the "Y" through participation in car wash sales and other fund-raising events conducted by the youth. All youth memberships are subsidized by allocations from the Morgan County United Fund.

"We can't be everything to everybody, but we will attempt to serve our community in every way possible," Mowry said.

During the meeting, Fred Hammond and Robert Leach were inducted into Kiwanis membership.

Ernest Savage announced that 1967-68 travelogue tickets, now good for five programs, may be used for two additional bonus-travelogues during the winter months. The first program will be Oct. 4.

Everybody Plays Collector's Game

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Life is a collector's game.

Everybody has to play the game, whether he wants to or not. The problem is—what to collect? Shall it be stamps or dolls, wounds or portraits of old windmills, bruises or money? There are hundreds of choices. So many, many things to collect. But there is one thing you can't go through this world without collecting—memories. And nothing else man collects is so precious to him.

Your own collection is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when—

Airplane hostesses had so little to do they spent most of their time sitting in the seats and talking to the passengers.

A minister was more interested in getting the members of his congregation into heaven than in solving their problems on earth.

Ice skates had wooden runners instead of steel blades. There was more nepotism in Hollywood than in Congress. It was more fashionable for women to wear silver fox furs than milk.

One of the problems of motoring was putting up the car's inglass and fabric curtains when the weather turned cold. A heater for automobiles? It was only an inventor's madcap dream.

George Ade made the nation laugh by remarking that one of the nice things about wearing white shoes was that they didn't show frost.

Conservatives were more fearful of Socialists than Communists because most of them, after all, hadn't ever seen a real live Communist.

The idol of childhood was the brawny neighborhood iceman, who drove a horse and wagon and always had a small chip of free ice for any kid—even if the kid was too shy to ask for one.

Only wealthy people belonged to country clubs and played golf.

It was taken for granted in most families that a farmer's sons would grow up to be farmers and a blacksmith's sons would become blacksmiths.

In every small town you could see a local character who wore a wooden leg he had whittled himself.

Children and Negroes were supposed to be seen, not heard—to know their place and stay in it.

Any schoolmarm caught

stress attendance at Mass, among other things.

No changes have resulted from the protests, however.

"We're perfectly willing to listen to constructive criticism, but not to uninformed criticism," said the Rev. H. Robert Clark, assistant superintendent of archdiocesan schools.

The new series still is being used for sixth to eighth graders throughout the Chicago parochial system, and for the first to fifth graders in three schools, where it was introduced last semester on a pilot basis.

Bishop William E. McManus, superintendent of the system, defines the issue as whether parochial schools should "teach the Catholic faith's relevance to contemporary human problems."

Mrs. Richard White, a leader of the protesting group, says it has "no axe to grind on the racial side," but adds: "We feel that the books set class against class. They downgrade any man of means. They are anti-American and anti-Catholic."

The series, 10 years in the making, was developed by a number of Catholic teachers, and edited by three leading educators: the Revs. Gerard Weber and James Kilgallon of Chicago, and Sister Mary O'Shaughnessy of New Orleans.

smoking in public could kiss her job goodbye.

There were still so many Civil War veterans around that they looked down their noses at the Spanish-American war veterans as young upstarts.

When the doctor made a home call, he was never so busy he couldn't pause for a cup of coffee in the kitchen, take the small children on his knee, and awe them by letting them listen to his own heart beat through his stethoscope.

Come to think of it, almost everybody had more time to be courteous and kind and pleasant to one another then. They weren't so saddled by all kinds of urgencies.

Those were the days! Remember?

Oscar Smiths

Wed 50 Years

ROODHOUSE — A dinner at the Blackhawk in Jacksonville Sunday, Sept. 17, honored a well-known rural Roodhouse couple, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith, on occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary which fell Sept. 14. No celebration was held due to the fact that their youngest son, Major Philip E. Smith, remains a prisoner of the Red Chinese in Peking, China.

Attending the dinner were the following of the children and their families: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith and sons, White Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryder and daughter, Janet, Medora; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith and two daughters, Urbana; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Clinton, Ia.; and Timothy Smith of Macomb, Miss. Another son, James Smith of Church Falls, Va., was unable to be present, but called to visit with the group.

Mrs. Smith is the former Carrie McGhehey of Louisiana, Mo. The couple was married in Roodhouse by the Rev. Eldon Kidson, and have resided here all of their married life. They have ten grandchildren. Timothy Smith, young son of Maj. Smith, is staying with his grandparents since the illness and death of his maternal grandmother in Mississippi.

Roodhouse Notes
Mrs. Ernest Short and daughter, Miss Ardath Short, entertained friends Sunday at a luncheon at their home. Four of those present taught at one time with Miss Short in Dupon. Attending were Mrs. Henry Mosbacher, Jr., Mrs. Leland Stansell, Dupon; Mrs. Bill Wolvend and mother, Mrs. Elsie Tate, Columbia.

Nearly 3.25 million serious crimes, including 10,920 homicides, were committed in the U.S. last year, according to a report by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Religion Today

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — New religious teaching manuals, which were assailed as "anti-American and anti-Catholic" in a still-smoldering dispute in Chicago, are being used widely this fall in Roman Catholic schools across the country.

The uproar over the series grew out of its application of Christian teachings to specific problems and activity in society.

For example, a passage in a third-grade catechism reads: "Some people do not like the Rev. (Martin Luther) King. They say he is a troublemaker but, no matter what some people may say, he continues to tell everyone to keep on seeking justice. Rev. King is a brave Christian."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. George G. Higgins, director of U.S. Catholicism's social action department, says the protests showed that the Church's teachings about Christian work in the world are "just beginning to get through to many Catholics and that they are disturbed by it."

In any case, the new catechism for first to eighth graders, called "Word and Worship," is being used this fall in 6,000 schools in 125 dioceses, said a spokesman for the publishers, Benziger Brothers.

This is about half the Catholic schools in the country. The usage compares with 300 schools in 30 dioceses last year, when the newly developed series was just getting started.

"There have been a few backfire ripples here and there," the spokesman said, "but no large group protests as in Chicago."

In that big archdiocese, the series has been denounced by an organization called "Parents Concerned" as Socialist, pro-Communist and as failing to

Cereals Are Nourishing

By GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Food Editor

Q — My mother always insisted hot cereal was better for us kids than cold cereals. Now my two little boys won't eat hot cereals. They want the ready-to-eat kind in individual boxes. Should I insist on hot cereal?

A — There is an old wives' tale that hot food is more nutritious than cold food. This is not true since all food is about the same temperature when it reaches the stomach. Whether a food is eaten hot or cold has nothing to do with its nutritional value. The new modern high protein, ready-to-eat cereals contain as much protein and, in some cases, more than hot cereals, and this is true of all other nutrients.

Q — My boy likes to eat his breakfast cereals with ice cream instead of milk. Does he get enough nourishment this way?

A — He gets enough nourishment either way. If he is very active, he can burn up the excessive calories, fat and carbohydrate in the ice cream. When he grows up he will be better nourished with whole milk since he will not put on fat.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

By STELLA

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1 — Born today, you have a mind continuously taken up with the assimilation of ideas both old and new. Knowledge even for its own sake is very important to your happiness; for your frame of mind takes a decided dip toward depression whenever your thoughts are not busy chewing over some idea, concrete or abstract, or gnawing on some problem of this century or some other. You would make an excellent teacher, particularly of history, or research worker.

You have tremendous, though often hidden, depths of understanding. You generally know what makes others "tick," though you may not always let them know that you know. Such reticence on your part may at times lead people to think that you have no awareness at all of their situation or circumstances, but the fact is that you prefer to keep your understanding to yourself for fear of seeming to interfere.

Live and let live could be said to be your motto. You have extremely high standards of behavior — but it doesn't disturb you an iota if those about you have completely different ones. Because of your "hands off" policy where other people are concerned, you may be thought cold — but here again it is purely that you keep your opinions to yourself.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, October 2
LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) — Take nothing for granted today in profession or business. A day which may not be at all what it appears to be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Don't allow partners — business or domestic — to talk you into making a change that you're not really in favor of.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Combine your ideas with those of another for best results. Benefits should multiply if you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Don't be so busy taking care of other people's business that you neglect your own. A good day for the Capricorn with a head on his shoulders.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — An educated guess may well take you further today than would a stoppage of labor while you find out definitely what to do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21) — Begin the new work week with a cooperative attitude. You'll not get far if you insist on having things all your own way.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20) — The best way to get ahead is to realize your own shortcomings. Don't set your goals higher than your talents.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Stick to old-fashioned methods if you must — but don't deny others the right to try new ways and means.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Business before pleasure today. There will be much temptation to let business or profession fend for itself, but the wise

Gemini will persist.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Conduct all business or professional conversations in such a manner that you'll gain nothing but respect.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — It's important to your future that you not allow yourself to show temper or even displeasure today. Give the appearance of satisfaction.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — You can recover last week's losses easily today if you go about it methodically and without emotionalism. Keep calm, cool, and collected.

Flag Flies For Freedom But Independence Absent

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

GABERONES, Botswana (AP) — The flag of Botswana flies proudly in Gaberones, denoting freedom from colonial rule, but this country in southern Africa is far from independent a year after Britain's Union Jack came down.

After 81 years under the British, this dust-bowl territory almost as big as Texas hoisted its new flag Sept. 30, 1966, swore in Seretse Khama as president and faced the problem of feeding more than 100,000 persons near starvation.

Few other emerging black African states celebrated independence against such odds.

"We continue to be economically dependent on outside aid and lack development funds," Khama says. "We must overcome this problem by insuring our internal security and creating confidence which will in turn inspire investment and the granting of development funds needed to help us achieve economic independence."

The 550 Botswanas, as they are known, are among the most backward people in Africa. Less than 25 per cent are literate in the Setswana language. Three-quarters of the populace live at subsistence level on a semiferile strip of land fringing the Kalahari Desert.

Years of drought have whittled the cattle herds whose export accounts for over half the country's income.

The second largest money spinner is low-wage African labor exported to the gold mines of adjoining South Africa. More than 35,000 men migrate annually, bringing back pay worth $1.68 million.

The threat of mass starvation forced the new government to organize countrywide food handouts to 180,000 people.

The territory at independence had 12 miles of tarred roads, less than 3,500 motor vehicles, 2,300 telephones, fewer than 5,000 radio sets, 9 high schools, 17 doctors to tend its half-million population and three inadequate hospitals.

The country's 400-mile railway, linking South Africa with Rhodesia, is owned and staffed by Rhodesia.

The return of seasonal rains this year has alleviated some suffering.

Fifty American Peace Corps workers and a like number of British volunteers are engaged in education, farming instruction and community development schemes.

While Botswana's immediate future doesn't look bright, there are some hopeful signs.

Small copper and nickel deposits have been discovered in the northeast. The Rhodesian Selection Trust, a mining group operating mainly in Rhodesia, plans investments.

Financier Harry Oppenheimer, head of the Anglo-American Corp. of South Africa, visited the country recently to discuss a potential diamond-producing area.

There are hopes that oil lies beneath the drifting sands of the Kalahari Desert.

Ashland Club Plans Tour Of Clayville Inn

ASHLAND—The Clayville Stagecoach Stop will be the meeting place for the Ashland Woman's Club Tuesday, Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. A board meeting has been called by Mrs. Alf Anderson, president, for 1:15.

The business portion, board meeting, and program will be held in the Barn, where visitors sit on church benches salvaged from very old churches in the area.

Mrs. Emmet Pearson of Springfield will review the early history of the inn and rural life in Sangamon County. Dr. and Mrs. Pearson purchased Clayville several years ago and have restored it beautifully and authentically. It is an historical site of significance in Lincoln Land. The inn itself was built in 1834 and was one of the first brick buildings in Sangamon county. It was named in honor of Henry Clay.

Following the program, Mrs. Pearson will conduct a tour of the inn. The Craft Shop, on the grounds, will be open for anyone who cares to "browse."

Refreshments will be served from a very old table in the barn. Fall decorations will be used. Members are asked to make a donation for cookies for Boys Town. Hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. Elwill Mau, Mrs. Charles Aggett, Mrs. T. P. Leahy, Mrs. Armour Adkins, Mrs. Fred Walbaum, Mrs. Mae Schewe, Mrs. Reuben Boynton and Mrs. E. L. Beadles.

The program has been arranged by the Fine Arts committee consisting of Mrs. E. L. Beadles, Mrs. Donald Gainer, Mrs. Frances Newell, Mrs. Harold Farmer, Mrs. Russell Parkes, and Mrs. Elwill Mau.

HARDIN STUDENTS ENTERTAINED AT WIENER ROAST

Students at Hardin Business College were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hardin at their home, 800 West College avenue for a wiener roast and watermelon feast Sept. 27. Mike Kruthaupt, a student from Chandler-ville, provided music with his stereo tape recorder.

After the wiener roast, students played games and listened to records. A Ferris wheel ride was enjoyed at Nichols Park in the afternoon. After the ride Warren Heaton of Winchester and Mike Kruthaupt chose sides for a ball game.

Students attending from Jacksonville were: Susan Andrews, Sandra Busey, Dorothy Coveney, Shirley Enke, Judy Ferry, Dale Fearneyhough, Vicky Lankford, Carol Leifers, Karen Ingram, and Janet Young.

Others were Margaret Erwin, Kane; Mary Haglock, Virginia; Dave Bowman, Greenfield; Eileen Cain, Murrayville; Joyce Miller, Virden; Marilyn McNeely, Girard; Stan McEvers, Patterson; Peggy Pope, Medora; Wendy Taylor, Michael; Richard Meado and Roberta Reeves, Perry; Jack Wilder, Chapin; Barry Harvey and Danny Sims, Palmyra; Warren Heaton and Gail Whewell, Winchester; Mike Kruthaupt, Chandler-ville; Carl Roberts, Jr., Franklin; Linda Sarginson, Chesterfield; Judy Sandman and Dave Vortman, Bluffs.

The committee planning the outing was composed of Warren Heaton, Carl Roberts, Jr., Mike Kruthaupt and Karen Ingram.

Brush Beats Bathing In Care Of Your Dog

One of the worst things you can do to your dog is bathe him too often, warns University of Illinois veterinarian Dr. L. C. Helper.

Dr. Helper, assistant professor of veterinary clinical medicine in the College of Veterinary Medicine, explains that "too frequent bathing removes natural oils from the skin and coat, causing them to dry out. The dog soon starts itching and scratching, making himself more uncomfortable and opening the way for bacterial infection."

Unless a dog's coat becomes caked with dirt, or picks up an offensive odor, one bath about every two months is enough, Dr. Helper says.

Puppies are an exception, he adds. It is not a good idea to bathe puppies at all until they are well along toward maturity. It takes many hours for the fuzz next to the skin to dry, he explains, and a wet puppy can easily catch pneumonia.

Frequent brushing, on the other hand, is a must. Dr. Helper points out that a dog's coat virtually gets dirty only on, or very near, the surface. A vigorous brushing is just as effective as a bath in removing dirt and unlike a bath, does much to keep the skin and coat in healthy condition.

Dr. Helper adds a word of caution about the many coat conditioners now on the market. "Most of these are fine products," he says, "but they cannot replace the brush." U. of I. veterinarians recommend using both.

A dog owner should also take care in using conditioners, shampoos and soaps on his pet's coat since some animals are sensitive to these materials. Strong soaps and detergents are out. "Never use any soap on your dog's coat you wouldn't use on your own hair" is Dr. Helper's rule of thumb.

Unless the animal has a definite flea or other insect problem, avoid using a dog soap which contains an insecticide. The unnecessary chemicals often increase problems of dry skin and itching. If your pet seems to be irritated by any commercial product, better try another brand or stop using the product altogether.

Dr. Helper suggests dog owners adopt the official theme, "Deserve to Be Your Dog's Best Friend," by starting a program of daily brushing and regular—but infrequent—bathing.

Let them summon his ghost, some American Indians refuse to speak the name of any relative who dies.

BRIMFUL Farmers And Bankers Discuss Credit Needs Of Agriculture Today

By Jim Brim

With beans maturing so late this year many farmers are going to be later sowing wheat this fall than they expected to be.

Maybe it's just as well. The Hessian fly has been bad in wheat and for years we delayed planting in order that we would not have wheat far enough along to be infested by the fly.

As with so many diseases and insects if we don't have them for awhile we become complacent and begin to feel that we won't be bothered by them. This is not true. Anyway there will be little wheat planted before the fly free date this year.

Be sure you consider fall application of fertilizer—many already do. It helps avoid the spring rush.

Are you using a good variety of wheat? If you haven't changed for years it's time you looked at the variety trials. Be sure it is seed that has been cleaned and treated.

Now you should . . .
... Enjoy the garden - frost is on its way.

... Clean or replace furnace filters.

... Plant fall bulbs.
... Prepare to harvest corn.
... Watch football games.
... Look for colored leaves.

Get rid of those rats!
Clean up trash piles, weed beds, etc. Clean out sheds, chaff, cobs, etc. Take away their homes, feed them poison and store your grain in good tight bins so far as possible.

It just doesn't make good sense to raise a crop, then store it in a bin and let rats eat part of it and contaminate the rest.

Install lights outdoors where you will be needing lights this winter. As easy and convenient as it is to install lights and as economical as electricity is there is no excuse not to have light where you need it.

Work hard - the job you save may be your own.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS

with ED GARLICH

FACTS ABOUT OUR STATE
Illinois spreads out over 56,400 square miles and stretches 400 miles from top to bottom and over 200 miles from east to west at its widest spot.

Retail sales in Illinois totaled $18 billion in 1966. This ranks the state third in the nation. These sales were made by 95,000 retail outlets employing some 630,000 people. By the way, over 90% of the nation's mail order sales are made by Illinois based firms.

85% of the state's land area is devoted to farming. In 1966 Illinois ranked first among all states in production of soybeans and second in corn. Total cash receipts from farm marketings amounted to $2.8 billion dollars. This was made up of $1.5 billion from crops and $1.3 billion from livestock and put the state in third place in the nation in farm marketings.

FROM THE CORN CRIB
The advertising executive, landing at Kennedy Airport, said to the hostess, "Thank you for an enjoyable flight, Miss Hagen."

The executive's wife suddenly came up and said, "Ralph Cortwright, how come you know the hostess' name? I'll bet you've also got her phone number."

"Now darling," said the husband, "Don't be so suspicious. You have been on planes before. Each one carries the name of the pilot, copilot and hostesses on the inside cabin."

"Okay," said the wife, peering at him frigidly. "Give me the names of the pilot and copilot."

Terms Change Many Changes, Says President Of Rural Bank

Banking today is a far cry from what it used to be, with many new services being offered that were unheard of a few years ago, Robert L. Walton, Farmers and Merchants State Bank president, Bushnell, said Tuesday.

Speaking to the Illinois Bankers Agricultural Credit conference on the University of Illinois campus, he said many farmers have been unwilling or unable to accept the harsh and impersonal discipline of change.

Those accepting change, Rothenberger labeled as "innovators." This is the small group who are the forerunners of change. "Adaptors" — who produce and sell 65 percent of all food and fiber — are the next farmer group to accept change. This group makes up 15 percent of the nation's farmers.

"The imitators" are by far the largest farmer group and they do not welcome change," he said. Rothenberger identified the last group as the "losers."

These have failed to become students of the present or future. They will not stay in agriculture, he predicted.

"Significant changes have been taking place in American agriculture and will continue at a rather rapid rate," he said at the two-day conference sponsored by the Illinois Bankers association and the U. of I.

"Forces Of Change" He singled out five areas as major forces of change. (1) Midwest has industrialized where autos and roads have moved farm labor to industry.

(2) Super machines have cut labor requirements for corn 90 percent while yields have tripled.

(3) Livestock production has mechanized, especially in materials handling. (4) Technology has changed in herbicides, insecticides, corn and soybean varieties. (5) Foreign buyers have invaded markets for corn and soybeans.

"Agricultural resources are rapidly gravitating into relatively few, strong, capable hands," he said. "Large-scale specialization seems to be enveloping American agriculture. Fences are being removed, livestock systems are going from pasture to confinement systems."

Rothenberger said farming units will continue to expand and at an accelerated rate. Large-scale specialization, both in crop and livestock production, will be necessary with expanded units.

Labor shortages, he said, will force larger capital investments and new technology adoption. Top management will be the criteria of success. Quality and product standards will be demanded by an affluent consumer.

"In Constant Debt" Capital requirements will expand at a greater rate than earnings with outside capital coming into agriculture and the farmer will be in constant debt, he continued. Returns to management will be comparable to business and industry for the top operator.

He placed major emphasis on management, a shift from brawn to brain, from production to profit, from cash to perpetual credit.

"Farmers are going to look to their banker for services, projections and evaluations to minimize risk and maximize profit," he said.

Flameproof That Float
If you're in the float, decoration or exhibit-making business this fall for your club, church, school or society, flameproof your work for safety's sake and yours.

Flameproofing is a cheap insurance policy, says O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois safety specialist.

A fire could not only consume your many hours of hard work, but get a building as well, he reports. And there's always the possibility a life could be lost when a building burns.

Use this formula to make your float, exhibit or decorations fire-resistant: To nine ounces of borax add four ounces of boric acid and one tablespoon of detergent. Dissolve in one gallon of lukewarm water.

Spray the solution using a hand-pump gun. Or soak flammable decorations in the liquid mixture.

Play it safe this year. Flameproof your hard work. You'll be glad you did and so will your city's firemen.

Farm Bureau To Discuss Policy Oct. 4

Roy VanGundy, Jr., chairman of the Morgan County Policy Development and Legislative committee, will preside Wednesday evening at the annual policy development meeting to be held in Farm Bureau hall.

It will begin at 8 p.m. "We are hoping for a large attendance," VanGundy said last week.

At these annual meetings members speak up to say what they want Farm Bureau to do during the next year. These suggestions are passed along to the resolutions committee of the Illinois Agricultural association, which reports at the annual meeting held each November.

Suggested topics, for discussion include crop and livestock reporting, marketing, adoption of metric system, increasing personal exemption from $600 to $1,000, the proposed constitutional convention, water and air pollution, agricultural imports and exports.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

OUTLOOK CHANGES FROM SCARCITY TO SURPLUS

The corn situation has made a sharp turnaround since a year ago. At that time, it appeared that most of the surplus was gone and that a shortage might develop — especially if the 1967 crop were short. The expected shortage did not develop, and the corn crop now ripening in the fields is a very tall one.

A year ago, it seemed that the carryover of old corn on hand October 1, 1967, might be only 500 million bushels—one fourth as much as 6 years ago. Now it appears that the carryover may be almost 900 million bushels. (Official figures won't be out until October 24.)

On the basis of conditions on September 1, the USDA estimated the corn crop at 4,694 million bushels. Added to the carryover, this amount would make a total supply of about 5,600 million bushels.

Domestic use and exports may total around 4.3 billion bushels, leaving 1,300 million bushels for carryover next fall (1968).

FEED is still the big item in corn use. The amount used for feed in the year ending October 1 apparently was almost 3.4 billion bushels. For the year ahead, feed use may take 3.5 billion bushels. The number of livestock and poultry to be fed may not change much; but with lower prices for corn this year, farmers may give more second helpings.

More Exports, Maybe In 1965-66, exports of corn surged to a spectacular high of 670 million bushels. But that was because of poor grain crops in several foreign countries in 1965. In 1966, the foreign countries had bumper crops, and our exports of corn shrunk to about 450 million bushels. Crops in other lands do not seem to be quite so good this year, so exports may increase — perhaps to around 550 million bushels.

Industrial use and seed requirements do not change much and will be near 250 million bushels. This amount, plus 550 million for export and 3,500 million for feed, would make the total disappearance of 4,300 million bushels that we mentioned before.

If the carryover a year hence is around 1,300 million bushels (as now seems likely), most of it will probably be under price support. But farmers will not put large amounts under price support unless market prices are below the net loan level for at least a few months. If farmers put enough corn under loan, prices will rise several cents above the loan rate next spring or summer.

About half of the present 900-million bushel (more or less) carryover of old corn is under price support. Of the corn under price support, about one-fourth was corn from 1964 and 1965 under resale loans; three-fourths was corn from 1966 and previous crops that had been delivered to the CCC.

Corn yields will be especially high in Illinois this year. Furthermore, perhaps two-thirds of our corn will not be eligible for price support. These conditions may tend to hold down prices in Illinois.

4-H Club Week-It's Big, Booming

But that's just one way of describing 4-H in Illinois, according to Morgan County Extension Adviser George Trull. Another way would be to tell about Illinois' 85,000 4-H members, its 8,500 adult leaders and its several hundred thousand alumni.

4-H is a practical, out-of-classroom educational program started 52 years ago. The program is sponsored statewide by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. County extension advisers conduct activities at the county level.

Historically, 4-H has been the strong arm in developing America's agricultural success saga.

When the first 4-H Clubs were formed, educators saw the 4-H program as a stepping-stone to improve farming and home-making practices. But many farmers liked their old way of doing things. They resisted change. However, they did consent to letting their sons try out "those fancy, new ideas."

Thus, 4-H received its meager beginnings and blessings. County extension advisers found they could best reach the farmer through his son—and by demonstrations.

It was this door marked "4-H" that first introduced purebred livestock and through which new seed varieties, cultural practices and insect and disease control methods were tried and proven.

During the early years, strong emphasis was placed on traditional 4-H projects—livestock and crops for the boys; cooking and sewing for the girls.

Then changes came about on America's rural scene. No longer were farmers reluctant to accept new ideas. These "new-fangled ideas" put more meat on the table and money in the bank.

Population shifted from predominantly rural to urban. Today, less than 10 percent of America's farm youth will go back to the farm. The rest must find full-time employment elsewhere, in towns and factories, businesses and bureaus.

These two changes brought on new interests and challenges for youth. 4-H met them. It offered projects and activities that indirectly gave vocational and career guidance to young people.

Fast growing project areas include arts and crafts, automotive care and safety, home improvement, baby sitting, bicycling, photography, gardening, geology, electricity, veterinary science and others.

In each project area, 4-Hers find opportunities to use their leadership and public-speaking talents. The nationwide program recognizes the value of research and helps its members learn the decision-making process.

4-H in the nation is more than 2.4 million members strong and here in Morgan County there are more than 600 enrolled in 34 local clubs. Eighty volunteer men and women assist extension advisers in serving as volunteer local leaders.

It's big, booming. Become a part of 4-H. Join during National 4-H Club Week, September 30 to October 7.

Area To Lead State In Corn Production
Southwestern Illinois will have a whopping corn harvest, according to the preliminary estimate of the Illinois Crop Reporting service.

Last year drought and heat cut the corn crop away down in this district, for an average of 75 bushels per acre and a total yield of 85 million bushels. Last week the district yield was estimated at 110 bushels per acre, and an unbelievable 143 million bushel crop.

The state estimate is 101 bushels per acre. The soybean crop will be three bushels better than last year, the report said. It ran 30 bushels per acre last year and 33 bushels this year.

Wheat yields in the district for 1966 and 1967, by counties, follow:

A Red Shirt moves a load of bombs down the flight deck.

Bombs are hoisted into position beneath the aircraft by the Red Shirts.

Their official title is aviation ordnancemen. The pilots who fly air strikes over Vietnam call them, affectionately, "Red Shirts".

On the attack aircraft carriers serving with the U.S. Navy's Attack Carrier Strike Force 77 in the Gulf of Tonkin, these men have the awesome responsibility of arming each plane for its assigned mission.

To do this, varied armament and wing-racks are needed for varied targets. Working 12-18 hours per day, rising hours before the pilot briefing begins, these men change bomb racks with each flight. They trundle the ship's length with 250, 500, 750, 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombloads and somehow, every ninety minutes, have a fully-armed flight ready for launching.

With anywhere from 8 to 10 flights per day, the men are continually on the move. Every third night, with all flights in, the carrier will be resupplied from an ammunition ship. The Red Shirts are there, checking each piece of ordnance carefully before moving the pallets into position for easy accessibility when re-arming of the planes begins again.

These Red Shirts live with danger each day, but their courage is automatic in the face of any emergency. During the recent U.S.S. Forrestal disaster, these men rushed into the inferno to rescue trapped pilots, kept fire hoses running, threw live bombs overboard and, below decks, fought through smoke-filled compartments to minimize any danger from above.

Red traditionally means danger, but the red a combat pilot sees moving about his plane, shown in these pictures aboard the U.S.S. Hancock, is something he knows as security: the security the Red Shirts deliver in their job as ordnancemen.

Lt. Cmdr. P. D. Barrish looks on as the ordnancemen give him the "Ready To Go" signal after final arming.

A 750-pound bomb breaks loose and skids across the flight deck. Within seconds, the Red Shirts move out, bring it to a stop and disarm it.

Once the armament is in place, the delicate job of making each unit "live" is performed.

A Red Shirt guides a fully-loaded plane out of its park position and down the flight deck towards the launching area.

YESTER YEAR

When Virginia Was Young

By GRACE T. HOLMES

There was once, many years ago, when a small white monument marked the resting place of an old and much loved citizen, Mike Fahey. He and his wife Bridget are resting in the Potter's field in Walnut Ridge cemetery. Many with grand monuments have never given the happiness Mike gave as he traveled over town with his donkey hitched to his "slop cart." His marker has fallen and is covered with earth.

Children followed his cart and oftentimes one of them got to sit beside him on the narrow seat of his cart. They cared not that the cart was not smelling of roses, what they liked was that kind, smiling face beneath his wide-brimmed black hat and telling wonderful stories in his Irish brogue. And the little donkey plodding along toward Mike and Bridget's log-cabin home.

One of our citizens remembers that her mother who lived in the Fahey neighborhood, told of going over and cooking food for Mike and Bridget when they were ill and she was 12 years of age. That was 76 years ago. Many of the children who enjoyed their associations with Mike, his donkey and cart have joined him in the great beyond.

The Canning Factory
In the 1890s, Virginia had a thriving canning factory, owned by Charles Wilson and E. E. Brass. It was located on the southeast corner of land now owned by Mrs. Glenn Birnbaum. A road ran along the east side of the ground and an east-west highway ran from Beardstown to Springfield on the south of the land.

The factory was a one-story

October, 1867
It is estimated 30,000 people attended the Wisconsin State Fair at Madison Friday. The exhibition is proving a great success.

Wednesday night, as the down train on the Jeffersonville road was taking supper at Jeffersonville, Ind., some graceless scamp stole the locomotive and ran it ten miles down the road, where it was abandoned.

The corner stone of the Quincy bridge was laid with appropriate Masonic ceremonies on Wednesday. The various Masonic bodies represented were Hannibal and Palmyra, Mo., Mt. Sterling, Mount Station, Quincy, Quincy and Chicago, about 1,000 all told.

The Central Iowa Fair, at Des Moines, closed Thursday, having proved a real success. The Rochester Advertiser insinuates that the Buffalo corner has a dead body, from which a handsome income is realized, by finding it in the water every day or two, and then holding an inquest over it.

The weather this week has been so clear and pleasant at Omaha that the sanitary condition of the city has materially improved. The cholera, which only existed in a few filthy boarding-houses, has entirely subsided.

The citizens of Toronto are making arrangements to present Jefferson Davis with a residence. He is expected to arrive there this week. A suit is pending in Missouri, brought by a lobby agent against a member of the legislature, for neglecting business for which he was paid $11,000.

An industrious person has discovered that in Andrew Johnson's short speech at Antietam he used the pronoun "my" ten times and "I" five times, while in Mr. Lincoln's address at Gettysburg neither of these words occur.

—Harper's Weekly.

MIKE FAHEY, a genial Irishman, collected garbage in Virginia in his "slop cart" years ago. The box would hold either liquid or solid garbage and upon arrival of the pig pen it was an easy matter to take off the lid, unhitch the donkey and empty the box by tilting it backwards.

A recent visitor to the Emerald Isle says he saw many of these carts—identical with the one pictured here, donkey, harness and all.

brick building and a goodly number of young and adult persons brought their lunch buckets and spent the day preparing tomatoes and corn for processing.

Mr. Wilson grew thirty acres of tomatoes and sweet corn was grown on the R. W. Mills farm nearby. Produce was hauled to the east front of the factory and the workers who sat at long tables prepared it for canning. After cans were filled, they were placed in a large steam vat with a heavy metal cover securely fastened down. A small lid on the top of each

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:
At least two hundred editors will go on the Rocky Mountain railroad excursion, which will leave Chicago Oct. 7.

A special session of the Morgan county court was held on Monday and Tuesday, to open the bids received for the construction of the new court house. The contract was awarded to Chas. R. Underwood, Esq., of Shelbyville, at $147,000. We learn that the work on the foundation is to be commenced immediately.

The grand jury have got through with their business and adjourned. We learn a large number of indictments have been found, chiefly for selling liquor without a county license. The last two days of the county fair witnessed large crowds in attendance and by far the most interesting part of the exhibition. On woolen goods, Capps, McDonald & Co. received six first premiums, and the Home Manufacturing Co. received seven first and two second premiums. F. M. Morton, Isaiah Strawn and James G. Strawn each received a large number of premiums on thoroughbred stock.

The continued drought has caused our woolen factories to close operation for want of water. The water in the new railroad well has also, we learn, been exhausted. From the Beardstown Illinoisian-Star Drought is being complained of everywhere. The Steamer Illinois, so well known on this river, blew up at St. Louis, last Friday. The boiler was blown across the levee, a distance of one hundred feet. It is feared that several persons were killed, as they were missing after the explosion.

The man that was under bail for horse stealing sloped last week for parts unknown, leaving somebody with the bag to hold, or bail to pay. The man that was tried at this term of Court for stealing a steer, goes north on a four year term. Expensive traveling.

Our citizens were regaled Tuesday by a divorce suit, decidedly juicy. Fish are abundant here now, any kind you want. From the Carrollton Gazette:

The proprietors of the Carrollton Woolen Factory have transacted more business in this than any former season; the reason is their goods are genuine, not counterfeit (Shoddy) and their prices are so low as to defy competition.

Let the City Council encourage home enterprises by improving the side walk leading from the Square to the Factory, so that timid ladies will not be afraid of venturing in that direction.

A Mrs. Milligan, now a resident at the poor farm, wishes to know of the residence of her brother—Hall. She also is desirous of getting a situation in some good family to do general housework.

can was made with a hole in it and this had to be soldered by hand. After the cooking was completed cans were piled outside to cool. After cooling, the labels were applied.

The brand of the tomatoes was "Royal Red." They enjoyed a well-established market.

Mr. Wilson was manager of the factory and Mr. Brass the engineer.

Appendicitis Victim
Back in the 1890s, a trip to the hospital for an operation was tantamount to a funeral. One of Virginia's beloved young people became seriously ill and the doctors agreed that an operation was necessary. Miss Margaret Mae Black was the victim of what later was known as "appendicitis." She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Black. Mr. Black who was a lieutenant colonel in the cavalry in the civil war, died in 1896, the year of Mae's death. Before going under the anesthetic her words were: "If I die, I will be with papa and if I live, I will be with mama."

She passed on and her monument bears these words — "We Loved Her." Hers was the first known case of appendicitis in this city. The story was that grape seeds had lodged in her appendix. Few grapes were eaten in this area for some time.

The Pleasant Milkman
One of the fine rural Virginia families of the long ago, was Uncle Johnny and Aunt Mary Looker. They had two sons, Hampton and Allie, and their country home was always open to many young people from town. Among other things remembered is the well with a "sweep."

For many years, Allie was the milkman. Of mornings he hitched up his horse to an old buggy, in which he had placed two large milkcans, brought along his bell, tickets and measuring cup. Young people liked to take their bucket and ticket and rush out ready for the milk after hearing the bell. Allie liked children and always had time for some cheerful conversation. He sold twenty quart tickets for $1.00.

The Vegetable Man
In the long ago, Virginia had a greenhouse and a nursery owned by Uncle Andy and Aunt Ann Reither. The greenhouse was located west of the residence and nearby was a small rose garden. A block east was the nursery and "truck patch." In season, Uncle Andy hitched his horse to a small spring wagon and early in the morning went to the truck patch and loaded up with all kinds of fresh vegetables. He usually came home with an empty wagon.

They had small shrubs and trees and a number of flowers, among them beautiful roses. Everybody had a yard fence and often I found a pretty rose on our gate post, left there by Bert as he passed by. Uncle Andy always wore a white shirt and Aunt Ann took pride in always having one ready for him.

They had a parlor organ and two girls who were relatives made their home with them. On Sunday afternoon, when Lillie played the organ and Susie sang, neighbors came in to enjoy the music. Susie possessed one of the sweetest soprano voices seldom heard. Heavenly music is more beautiful since she has been there.

TRADITIONAL BOAT LAUNCHINGS may have to be scrapped if the nautical trend goes toward hydrofoils like this one, whose still-like planes are not very well adapted for sliding down the ways. This craft, entering the water before Navy trial runs in Seattle, is powered by a Borg-Warner waterjet pump, which sucks up water through the rear struts and pumps it out with 24,000 lbs. of thrust to drive the boat at more than 40 m.p.h.

South's opening call of four hearts is not recommended. We favor opening this type of hand with one heart only. Sometimes this lets your opponents get into successful competition but there are many more times when a four heart bid gets you too high or keeps you from getting to a slam. This time four hearts should have worked like a charm in spite of North being void of the suit.

West opened the king of diamonds. South took his ace and proceeded to cash dummy's three top spades in order to discard his deuce of diamonds. Then he ruffed a diamond to get back to his hand and played his king of hearts. East won with the ace and led the three of clubs to his partner's king. West returned the ten and East was in again.

East played his ten of spades and South had no way to keep West from making his ten of trumps. If he ruffed low West would cash it immediately. If he ruffed high West would make it later on.

"Beautiful defense!" said West. "You timed everything exactly right."

We agree with West's analysis of the defense. East had to lead the low club when he did. West had to return a club and East had to lead his fourth spade exactly when he did lead it.

We don't agree with South's play of the hand. He started out correctly by cashing dummy's three high spades and discarding his losing diamond. His next play was where he went wrong. Instead of ruffing a diamond he should have led dummy's last spade. Then, when East played the ten South would discard a club. Dropping the first club on the losing spade would have forestalled the eventual establishment of West's ten of trumps as a winner.

A—Bid three no-trump. This is a definite underbid but if a slam is possible the chances are that your partner will bid again. After all, you have carried him to game, even though he has shown a minimum hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding three clubs, your partner bids two spades over your two hearts. What do you do now?

ARENZVILLE SUBDIVISION—Tower View subdivision at Arenzville, located on the Virginia Road, will be open for inspection sometime in mid-October, according to a spokesman for the Greater Arenzville Development Corporation, promoters of the experiment in country-living.

Arenzville Does It Again

Residents Pool Funds For Building

Arenzville's done it again! But, you can bet they didn't get Bobby Weaver's O.K. Some months ago, several of the residents began thinking about the expanding industrial facilities being developed in Jacksonville and Beardstown. As Harold Nobis explained, "With all the new employees, we thought we could entice some of them, who might like country living, to come here and live with us."

So, with a little imagination, the Greater Arenzville Development Corporation was formed to buy land and build.

This approach to community self-help is not new for Arenzville though.

The ingenious Dutch developed Batis Park after Sam Batis

daughter donated the land for the facilities. Later, members of the village pitched-in and with several local organizations built the community hall.

Just Natural

Thus, it was kind of natural for a Greater Arenzville Development Corporation to come along eventually. After all, everyone's got one, so why not Arenzville?

Six men put their noggin together last March, and with the help of 12 other Arenzville residents, filed corporation papers. Nobis is president of the board of directors; Edward Carls, vice-president; Tim Huey, secretary, and Don Wessler, treasurer.

Each of the 18 put a little in the kitty and purchased the Tower View addition, located within the Arenzville city limits on the north side of the Virginia Road overlooking the Big Indian creek valley.

Since the organization was formed, 15 new members have been enlisted.

Tower View addition includes seven lots, one house already constructed, a black-topped drive and turn-around, underground service and utilities, plus sewer and water.

More Possible

Nobis pointed to the east and explained that the corporation has an option on an additional 21 lots in a now adjacent empty field.

Arenzville, which recently dedicated a sewage disposal system, will also have a new junior-senior high school, scheduled to open next fall.

Who knows, if those city fellers keep rioting, Nobis and the Greater Arenzville Development Corporation may have to purchase another 20 lots.

Country living is beginning to look more and more attractive each summer.

Mowry At Kiwanis

Jacksonville has had a Y.M.C.A. since 1871, executive director Robert Mowry told the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club Thursday. During the first hundred years it has been primarily a youth center.

"We now have the beginnings of a different Y.M.C.A. We will now serve the total needs of family programming, including both youth and older persons," Mowry said.

A membership campaign will begin soon, in anticipation of the Sherwood Eddy Memorial Y.M.

C.A. fall program which begins on Oct. 9. Activities will include gym classes, swimming instruction and recreation, youth clubs, instructional classes, special interest programs, and adult activities.

Prior to the time this fall when the "Y" can move into its new facilities, the activities will be held in the Jonathan Turner Junior High gymnasium, the Illinois School for the Deaf swimming pool, and at 423 West State Street.

Interested persons in the community will be able to help offer "scholarships" to youth joining the "Y" through participation in car wash sales and other fund-raising events conducted by the youth. All youth memberships are subsidized by allocations from the Morgan County United Fund.

"We can't be everything to everybody, but we will attempt to serve our community in every way possible," Mowry said.

During the meeting, Fred Hammond and Robert Leach were inducted into Kiwanis membership.

Ernest Savage announced that 1967-68 travelogue tickets, now good for five programs, may be used for two additional bonus-travelogues during the winter months. The first program will be Oct. 4.

LOCAL LIONESS CLUB DINNER AT WELLS HOME

A spaghetti dinner was prepared by Betty Wells. Following the dinner, a short business meeting was held with the treasurer's report given by Margaret Brewer. The birthdays of Lucille Eberhardt and Grace Furry were recognized.

The floral centerpiece, designed by Lucille Walters, was presented to Betty Wells. Grace Furry and Betty Wells served as program chairman.

Prizes were won by Ruth Hoagland, Ann Knowles and Lucille Walters. Door prize was awarded to Ruth Hoagland.

The next meeting will be held at the Beef and Bird October 26.

We, The Women

Sexual 'Togetherness' Can Be Carried Too Far

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I just could not tell whether it was a boy or girl.

It was skinny. It wore shorts, a T-shirt sneakers. And that same jawlined bobby hair by which Dr. Timothy Leary seems to be asserting the Freudian thesis that males are endowed with feminine qualities as we are endowed with masculine ones. Not that I object to this Viennese formulation. I think it's splendid for males to claim the female right to weep when they're unbearably hurt just as I think women should claim the male right to fight when we're unbearably bullied.

On the other hand, our revolted youth (and in this case revolting, too) can overdo this sexual "togetherness." Because all I can tell you about that it of anonymous gender is that it was 15 years old. And that I know only because the adult who paid its breakfast check hissed at it. "It's disgusting for a 15-year-old child to slurp up orange juice like that."

Not that I cared how old it was. And for other square ancients among us who are as bored as I am with revolted youth's confusion of transvestism with Dr. Freud's compassionate permission of weeping to wounded men, I've culled some comments recently made by Dr. John L. Schimmel of the William Alanson White Psychoanalytic Society.

"In our country," he told a meeting of his colleagues, "there are three cultural factors which cause difficulties in the sexual area. First, our egalitarian ideal looks to a denial of actual difference between the sexes, imposing on both unrealistic expectations and standards of performance. Second, the ideals of materialism have become incorporated into sexual expectations and judgments. And lastly, sexual performance is viewed in the context of the American proclivity for making things work, for know-how, for function — like plumbing."

I've not quoted Dr. Schimmel for our hermaphroditic young. I've quoted him for you and me. I've quoted him so we won't be scared to remember the answers we were given when we woke up in delivery rooms long ago to whisper feebly, "Is it a boy or is it a girl, doctor?"

For despite the Gallic nonchalance of "Vive la difference!" the difference between the sexes remains quite real. So vive la realite!

Religion In The News

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Nominal Christianity has had it."

That's the stark assessment of present-day church life voiced by a leading Methodist theologian, the Rev. Dr. Albert Outler. Others have sounded similar views.

They call for firmer commitment to basic doctrine and its demands, and they challenge what they consider a rash of lax departures from it to appeal to passing, modern outlooks.

"The time may have come for theology to be more concerned with the truth of the Christian faith than with courting the elusive modern man," says the Rev. Dr. William Hordern, a United Church of Canada scholar.

There also is a growing conclusion that the Church is entering a period when its character and makeup will require tougher dedication to its teaching, in an atmosphere of much disbelief.

"In the new era—and it has started already—phony Christians will be recognized as phony," Roman Catholic Archbishop Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio told a recent gathering there.

In this connection, two tendencies, cited as widespread problems in recent church life, have drawn increasing fire from various religious leaders:

—The casual apathy of many churchgoers toward doctrine and its implications for conduct.

—This indifference, and vagueness about specific belief, has been brought out in numerous studies.

—The recent splurge of novel, iconoclastic approaches to faith, often by some theologians themselves, such as the coiners of the "Death of God" label for the modern technological age.

Both approaches are producing a backlash, however, and also signs of a countertrend, resisting the casual, complacent type of churchmanship and the scaling down of doctrinal criteria.

Noting the flurry of assaults on classic Christian beliefs, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, told its central committee meeting in August on the island of Crete that the interdenominational body must stick to gospel standards.

"The ecumenical movement depends today as it has from its beginnings on the transcendent God made known in His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord," he declared.

Other influential churchmen, including Pope Paul VI, have spoken out increasingly lately against what they call a wave of superficial interpretations that have spread skepticism in the churches.

Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Washington, says the modern "enemies of religion" usually are within it.

Dr. Outler, of Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, says churches have been indulging in "the dangerous game of theological roulette—of seeing who had the gravest doubts, the most audacious repudiations of historic Christian teaching, who could come the closest to atheism and not topple over."

Sao Paulo Biental Draws Art From 61 Countries

By JOSEPH NOVITSKI
Associated Press Writer
SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) —

The Sao Paulo Biental, the largest periodical competitive exposition in the Americas of the world's modern art opened for a four-month stand here in late September.

Over 5,000 works of 1,000 artists from 61 foreign countries and Brazil are arranged in national displays in the huge, three-story Biental Building in this city's Ibirapuera Park. The biental is scheduled to close on Jan. 8.

An international jury of art critics from Brazil and seven foreign countries have begun their task of selecting the winner of the $10,000 Itamaraty Award for the best individual work in any field.

The jury composed of Werner Schmeelenbach, West Germany, Alan Bowness, Britain, Ryszard Stanislawski, Poland, Andrew Ritchie, U.S., Ida Rodriguez, Mexico, Ignacio Pirovano, Argentina, Teijiro Kubo, Japan, and Brazil's Geraldo Ferraz, will also choose the winners of the 10 Biental of Sao Paulo Awards of $2,222 granted in each of the individual fields of the plastic arts.

The works of foreign artists are entered by the governments of their countries, and the biental accepts only works dated after 1963 as competitive entries.

The more than 1,000 Brazilian entries show a much stronger influence from "pop" art than the selection displayed at the eighth biental in 1965.

The U.S. exposition, like those of Western European countries, seems to strike a balance between the traditional and the very new. A special retrospective salon of 39 works of the late Edward Hopper contrasts with the list of 21 young artists including Jasper Johns, Andy Warhol and Tom Rosenquist.

The "pop" and "pop" works of Jean-Pierre Reynaud, 28, and the "primary structures" of Alain Jacquet, also 28, represent the new French style. Two more mature artists, James Cuitet and Baldacini Cesar, complete France's selection.

Gianni Colombo's electro-mechanical constructions, spark the Italian entry of 20 artists.

Russia, apparently unwilling to face the old vs. new issue, is only exhibiting stage and costume design for the theater.

The Sao Paulo Biental, in the heart of this industrial capital of Latin America's largest nation, is also the occasion for auxiliary international exhibitions, notably photography.

A "Biental of Science and Humanism" is another novelty scheduled for this year. A symposium on the relation between science and humanism will be held alongside an exposition of space-age hardware.

Antarctica's emperor penguins reverse courtship customs, the females take the initiative and the males incubate the eggs.

Everybody Plays Collector's Game

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Life is a collector's game.
Everybody has to play the game, whether he wants to or not. The problem is—what to collect? Shall it be stamps or dolls, wounds or portraits of old windmills, bruises or money?
There are hundreds of choices. So many, many things to collect. But there is one thing you can't go through this world without collecting—memories. And nothing else man collects is so precious to him.
Your own collection is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when—
Airplane hostesses had so little to do they spent most of their time sitting in the seats and talking to the passengers.
A minister was more interested in getting the members of his congregation into heaven than in solving their problems on earth.

Ice skates had wooden runners instead of steel blades.
There was more nepotism in Hollywood than in Congress.
It was more fashionable for women to wear silver fox furs than mink.
One of the problems of motoring was putting up the car's isinglass and fabric curtains when the weather turned cold. A heater for automobiles? It was only an inventor's madcap dream.
George Ade made the nation laugh by remarking that one of the nice things about wearing white shoes was that they didn't show frost.
Conservatives were more fearful of Socialists than Communists because most of them, after all, hadn't ever seen a real live Communist.
The idol of childhood was the brawny neighborhood iceman, who drove a horse and wagon and always had a small chip of free ice for any kid—even if the kid was too shy to ask for one.
Only wealthy people belonged to country clubs and played golf.
It was taken for granted in most families that a farmer's sons would grow up to be farmers and a blacksmith's sons would become blacksmiths.
In every small town you could see a local character who wore a wooden leg he had whittled himself.

Oscar Smiths Of Roodhouse Wed 50 Years

ROODHOUSE — A dinner at the Blackhawk in Jacksonville Sunday, Sept. 17, honored a well-known rural Roodhouse couple, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith, on occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary which fell Sept. 14. No celebration was held due to the fact that their youngest son, Major Philip E. Smith, remains a prisoner of the Red Chinese in Peking, China.
Attending the dinner were the following of the children and their families: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith and sons, White Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryder and daughter, Janet, Medora; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith and two daughters, Urbana; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Clinton, Ia.; and Timothy Smith of Macomb, Miss.
Another son, James Smith of Church Falls, Va., was unable to be present, but called to visit with the group.
Mrs. Smith is the former Carrie McGhehey of Louisiana, Mo. The couple was married in Roodhouse by the Rev. Eldon Kidson, and have resided here all of their married life. They have ten grandchildren. Timothy Smith, young son of Maj. Smith, is staying with his grandparents since the illness and death of his maternal grandmother in Mississippi.

Roodhouse Notes
Mrs. Ernest Short and daughter, Miss Ardath Short, entertained friends Sunday at a luncheon at their home. Four of those present taught at one time with Miss Short in Dupo. Attending were Mrs. Henry Mosbacher, Jr., Mrs. Leland Stansell, Dupo; Mrs. Bill Wollwend and mother, Mrs. Elsie Tate, Columbia.
Nearly 3.25 million serious crimes, including 10,920 homicides, were committed in the U.S. last year, according to a report by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Religion Today

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — New religious teaching manuals, which were assailed as "anti-American and anti-Catholic" in a still-smoldering dispute in Chicago, are being used widely this fall in Roman Catholic schools across the country.
The uproar over the series grew out of its application of Christian teachings to specific problems and activity in society.

For example, a passage in a third-grade catechism reads: "Some people do not like the Rev. (Martin Luther) King. They say he is a troublemaker but, no matter what some people may say, he continues to tell everyone to keep on seeking justice. Rev. King is a brave Christian."
The Rt. Rev. Msgr. George G. Higgins, director of U.S. Catholicism's social action department, says the protests showed that the Church's teachings about Christian work in the world are "just beginning to get through to many Catholics and that they are disturbed by it."

In any case, the new catechism for first to eighth graders, called "Word and Worship," is being used this fall in 6,000 schools in 125 dioceses, said a spokesman for the publishers, Benziger Brothers.
This is about half the Catholic schools in the country. The usage compares with 300 schools in 30 dioceses last year, when the newly developed series was just getting started.
"There have been a few backfire ripples here and there," the spokesman said, "but no large group protests as in Chicago."

In that big archdiocese, the series has been denounced by an organization called "Parents Concerned" as Socialist, pro-Communist and as failing to stress attendance at Mass, among other things.

No changes have resulted from the protests, however. "We're perfectly willing to listen to constructive criticism, but not to uninformed criticism," said the Rev. H. Robert Clark, assistant superintendent of archdiocesan schools.

The new series still is being used for sixth to eighth graders throughout the Chicago parochial system, and for the first to fifth graders in three schools, where it was introduced last semester on a pilot basis.
Bishop William E. McManus, superintendent of the system, defines the issue as whether parochial schools should "teach the Catholic faith's relevance to contemporary human problems."

Mrs. Richard White, a leader of the protesting group, says it has "no axe to grind on the racial side" but adds: "We feel that the books set class against class. They downgrade any man of means. They are anti-American and anti-Catholic."
The series, 10 years in the making, was developed by a number of Catholic teachers, and edited by three leading educators: the Revs. Gerard Weber and James Kilgallon of Chicago, and Sister Mary O'Shaughnessy of New Orleans.

An employment increase of 700 in the Jacksonville area for the six-month period of February through August, was announced Friday by L. N. Caldwell, area manager for the Illinois State Employment Service.

Caldwell credited seasonal hiring in both the manufacturing and the non-manufacturing sectors for the rise from the February employment total of 16,250 to the mid-August level of 16,950.

Caldwell also reported unemployment in the Jacksonville area totaled 525 persons, representing about 3% of the total work force. This compares favorably with the national rate of 3.7 per cent and a preliminary state rate of 4 per cent, is slightly higher than the August, 1966, rate of 2.6 per cent.

The Jacksonville area includes Morgan and Scott counties.

Market Hits Peak Then Back-Pedals; Car Sales Set Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market hit another new 1967 high Monday, then back-pedaled the rest of this past week.

The performance was much like that of the previous week. The market rose to its highest level since the recovery drive began last October. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed Monday at 943.08, up 8.73, exceeding the previous high of 938.74 achieved a week earlier.

Brokers said the advance was made against a background of a year-to-year gain in new-car sales despite the strike against Ford and indications that time is beginning to run out on tax increase possibilities this year. The market reversed its course Tuesday as profit takers nibbled away at gains amassed during the extended advance. And Wall Street rumors that the Federal Reserve Board might soon raise the margin rate — the amount of cash investors must put up to buy stock — from the current 70 per cent proved unsettling.

Despite continued price increases for industrial and consumer products, which brokers pointed out were inflationary influences, the market continued to drift lower for the rest of the week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 7.69 points to 926.66 this past week.

The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 2.0 points to 338.8.

Among 1,623 issues traded, 875 declined and 620 advanced. There were 250 new 1967 highs and 86 new lows.

Volume for the week fell to 50,854,210 shares and 56,590,770 the previous week.

Government and corporate bonds advanced in price late this past week, offsetting most of the losses which occurred earlier in the week.

Federal reserve purchases spurred, in part, the late improvement in governments.

Electronics were strong and drugs were weak. Most other groups were mixed.

Of 1,456 issues traded, 612 advanced and 611 declined. New 1967 highs topped new lows 37 to 30.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 2.72 to 926.66. The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped 2 to 338.8 with industrials off 1.7, rails up 1.0 and utilities unchanged.

The New York Stock Exchange consumer stock index showed a gain of one cent in the average price of a share. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index slipped .08 to 86.71.

Volume contracted to 9.72 million shares from 10.47 million Thursday.

Among the 15 most active, 8 advanced, 5 declined and Scott Paper and Pan American World Airways were unchanged.

For the third straight session Amphenol, up 2 1/4 at 37 1/2 on 255,500 shares, was most active.

Tandy closed with a gain of 4 1/4 at 39. Allegheny common stock rose 1 1/4 to 13 1/4 and Allegheny preferred was up 1/4 at 45 1/4.

American Research jumped 1 1/4 to 137. Trans America advanced 1/4 to 47 1/4 and Trans International Airlines added 1 1/4 at 21 1/4.

The declines of the narrower averages reflected losses of 2 1/4 to 17 1/4 by Du Pont, 1 1/4 to 13 1/4 by Eastman Kodak and 1 1/4 to 5 1/4 by Union Carbide.

Among the electronics, Sperry Rand advanced 1/4 to 47 1/4 and Zenith gained 1/4 at 69 1/4.

Prices advanced on the American Stock exchange. The exchange index rose 17 cents to 222.75.

St. LOUIS POULTRY — ST. LOUIS (AP)—Eggs, consumer grades: A large 26-29, A medium 21-24, A small 10-12, large 21-23, wholesale grades standard 20-21, unclassified 17-17 1/2.

Hens, heavy 12; light 7-8; under 5 lbs 4 1/4; and fryers 23 1/4.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Livestock prices declined again at the Chicago Stockyards, marking the third straight week of lower prices.

Butcher hogs declined 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight, slaughter steers were steady to 25 cents lower, while the small receipts of spring slaughter lambs were steady to 50 cents lower.

Receipts of hogs at the Chicago Stockyards last week totaled 24,500 head, compared with a like amount the previous week and 25,400 for the same week a year ago. At the 12 major Stockyards, hog receipts last week totaled 274,800, compared with 273,700 the previous week and 258,200 a year ago.

Committee Reports Too Much Invested In U.S. Agriculture

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A study made for the President's National Advisory Commission on Food and Fiber finds that the United States probably has too much invested in agriculture and blames major federal policies and programs for encouraging waste of farm resources.

The study of 1960 food and agriculture requirements emphasizes the "rapidly-dwindling need" for farmers, indicating that in 13 years the United States will require about one-third fewer farming man-hours "no matter what farm policy we follow."

The commission's analysis, made by Dr. Early Heady and Leo Mayer of the Center for Agriculture and Economic Development at Iowa State University, contends that new capital and new technology flowing into agriculture are

SAVINGS & LOAN EXECUTIVE EARNS GRAD SCHOOL KEY

Newton Mitchell, vice president of Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association was among 73 students who received the American Savings and Loan Institute's Graduate School Diploma and Key at ceremonies in Bloomington, Indiana, Friday, August 25.

The Graduate School program provides for three years' attendance and is designed as an intensive training program for savings and loan association executives. The school is conducted two weeks each summer by the Institute in cooperation with the Indiana University Graduate School of Business. Courses include such subjects as Management Decision Making, Contemporary Economic Problems, Organizational Behavior, Future Trends in Real Estate, Investments, Architectural Approach to Home Design, and Personal Values and Self Management.

Before graduation, all students are required to prepare a thesis relative to some phase of the savings and loan business. This is presented orally before a panel of faculty and students.

Butcher hogs — Prices steady. Receipts 5,000; top 20.25. Slaughter steers — 25 to 50 cents lower; receipts 7,500; top 28.50.

The study maintains that the overall result would be production of food and fiber at less cost to consumers without necessarily reducing farmers' financial returns.

The authors suggest the more economical and effective longer range solution is to shift some more excess acreage to grazing and forestry.

The projection showing that farmers could maintain their financial returns while producing at less cost "is based on two big 'ifs'—if a free market encourages efficiency and technology continues to develop at the present rate, and if the government refuses to decree programs to hold prices at artificially high levels.

Under such circumstances, the study sees a 1980 wheat price of $1.27 per bushel, down 14 cents from late 1967 levels; feed grains (corn equivalent) sold by farmers for 75 cents, against $1.11 now; a soybean price of $1.23 per bushel, less than one-half the current price, and cotton produced for 17 cents a pound, down only 11 cents from the present but substantially below recent prices in recent years.

Living Cost Rise Provides Basis For Tax Boost Proposal

This Week in Business
By GEORGE TAYLOR
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Government statistics showing a rise in living costs and wholesale industrial prices this past week gave the administration additional arguments for its income tax boost proposal.

Living costs are up 2.7 per cent so far this year and might reach nearly 3 per cent by the end of the year, said Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

If they reach 3 per cent, he said, they would approach last year's 10-year high of 3.3 per cent, he said.

And, Ross added, "A tax increase would mitigate price pressures."

He said wholesale prices rose five-tenths of 1 per cent in the past two months after five months of virtually no movement.

He called wholesale prices most significant because "they move into consumer prices."

The administration argues that a tax boost would take some steam out of inflationary pressures, such as rising prices.

Rep. John W. Byrne of Wisconsin, ranking Republican of the Ways and Means Committee, said Congress should enact a tax increase and, "in the absence of credible action by the President to cut spending," couple it with a ceiling on nondefense expenditures.

The American Bankers Association called on the Federal Reserve to tighten its bank credit policy as an anti-inflation move.

Prices continued their upward movement. Allied Chemical Corp. said it is boosting its price of sulphuric acid, a widely used industrial chemical, between $2.25 and $3 a ton.

Freepoint Sulphur Co. said it was increasing by $5.50 a ton its price on domestic sulphur, in short supply.

Some shoe manufacturers announced 3 to 4 per cent price increases on some spring lines. Admiral, Philco, Magnavox and Zenith said they would raise color television prices, following the lead of Radio Corporation of America.

Crucible Steel Corp. said it would raise the price of stainless steel in bar, sheet and strip form.

There was one notable price rollback. Chrysler, which had announced 1968 auto prices cut its prices by about an average of $31 a car from those originally announced. This would make them about $140 above the 1967 list.

Meanwhile, the Ford auto strike went into its fourth week with no immediate sign of settlement.

With the Ford strike, auto production this past week was estimated at 140,858 cars, down from 147,447 the previous week.

In other economic developments, the Commerce Department said corporate profits fell in the April-June period for the third consecutive quarter. Before-tax profits totaled $78.9 billion at an annual rate in the second quarter, down from $79 billion in the first quarter.

Imports declined to a seasonally adjusted August total of $2,114,800,000, lowest since August 1966.

State production totaled 2,440,000 tons, down from the previous week's 2,469,000 tons.

Plans were announced this week by Robert Linebaugh and Jack Barwick of the Camera Shop that the business will be moved to a new and larger location on the public square within the next two months.

Linebaugh, vice-president in charge of retail sales of Midstate Photo Labs Inc., said that the Camera Shop has leased the location, formerly occupied by Rainbo Paint and Wallpaper Company, 52 North Side, Public square.

Barwick, manager of the Camera Shop, said that the site is presently being remodeled. The front of the store will be recessed, and the rear entrance to the business will undergo a change, which will include a new entranceway, complete with "red carpet" treatment for customer.

The expansion, remodeling and moving of the business to the new location is expected to cost approximately $25,000.

Barwick said that the growth of the camera specialty store has been tremendous, and that the present location at 221 East

State is not large enough to meet the demands of customers. Linebaugh disclosed that the new facilities will be 20 by 186 feet, as compared to the East State street store, which was 18 by 55 feet.

Included in the new facilities will be a larger and more modern camera repair department, which will be located on the second floor of the building.

Barwick said that the increased space will allow the Camera Shop to broaden product lines, which will include audio-visual equipment and tape recorders.

The Camera Shop opened its doors at 202 East Court street in 1946, and later, owing to the same conditions presently being experienced, moved to the larger location on East State street.

Linebaugh said that improved parking facilities at the municipal lots on North Main and North Mainway would make shopping easier for Camera Shop customers.

"We also want to encourage persons parking in either of the two lots at the rear of the store to come through the shop if they are planning to shop on the square."

"Jack and myself will welcome shoppers wanting to use the store as a short-cut to the square," Linebaugh stated.

The Camera Shop hopes to open the new location by the first week in November, if not sooner.

Cereals Are Nourishing

By GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Food Editor

Q — My mother always insisted hot cereal was better for us kids than cold cereals. Now my two little boys won't eat hot cereals. They want the ready-to-eat kind in individual boxes. Should I insist on hot cereal?

A — There is an old wives' tale that hot food is more nutritious than cold food. This is not true since all food is about (the same temperature when it reaches the stomach. Whether a food is eaten hot or cold has nothing to do with its nutritional value. The new modern high protein, ready-to-eat cereals contain as much protein and, in some cases, more than hot cereals, and this is true of all other nutrients.

Q — My boy likes to eat his breakfast cereals with ice cream instead of milk. Does he get enough nourishment this way?

A — He gets enough nourishment either way. If he is very active, he can burn up the excessive calories, fat and carbohydrate in the ice cream. When he grows up he will be better nourished with whole milk since he will not put on fat.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

By STELLA

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1 — Born today, you have a mind continuously taken up with the assimilation of ideas both old and new. Knowledge even for its own sake is very important to your happiness; for your frame of mind takes a decided dip toward depression whenever your thoughts are not busy chewing over some idea, concrete or abstract, or gnawing on some problem of this century or some other. You would make an excellent teacher, particularly of history, or research worker.

You have tremendous, though often hidden, depths of understanding. You generally know what makes others tick, though you may not always let them know that you know. Such reticence on your part may at times lead people to think that you have no awareness at all of their situation or circumstances, but the fact is that you prefer to keep your understanding to yourself for fear of seeming to interfere.

Live and let live could be said to be your motto. You have extremely high standards of behavior — but it doesn't disturb you an iota if those about you have completely different ones. Because of your "hands off" policy where other people are concerned, you may be thought cold — but here again it is purely that you keep your opinions to yourself.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, October 2

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) — Take nothing for granted today in profession or business. A day which may not be at all what it appears to be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Don't allow partners — business or domestic — to talk you into making a change that you're not really in favor of.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Combine your ideas with those of another for best results. Benefits should multiply if you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Don't be so busy taking care of other people's business that you neglect your own. A good day for the Capricorn with a head on his shoulders.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — An educated guess may well take you further today than would a stoppage of labor while you find out definitely what to do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21) — Begin the new work week with a cooperative attitude. You'll not get far if you insist on having things all your own way.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20) — The best way to get ahead is to realize your own shortcomings. Don't set your goals higher than your talents.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Stick to old-fashioned methods if you must — but don't deny others the right to try new ways and means.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Business before pleasure today. There will be much temptation to let business or profession fend for itself, but the wise

Gemini will persist.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Conduct all business or professional conversations in such a manner that you'll gain nothing but respect.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — It's important to your future that you not allow yourself to show temper or even displeasure today. Give the appearance of satisfaction.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — You can recover last week's losses easily today if you go about it methodically and without emotionalism. Keep calm, cool, and collected.

Heritage Center Ponders Fate Of Voorhies Castle

The Illinois Pioneer Heritage Center in Monticello, Illinois, is confronted with the perplexing problem of the best possible restoration program for Voorhies Castle and Clock Tower Barn which they recently acquired as a gift to the center.

The Castle is doubly unique in that it was abandoned 54 years ago by the owner, Nels Larson, upon the death of his wife. He walked out leaving the house and all contents as they were. The house remains today just as it was found when opened by the Heritage Center more than a month ago.

Since that opening, more than 30,000 persons have seen the home and the clock tower barn. Not a single visitor has ever before seen a situation like that at Voorhies. This in itself is very unusual, because among the thousands of visitors are a great many who have traveled the world over seeing places of historic interest.

In the words of almost every visitor, "stepping into Voorhies is stepping into yesterday." The center plans to keep the home and barn exactly as they are until at least November first, so that more thousands of people will be able to see it just as it is after all these years.

Dean Gordon, executive director of the Heritage Center contacted the Three Dimension Exhibit Company in Chicago for help and assistance in planning the restoration of Voorhies. They are one of the most prominent concerns in the United States in the exhibit and preservation field.

They have prepared a series of drawings for the Illinois Heritage Center depicting a plan for a geodesic dome that would cover the Voorhies Castle and Clock Tower Barn. The dome would be made of clear sections of plastic and would appear to be a giant bubble resting on the Voorhies Estate.

The dome would be climate controlled the year round, and provide an entire area of exhibit space available under it. The Castle and the Clock Tower Barn would then become exhibits within the dome. Spacious flower beds, fountains and many of the other buildings to be restored at Voorhies could be included in the dome complex.

A restaurant in the sky, under the dome, is also a possibility within the development. The restaurant would be supported in the air within the dome and would be above the Castle and Clock Tower Barn. It would be large enough to seat about 1,500 persons at a time with room for a dance floor accommodating hundreds of dancing couples. A circular revolving stage in the center of the dome, would also be a feature of the restaurant.

The dome restaurant could be used the year round for entertainment, banquets, convention meals, and special programs for organizations as well as for dining by the general public.

The impact of the dome at Voorhies is being studied at the time of this release. In initial thinking the structure, along with the more than outstanding contents, would draw in excess of one million visitors a year from outside the State of Illinois, and produce more than 1,500 new Central Illinois jobs.

The new employment would come from the additional persons needed in the housing, food handling, and other related service industries necessary for the hosting of major numbers of visitors in the greater central Illinois area. Preliminary estimates indicate more than thirty million dollars a year in revenue to the general economy of Illinois.

"The economic impact of the dome and development at Voorhies will effect a very wide area of Illinois, and will be felt by virtually all of the service industries. Petroleum companies will be particularly involved. For that reason we are very anxious to hear from persons over a wide area in relation to the impact of the dome at Voorhies," Gordon said.

"The Illinois Pioneer Heritage Center is in need of the help of the people of Illinois," according to Gordon. "We need to know if the people of our state would like to have this most unusual structure and attraction here. We need to know what their reaction to having such a unique dining area would be, as well as the possibility of the year round entertainment program. We know already that this structure would be one of the most interesting places in our country to visit and would be more than an asset to the general good of the future in Illinois. It is our hope that persons will write or come by to see us expressing their thoughts on this gigantic undertaking," Gordon said.

Persons who are willing to express an opinion should address their letters to the Illinois Pioneer Heritage Center at Post Office Box 12 in Monticello, Illinois.

Also included in the massive program would be an electronic touring system for all seven museums of the Heritage Center, improved parking and sign facilities, and a host of lesser improvements necessary to the continued growth and expansion of the already largest development of its kind in Illinois.

"Persons who have not yet had the opportunity of visiting the Voorhies Estate are urged to do so before November first. It will be open seven days a week, and will be left exactly as it was closed fifty four years ago until that time. Many persons may wish to see the estate before rendering an opinion as to their thoughts about the dome," Gordon said.

Mac To Offer Scholarships To Girl Staters

MacMurray College is giving Girl Staters a chance to return to the Jacksonville campus.

Each summer an estimated 600 girls participate in Illinois Girls State on the 60 acre MacMurray Campus. This has been the only home for the citizenship conference run by the Illinois American Legion Auxiliary. In recognition of the long association between the college and the Girl Staters MacMurray's President Gordon E. Michelson has announced the formation of a special scholarship.

Five participants in last summer's Girl State activities will be awarded financial scholarships to the liberal arts college. They can receive up to $1700 per year under the program announced by Dr. Michelson.

The participants have been notified by Bruce A. Westerdaal, MacMurray's Director of Admissions. According to Mr. Westerdaal winners will be chosen on the basis of academic achievement, leadership qualities, interest in extra-curricular activities and potential for success at MacMurray.

Girls State Scholarships may be supplemented by campus employment and National Defense Student Loans. Students who do not qualify for the MacMurray Girls State Awards will be considered for other grants and scholarships offered by the college.

The same scholarship opportunities are being issued to participants of the 1967 Premier Boys State. That session is held at the state fairgrounds in Springfield.

SCHOOL BOARD AT GREENFIELD OK: TAX LEVY

GREENFIELD — The Board of Education of Greenfield Community Unit District No. 10 approved at a meeting held September 1, the following tax levy for the 1967 tax year:

Transportation, $18,500; education, $330,000; building, $90,000; working cash, $9,500; municipal retirement, $7,000; Junior College tuition, $6,000; fire protection and safety, $25,855; liability insurance, $800.

Several levies show an increase over previous ones, with the exception of Education and Municipal Retirement. These increases were made to allow for any increase in assessed valuation and do not reflect a direct increase in the amount of tax to be collected.

The Fire Protection and Safety levy will be extended only so long as it will be necessary, in order to recover expenses to be incurred in bringing the Junior and Senior High School buildings up to the requirements of the New State Fire and Safety code for public school buildings. A survey completed by Wilson and Wilson last spring indicates a total slightly in excess of $25,000.00 will be needed for this purpose.

Top Grain Harvest Triggers Price Skid On Board Of Trade

By ED DE MOCH
CHICAGO (AP) — Major grain futures prices declined again on the Chicago Board of Trade during the week, and corn and soybeans set seasonal lows in all deliveries.

The principal factors in the sell-off was the start of harvesting the greatest corn and soybean production farmers have ever produced in this country.

By earlier estimates of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1967 corn production will total nearly 4.7 billion bushels or 14 per cent more than last year's record crop; soybeans production will total 1 billion bushels, 8 per cent more than the 1966 record.

The wheat crop, covering all types, totaled more than 1.5 billion bushels, also a record. Wheat harvesting has been completed.

When grain trade closed for the week Friday, wheat prices were 7 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, December 1.54 1/2-55; corn was 1 to 1 1/2 cents lower, December 1.13 1/2-1/2; oats were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, December 69 1/2 cents; rye was 1/4 to 3/4 lower, December 1.21 1/2; and soybeans were 1 to 3 cents lower, November 2.62 1/4-7/8.

Soybean oil and soybean meal, which mostly fluctuate with the basic product, trended lower in light trade. Soybean oil closed 17 to 23 points lower for the week, October 8.83-84, and soybean meal closed 10 to 100 points lower, October 71.80-75.

There appeared to be little in the news or in Washington to stimulate any kind of an upward price movement for any length of time. Lack of outside interest with spirited selling by commercials and local professionals helped prices downward earlier in the week.

At midweek, however, reports of a possible frost in northern portions of the Midwest tended to influence higher prices for corn and soybeans. Rain also fell in the area and prices advanced on the theory that it might injure the corn crop and delay harvesting of the two commodities.

The advances, over two days, totaled about 2 cents a bushel and this was wiped out under liquidation at the close of the week.

Some export buying Friday tended to influence an advance wheat for a brief period, but the movement got underway when the bread grain was at its lowest point of the session. Prices advanced about 1 cent a bushel, then fell back under profit taking and closed lower for the day.

As corn and soybeans harvesting was getting under way, hedging by large country buyers of the two commodities began to show up in the futures market. On Friday, the nearby soybeans deliveries were nearly 1 cent a bushel lower than the previous close, while the deferreds closed higher.

The hedging by commercials was not quite as apparent in the corn pit, but selling was noted every session.

FIRM DISCOURAGED FROM DISCOURAGING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board announced last week it has ordered Hahn, Inc. of Pekin, Ill., to stop discouraging its employees from joining labor organizations.

The union which brought the complaint is Pekin Local 7-662 of the AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

ERNE LONG caught this 4-pound bass during his lunch period at the Jacksonville Sportsmen's Club pond. Long didn't disclose what length lunch period but did say he used a Heaton Tiger for bait. Too many weeds and moss prompted the Sportsmen to lower the water level in an effort to remove the moss. Fishermen complained that there was too much natural food for the fish. The Missouri-born car salesman wasn't convinced so he decided to give the pond one last try during his lunch period.

Stirling Moss

Before you can make such a statement, though, you have to have the Moss credentials. He's a peppery, little Englishman who was to racing what Willie Mays was to baseball, Ottobello to basketball, Arnold Palmer to golf. Stirling was not only the greatest racing driver of his time, but won with the class that distinguishes a poet with long hair from a hippie.

He thinks that the greatest race of his career was winning the Grand Prix at Monaco back in '61 when he estimates he drove flat out 90 per cent of the time, with a car that was inferior in speed to the surge of Ferraris around him.

But like it must to most drivers, a wipeout eventually flattened Stirling, muddled his reflexes so that he doesn't trust himself behind the wheel of a racing vehicle and left him feeling lucky to be alive, but not lacking any of his old zip or energy. He's racing director for Johnson Wax and trying to give away $90,000 in prize money during the Canadian-American Challenge Cup of six sports car races running into mid-November.

"The element of danger in racing," says Stirling, "is exaggerated, and I think it is exaggerated for the sport that it is exaggerated. After all, we don't want everybody thinking they can be a racing driver. There are too many already."

IC Battles To 7-7 Tie

Tigers Lose Chance To Capture Lead

Both Teams Guilty Of Mistakes

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Illinois College and Rose Poly of Terre Haute, Ind., both refused to take advantage of each other's many mistakes and the two clubs battled to a 7-7 Prairie College Conference deadlock, in the Blueboys' season-opener Saturday afternoon.

The two clubs were anything but sharp when they had the ball, with ballhandling mistakes by both sides dominating the game. IC coughed up four fumbles and had two passes picked off, while Rose Poly lost a pair of fumbles and lost the ball five times via pass thefts.

CUTTING IN: Illinois College halfback Phil Snowden cuts around Rose Poly tackle Ron Randall (74) and prepares to try to elude linebacker Dennis Stanifer on this good-gaining effort. Snowden carried the ball 13 times for 62 yards in a 7-7 deadlock Saturday afternoon.

While the offenses were left lacking, both displayed strong defenses when their offense let them down. In terms of ball control Rose dominated the action, reaching IC territory ten times while the Blueboys reached Rose Poly turf only four times. Rose got inside the IC 20 three times and inside the 30 five times.

Leading the defensive efforts for the Blueboys were halfback Tom Rowland, three interceptions, Bill Ordendorff, two key interceptions, and linebackers Dennis Watson, Mike Herter and John Levins. All three were instrumental time and again in stopping Rose Poly thrusts, while Watson and Herter recovered fumbles. Several players in the interior line turned in strong games.

On Offense Too

Rowland was also an offensive standout, getting all seven of IC's points and grinding out 89 yards in 21 carries. Fellow halfback Phil Snowden picked up 62 yards in 13 tries and fullback Jerry Sapp gained 21 in seven attempts. For the visitors' freshman halfback Roger Ward, a 175-pounder, was the workhorse with 29 carries for 96 yards gained. Fullback Fred Valanti punched for 66 yards in 12 plunges.

The two teams traded interceptions in the first quarter to kill two sustained drives, with Rowland stopping Rose Poly at the IC six with the first of his three interceptions.

With Rose driving again late in the first and early in the second quarter, Rowland again stopped progress with a theft at the Blueboy 15, returning the ball to the 42. Midway through the quarter linebacker Watson felled on a Ward bobble at the Engineers' 32 and it took only seven plays for the hosts to score.

Rowland and Snowden moved the ball for a first at the 20 before quarterback Dave Barr was a throw for a seven-yard loss back to the 27. A pass interference call against Rose moved the ball to the 14. From there, Rowland broke over left guard, cut back, twisted off tackles twice and raced in for the only Blueboy score of the day. Rowland split the uprights with 8:47 showing in the half.

Herter Saves TD

Herter knocked down a sure TD pass on the next Rose march, a 50-yard drive that stalled on the 17, and a 26-yard field goal try fell well short on the next as the half ended.

Neither team picked up more than one first down in succession in a defense-dominated third quarter until Rose marched from its own 35 to the IC 17 late in the period. There the middle of the line again held and another field goal try sailed wide to the left.

A Snowden fumble on the IC set up the Illinois College score midway through the final 15 minutes. Rose took over on the 43 and scored four plays later. Hills found end Mike Mefford at the five and Mefford plunged the remaining distance at the 5:21 mark. Chuck Bosenberg booted the knoting PAT.

In the following two series IC was unable to move, but Ordendorff picked off passes at the IC 30 and at midfield to thwart Rose threats.

The final Illinois College threat moved the ball from the Rose Poly 37 into scoring position, with Rowland and Snowden moving the ball to the 25. From there Rowland's attempted field goal fell a few feet short with 27 seconds to play.

Rose managed to advance to the IC 39 on desperation passes before time ran out.

Score by quarters:
Illinois College 0 7 0 0-7
Rose Poly 0 0 0 7-7

Purdue Takes 28-21 Upset Over Irish

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's alert football team intercepted four passes by Notre Dame quarterback Terry Hanratty and smashed the nationally top-ranked Irish 28-21 Saturday.

The teams took turns scoring touchdowns and the lead changed hands six times—but Purdue got the last one on a 31-yard pass from sophomore Mike Phipps to Bob Baltzell.

The biggest crowd ever to see a game at Purdue's Ross-Add Stadium, 62,316, almost tore up the stadium as the Boilermakers maintained a tradition of being bad medicine for Notre Dame.

They have licked the Irish four times in their last six meetings.

The Irish were last defeated in 1965 by Michigan State 12-3.

Burly Perry Williams, Purdue fullback, bulled his way 10 yards for a first period touchdown but the kick failed. Hanratty, who completed 29 of 63 passes, pulled Notre Dame even with a one-yard sneak and Joe Azzarone's conversion gave the Irish a 7-6 lead.

Williams carried another load of Notre Dame tacklers over the goal line from three yards out after a scoreless second quarter and Phipps hit end Jim Beirne with a two-point conversion pass that made it 14-7.

Halfback Bob Bleier, who played a magnificent ground game for the Irish, plunged for a third quarter touchdown and Azzarone tied it up 14-14 going into the last period.

Phipps passed 11 yards to Leroy Keyes on the third play of the last quarter and Bob Baltzell kicked the point.

Notre Dame marched 75 yards for a tying touchdown, getting the score on Hanratty's 27-yard pitch to Paul Snow, and Azzarone kicked again.

Purdue's Jim Kirkpatrick ran the kickoff back 30 yards to his 36 and the Boilermakers charged 64 yards in five plays for the winning touchdown. A Phipps-to-Baltzell pass for 31 yards got the touchdown.

Notre Dame never quit, going to the Purdue 14 on a flurry of Hanratty passes in the closing minutes, only to lose the ball on downs.

Notre Dame 7 0 7 7-21
Purdue 6 0 8 14-28

Cravens Sparks IBSSS Margin

VINTON, Ia. — Again paced by Tom Cravens with 20 points, the IBSSS track squad ran its record to 3-0 with a 48-32 dual meet victory over Iowa, here Saturday morning.

Cravens had a perfect day with firsts in the 50, 75, basketball throw and the three consecutive jumps, with an effort of 28'11 1/2". Cravens now has 55 points in three meets, three points shy of Jim Crockett's school record.

Fred Jenkins piled up 14 points with a first in the standing broad jump, 9'2", and seconds in the shot put, three consecutive jumps and the 75.

Steve Brewster added eight points with seconds in the high jump and hop, step and jump and thirds in the basketball throw and shot. Rick Parrish took a second in the 50 and the tandem team of Ken Staley and Al Dudley finished second for three points.

IBSSS will entertain Indiana and Missouri next Saturday in the final regular-season meet.

Tigers Lose Chance To Capture Lead

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Fregosi's two-run single in the eighth inning climaxed a six-run explosion that carried the California Angels past Detroit 8-6 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday and backed the Tigers into a dark corner in the frantic American League pennant race.

Detroit won the first game 5-0 on Mickey Lolich's three-hitter, but California's stunning comeback victory in the nightcap dropped the Tigers one-half game behind both Minnesota and Boston going into the final day of the regular season.

The Tigers now must sweep Sunday's doubleheader against the giant-killing Angels to gain a tie for the flag with either the Twins or Red Sox, who meet at Boston Sunday in a single game. The Red Sox beat Minnesota 6-4 Saturday, leaving each club with a 91-70 mark and the Tigers at 90-70.

The Tigers were breezing along with a 6-2 lead in the nightcap when Fregosi touched off the eighth inning burst with a single off Fred Lasher, who had replaced 22-game winner Earl Wilson in the sixth.

Lasher walked Jimmie Hall and was clipped for run-scoring singles by Don Mincher and Rick Reichardt before giving way to Hank Aguirre. The veteran southpaw got pinch hitter Bubba Morton to tap back to the mound, but threw to first base for the first out as Mincher scored the third run in the inning.

Satriano Ties It

Aguirre then walked Bob Rodgers and was lifted for Fred Gladding. After Bobby Knoop singled off Gladding's glove to fill the bases, John Hiller became the Tigers' fourth pitcher in the inning and Tom Satriano greeted him with a run-scoring single, tying it 6-6.

Hiller fanned pinch hitter Bob Taylor for the second out, but Fregosi then lined a single to right center for the winning runs.

The Tigers scored three runs in the first inning. Dick McAuliffe singled and Angels starter Jack Hamilton walked Jerry Lumpe, Willie Horton and Ed Matthews forcing in one run. Curt Simmons came in and hit Jim Northrup with a pitch to let in a second run and Bill Freehan brought home the third with a sacrifice fly.

California scored in the third when Fregosi cracked his ninth homer of the year. In the fourth, Mincher singled, took second on a passed ball and scored on Roger Repoz' single.

Wilson was lifted after walking Hall to open the sixth.

The Tigers picked up a run in the fifth when Lumpe singled, took second on a walk, third on a fielder's choice and home on an error by Fregosi.

Northrup Homers

Northrup hit his ninth homer in the seventh with Al Kaline, who had singled, on base.

In the first game, Detroit jumped on left-hander George Brunet in the first inning for two runs. McAuliffe drew a walk and Horton followed with a homer high into the second deck in left field, his 18th of the year and first since Aug. 20.

Don Wert led off the second with a double and Eddie Mathews singled him home. Mickey Stanley singled and Lolich sacrificed before Dick Tracewski sent Mathews across with a sacrifice fly.

The Tigers added a run in the fourth when Tracewski tripled and McAuliffe singled.

Yaz Leads Bosox Past Twins, 6-4

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski drove in four runs with his 44th homer and an infield single as the Boston Red Sox whipped the Minnesota Twins 6-4 Saturday and stayed alive in the hectic American League pennant race.

A defeat would have eliminated the Red Sox, but the victory tied them with the Twins for the league lead, one-half game ahead of the Detroit Tigers, who split a doubleheader with California. Detroit won the first game 5-0 and lost the second 8-6.

The drama-packed victory before Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy and a flock of other dignitaries in a packed crowd of 32,998, left the Red Sox and Twins all even with 91-70 records for a dramatic showdown Sunday.

At the time Yastrzemski hit the homer—a seventh-inning blow that put him one ahead of Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew in the home run race—it appeared the three runs were just insurance.

But the homer turned out to be the winning hit when Killebrew socked his 44th homer in the ninth inning, cutting the Red Sox' lead to two runs and tying Yastrzemski once again for the homer lead.

Nears Triple Crown

The home run leadership is the only one of three Triple Crown categories that Yaz doesn't lead by himself. He raised his batting average to .322 and increased his runs-batted-in total to 119.

Yaz, who singled and struck out in his first two times at bat, put the Red Sox ahead with a run-scoring infield hit in the fifth, but the Twins came back to tie the count 2-2 in the top of the sixth.

Ron Kline became the third Minnesota pitcher in the bottom of the sixth and received a rough greeting. On Kline's first pitch, George Scott drilled a high shot, a dozen rows into the center field bleachers for his 19th homer.

With one out, Mike Andrews beat out an infield, bouncer down the third base line for his second hit. Jerry Adair grounded back to the mound, but Zollock Versailles dropped Kline's throw on an attempted force for an error.

Southpaw Jim Merritt was summoned from the bullpen to face Yastrzemski. Yaz ran the count to 3-1 and then unled a drive into the Minnesota bullpen in right center, enabling him to pass Ted Williams as the greatest left-handed home run hitter in Red Sox history.

Dallas And Rams In NFL Headliner

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Rams' Fear-some Foursome meets the Dallas Cowboys' Doomsday Defense Sunday in a battle of National Football League unbeaten clubs that just might shake the foundations of the Cotton Bowl.

As Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys said "the game is a big challenge to both offensive teams."

The Rams have Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Lamar Lundy to throw at Don Meredith and the complicated Cowboy offense. Roman Gabriel must be ready to set and throw for the Rams with Willie Townes, Jethro Pugh, Bob Lilly and George Andrie coming at him.

The Rams, 2-0, are tied for the lead in the Coastal Division and the Cowboys, 2-0, are out front in the Capitol Division. The only touchdown scored on Los Angeles this year was a kickoff return by New Orleans' rookie John Gilliam in the opener. When Dallas and Los Angeles played Aug. 12 in a pre-season game the Rams won 20-6.

Clash Of Unbeaten

San Francisco, 2-0, and Baltimore, 2-0, both tied with the Rams in the Coastal Division, meet at Baltimore in the other clash of perfect record.

The 49ers haven't beaten the Colts since 1962 losing nine in a row. San Francisco's offense is top in the league with John Brodie's passing balanced by the running of Ken Willard, John David Crow, Gary Lewis and Doug Cunningham. Johnny Unitas is away to a fast start, completing 11 passes to sub Willie Richardson last week in a rout of Philadelphia.

After two unexpectedly tough games, Green Bay, 1-0-1, gets a chance to open up on Atlanta, 0-2, in a game to be played at Milwaukee. Coach Vince Lombardi has spent most of the week trying to explain Bart Starr's nine interceptions and the four fumbles lost by the Packers in the two games. The Falcons have had trouble protecting their passer, who has been thrown 10 times.

Cards Battered

Detroit, 1-0-1, the other unbeaten team in the League, will be at St. Louis, 1-1, to take on the battered Cards, who may be without the services of center Bob DeMarco, guard Ken Gray and defensive end Don Brumm. The Lions won 21-7 Sept. 8 in an exhibition and the Cards still have quarterback miseries.

Pittsburgh, 1-1, must try to get by with rookie Kent Nix at quarterback against Philadelphia, 1-1. The Steelers, off impressively against Chicago but upset last week by St. Louis, lost quarterback Bill Nelson for at least one week due to a knee injury. The Eagles have won five of their last six from Pittsburgh, including both games in 1966.

New York, 1-1, and Washington, 1-1, no longer members of the same division, meet for the only time this season at Washington in an air battle between the Giants' Fran Tarkenton and the Redskins' Sonny Jurgensen. The last time they met in 1966 the final score was Washington 72, New York 41. The Redskins won a pre-season game 31-13 Aug. 19.

Clan Nets 3-2 Margin In Soccer

Chris Dimeglio scored a pair of goals, including the game decider, as the MacMurray soccer team scored its second straight win, a 3-2 conference triumph over Calvin College of Grand Rapids, Mich., on the Clan field Saturday afternoon.

Demeglio broke a scoreless tie with a goal from his left wing spot at the 3:20 mark of the second quarter. Herb Silva made it 2-0 early in the third with a goal on a cross from outside right Kai Best at the 8:15 mark.

After Calvin scored at 17:00 of the third to cut the difference to 2-1, Demeglio iced the game with a goal five minutes into the final stanza, getting an assist from Tom Burden. Calvin got its final goal after 17 minutes of the quarter.

Mac got off 29 shots to Calvin's 16, and goalie Ted Dilday was credited with four saves to eight by the Calvin goalie. The winners had three corner kicks to the losers' four.

For the second straight game center fullback Mike Crossman led a strong MacMurray defense.

MacMurray is now 2-1 overall and 1-1 in league play, while Calvin drops to 1-4 and 0-1.

Brush Beats Bathing In Care Of Your Dog

One of the worst things you can do to your dog is bathe him too often, warns University of Illinois veterinarian Dr. L. C. Helper.

Dr. Helper, assistant professor of veterinary clinical medicine in the College of Veterinary Medicine, explains that "too frequent bathing removes natural oils from the skin and coat, causing them to dry out. The dog soon starts itching and scratching, making himself more uncomfortable and opening the way for bacterial infection."

Unless a dog's coat becomes caked with dirt, or picks up an offensive odor, one bath about every two months is enough, Dr. Helper says.

Puppies are an exception, he adds. It is not a good idea to bathe puppies at all until they are well along toward maturity. It takes many hours for the fuzz next to the skin to dry, he explains, and a wet puppy can easily catch pneumonia.

Frequent brushing, on the other hand, is a must. Dr. Helper points out that a dog's coat virtually gets dirty only on, or very near, the surface. A vigorous brushing is just as effective as a bath in removing dirt and unlike a bath, does much to keep the skin and coat in healthy condition.

Dr. Helper adds a word of caution about the many coat conditioners now on the market. "Most of these are fine products," he says, "but they cannot replace the brush." U. of I. veterinarians recommend using both.

A dog owner should also take care in using conditioners, shampoos and soaps on his pet's coat since some animals are sensitive to these materials. Strong soaps and detergents are out. "Never use any soap on your dog's coat you wouldn't use on your own hair," is Dr. Helper's rule of thumb.

Unless the animal has a definite flea or other insect problem, avoid using a dog soap which contains an insecticide. The unnecessary chemicals often increase problems of dry skin and itching. If your pet seems to be irritated by any commercial product, better try another brand or stop using the product altogether.

Dr. Helper suggests dog owners adopt the official theme, "Deserve to Be Your Dog's Best Friend," by starting a program of daily brushing and regular—but infrequent—bathing.

Lest they summon his ghost, some American Indians refuse to speak the name of any relative who dies.

BRIMFUL Farmers And Bankers Discuss Credit Needs Of Agriculture Today

Terms Change The Pattern Of The Future
Many Changes, Says President Of Rural Bank

If America's farmers resist and do not accept change, then American agriculture will stagnate, William Rothenberger, a Frankfort, Ind., farmer, said Tuesday.

Speaking at the Illinois Bankers Agricultural Credit conference on the University of Illinois campus, he said many farmers have been unwilling or unable to accept the harsh and impersonal discipline of change.

Those accepting change, Rothenberger labeled as "innovators." This is the small group who are the forerunners of change. "Adaptors" — who produce and sell 65 percent of all food and fiber — are the next farmer group to accept change. This group makes up 15 percent of the nation's farmers.

"The imitators" are by far the largest farmer group and they do not welcome change," he said. Rothenberger identified the last group as the "losers." These have failed to become students of the present or future. They will not stay in agriculture, he predicted.

"Significant changes have been taking place in American agriculture and will continue at a rather rapid rate," he said at the two-day conference sponsored by the Illinois Bankers association and the U. of I.

"Forces Of Change" He singled out five areas as major forces of change. (1) Midwest has industrialized where autos and roads have moved farm labor to industry. (2) Super machines have cut labor requirements for corn 90 percent while yields have tripled.

(3) Livestock production has mechanized, especially in materials handling. (4) Technology has changed in herbicides, insecticides, corn and soybean varieties. (5) Foreign buyers have invaded markets for corn and soybeans.

"Agricultural resources are rapidly gravitating into relatively few, strong, capable hands," he said. "Large-scale specialization seems to be enveloping American agriculture. Fences are being removed, livestock systems are going from pasture to confinement systems."

Rothenberger said farming units will continue to expand and at an accelerated rate. Large-scale specialization, both in crop and livestock production, will be necessary with expanded units.

Labor shortages, he said, will force larger capital investments and new technology adoption. Top management will be the criteria of success. Quality and product standards will be demanded by an affluent consumer.

"In Constant Debt" Capital requirements will expand at a greater rate than earnings with outside capital coming into agriculture and the farmer will be in constant debt, he continued. Returns to management will be comparable to business and industry for the top operator.

He placed major emphasis on management, a shift from brawn to brain, from production to profit, from cash to perpetual credit.

"Farmers are going to look to their banker for services, projections and evaluations to minimize risk and maximize profit," he said.

FROM THE CORN CRIB The advertising executive, landing at Kennedy Airport, said to the hostess, "Thank you for an enjoyable flight, Miss Hagen."

The executive's wife suddenly came up and said, "Ralph Corlewright, how come you know the hostess' name? I'll bet you've also got her phone number?"

"Now darling," said the husband, "Don't be so suspicious. You have been on planes before. Each one carries the name of the pilot, copilot and hostesses on the inside cabin."

"Okay," said the wife, peering at him frigidly. "Give me the names of the pilot and copilot."

Flameproof That Float

If you're in the float, decoration or exhibit-making business this fall for your club, church, school or society, flameproof your work for safety's sake and yours.

Flameproofing is a cheap insurance policy, says O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois safety specialist.

A fire could not only consume your many hours of hard work, but gut a building as well, he reports. And there's always the possibility a life could be lost when a building burns.

Use this formula to make your float, exhibit or decorations fire-resistant: To nine ounces of borax add four ounces of boric acid and one tablespoon of detergent. Dissolve in one gallon of lukewarm water. Spray the solution using a hand-pump gun. Or soak flammable decorations in the liquid mixture.

Play it safe this year. Flameproof your hard work. You'll be glad you did and so will your city's firemen.

Farm Bureau To Discuss Policy Oct. 4

Roy VanGundy, Jr., chairman of the Morgan County Policy Development and Legislative committee, will preside Wednesday evening at the annual policy development meeting to be held in Farm Bureau hall.

It will begin at 8 p.m. "We are hoping for a large attendance," VanGundy said last week.

At these annual meetings members speak up to say what they want Farm Bureau to do during the next year. These suggestions are passed along to the resolutions committee of the Illinois Agricultural association, which reports at the annual meeting held each November.

Suggested topics for discussion include crop and livestock reporting, marketing, adoption of metric system, increasing personal exemption from $600 to $1,000, the proposed constitutional convention, water and air pollution, agricultural imports and exports.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

OUTLOOK CHANGES FROM SCARCITY TO SURPLUS

The corn situation has made a sharp turnaround since a year ago. At that time, it appeared that most of the surplus was gone and that a shortage might develop — especially if the 1967 crop were short. The expected shortage did not develop, and the corn crop now ripening in the fields is a very tall one.

A year ago, it seemed that the carryover of old corn on hand October 1, 1967, might be only 500 million bushels—one fourth as much as 6 years ago. Now it appears that the carryover may be almost 900 million bushels. (Official figures won't be out until October 24.)

On the basis of conditions on September 1, the USDA estimated the corn crop at 4,694 million bushels. Added to the carryover, this amount would make a total supply of about 5,600 million bushels.

Domestic use and exports may total around 4.3 billion bushels, leaving 1,300 million bushels for carryover next fall (1968).

FEED is still the big item in corn use. The amount used for feed in the year ending October 1 apparently was almost 3.4 billion bushels. For the year ahead, feed use may take 3.5 billion bushels. The number of livestock and poultry to be fed may not change much; but with lower prices for corn this year, farmers may give more second helpings.

More Exports, Maybe In 1965-66, exports of corn surged to a spectacular high of 670 million bushels. But that was because of poor grain crops in several foreign countries in 1965. In 1966, the foreign countries had bumper crops, and our exports of corn shrunk to about 450 million bushels. Crops in other lands do not seem to be quite so good this year, so exports may increase — perhaps to around 550 million bushels.

Industrial use and seed requirements do not change much and will be near 250 million bushels. This amount, plus 550 million for export and 3,500 million for feed, would make the total disappearance of 4,300 million bushels that we mentioned before.

If the carryover a year hence is around 1,300 million bushels (as now seems likely), most of it will probably be under price support. But farmers will not put large amounts under price support unless market prices are below the net loan level for at least a few months. If farmers put enough corn under loan, prices will rise several cents above the loan rate next spring or summer.

About half of the present 900-million bushel (more or less) carryover of old corn is under price support. Of the corn under price support, about one-fourth was corn from 1964 and 1965 under resale loans; three-fourths was corn from 1966 and previous crops that had been delivered to the CCC.

Corn yields will be especially high in Illinois this year. Furthermore, perhaps two-thirds of our corn will not be eligible for price support. These conditions may tend to hold down prices in Illinois.

4-H Club Week-It's Big, Booming

But that's just one way of describing 4-H in Illinois, according to Morgan County Extension Adviser George Trull. Another way would be to tell about Illinois' 85,000 4-H members, its 8,500 adult leaders and its several hundred thousand alumni.

4-H is a practical, out-of-classroom educational program started 52 years ago. The program is sponsored statewide by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. County extension advisers conduct activities at the county level.

Historically, 4-H has been the strong arm in developing America's agricultural success saga.

When the first 4-H Clubs were formed, educators saw the 4-H program as a stepping-stone to improve farming and home-making practices. But many farmers liked their old way of doing things. They resisted change. However, they did consent to letting their sons try out "those fancy, new ideas."

Thus, 4-H received its meager beginnings and blessings. County extension advisers found they could best reach the farmer through his son—and by demonstrations.

It was this door marked "4-H" that first introduced purebred livestock and through which new seed varieties, cultural practices and insect and disease control methods were tried and proven.

During the early years, strong emphasis was placed on traditional 4-H projects—livestock and crops for the boys; cooking and sewing for the girls.

Then changes came about on America's rural scene. No longer were farmers reluctant to accept new ideas. These "new-fangled ideas" put more meat on the table and money in the bank.

Population shifted from predominantly rural to urban. Today, less than 10 percent of America's farm youth will go back to the farm. The rest must find full-time employment elsewhere, in towns and factories, businesses and bureaus.

These two changes brought on new interests and challenges for youth. 4-H met them. It offered projects and activities that indirectly gave vocational and career guidance to young people.

Fast growing project areas include arts and crafts, automotive care and safety, room improvement, baby sitting, bicycling, photography, gardening, geology, electricity, veterinary science and others.

In each project area, 4-Hers find opportunities to use their leadership and public-speaking talents. The nationwide program recognizes the value of research and helps its members learn the decision-making process.

4-H in the nation is more than 2.4 million members strong and here in Morgan County there are more than 600 enrolled in 34 local clubs. Eighty volunteer men and women assist extension advisers in serving as volunteer local leaders.

It's big, booming. Become a part of 4-H. John During National 4-H Club Week, September 30 to October 7.

See your county extension adviser. The Cooperative Extension office is on East Morton Road, Jacksonville. Telephone 243-2712 and 243-2900.

Area To Lead State In Corn Production

Southwestern Illinois will have a whopping corn harvest, according to the preliminary estimate of the Illinois Crop Reporting service.

Last year drought and heat cut the corn crop away down in this district, for an average of 75 bushels per acre and a total yield of 85 million bushels. Last week the district yield was estimated at 110 bushels per acre, and an unbelievable 143 million bushel crop.

The state estimate is 101 bushels per acre. The soybean crop will be three bushels better than last year, the report said. It ran 30 bushels per acre last year and is expected to yield 33 bushels this year. Fields that have been combined seem to indicate this is a pretty valid guess, as quite a few fields are running up to 40 bushels per acre, and a small number in the 45 bushel class.

Production in the district is figured at nearly 30 million bushels, compared with a little over 27 million last year. The wheat crop in the district fell below the state average so far as yield is concerned, 39 bushels per acre in comparison with the state average of 40 bushels. But there was so much wheat planted in the fall of 1966 that production jumped more than 2½ million bushels.

Wheat yields in the district for 1966 and 1967, by counties, follow:

Illini Rip Pitt, 34-6

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Naponic plunged for one touchdown and passed for another, and sophomore Dave Jackson rocketed 78 yards to turn the game into a rout as Illinois opened its home football season Saturday with a 34-6 smashing of Pittsburgh.

The display brought cheers from 51,251 Loyalty Day fans who turned out to help erase the slush-fund scandal bluish and back new coach Jim Valek. The Illini opened last week with a 14-0 loss at Florida while UCLA mauled Pitt 40-8.

Illinois drove 46 yards in 11 plays in the first quarter with Rich Johnson's 15-yard dart and Naponic's 11-yard toss to Phil

Houston keying it. Naponic drilled the final yard.

A 19-yard pass from Naponic to Craig Timko and runs by Johnson and Jackson launched the Illini on a 71-yard thrust in 11 plays early in the third period. Naponic's 6-yard shot to John Wright was the payoff.

Illinois scored three quick ones in the fourth.

Ken Kniec's interception of a Frank Gustine pass set up Johnson's 26 yard touchdown gallop. Minutes later, Jackson, the Hartsdale, N.Y., flash making his first start, took a punt and raced 78 yards down the sidelines to score.

Bob Bess added Illinois' last touchdown on a nine yard run to end a 31-yard march.

The Panthers reached the Illini 13, 19, and 9-yard lines in the first half but failed to score — twice on missed field goals by sidwinder Bill Zurzolo — finally tallied in the games final minutes. Second string quarterback Jeff Barr hit Bob Longo for 35 yards and then speared Joe McCain for a 31-yard touchdown.

Southern Cal Tips Michigan State 21-17

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Fleet-footed O.J. Simpson raced for two touchdowns and passed for another as second-ranked Southern California handed Michigan State a 21-17 football beating Saturday.

Simpson rushed for 190 yards. Steve Sogge, No. 2 quarterback for the unbeaten Trojans, balanced Simpson's slashing runs with deadeye passing, including tosses of 16 and 45 yards that set up touchdowns.

Sogge hit nine of his first 10 pitches.

Simpson, who piled up more than 100 yards rushing in the first half, scored the first Trojan touchdown on an eight-yard run in the first period, then lunged a yard in the second quarter for another score.

The unranked and winless Spartans exploded for 17 points in the second quarter, capitalizing on Southern Cal mistakes, including a fumble inside the Trojan tree.

Dwight Lee bashed a yard for a touchdown after MSU end Al Brenner recovered the fumble.

Left-hander Ray Sadecki scattered five hits for his sixth straight victory as the Giants took the first game 3-2 to clinch their third consecutive second-place finish in the National League.

Simpson looped a surprise screen-pass to Jim Lawrence, who ran seven yards for a third-quarter touchdown that made the difference.

NEW YORK (AP) — Damascus, responding to a strong ride by Bill Shoemaker, came from far, far back and beat the favored Buckpasser by six lengths, going away, in the $100,000 Woodward Saturday, the Aqueduct test that was billed as the race of the decade.

Lincoln Upsets Southern, 19-10

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — The Lincoln University Tigers upset Southern Illinois University Saturday, 19-10, in a frenzied seasaw grid contest at Carbondale.

The Salukis picked up a first quarter safety but the Tigers from Jefferson City, Mo., made their first touchdown in three games on a second quarter pass from Ron Stuart to Charles Boldon.

The Salukis took a 10-6 lead with another safety and a line plunge by Doug Hollinger with only two seconds remaining in the third quarter. On the next kickoff, Lincoln's Lamar Parish disregarded the horn and raced 89 yards to paydirt.

The Tigers added insurance in the final period on Willie Lewis' 73-yard run with only 21 seconds left.

Stabler Guides Alabama Past South Miss. 25-3

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Quarterback Kenny "Snake" Stabler and his flashing split end, Dennis Johnson, carried the Alabama Crimson Tide to a 25-3 victory over tough Southern Mississippi Saturday night.

The two teams on three scoring passes of 20, six, and 33 yards, and provided the margin of victory.

Stabler again had a hot hand, connecting on 19 of 26 passes for 181 yards. The speedy Homan broke a Tide record with 11 receptions.

The Tide defense, which gave up a smacking 37 points in the opening game with Florida State, sputtered at times but held the Southerners to one field goal, a 30-yard effort by Thor Kondrat.

Alabama could do no better than 7-3 in the first half, the Tide touchdown coming on a second quarter 20-yard pass from Stabler to Homan. It climaxed a 63-yard drive.

Stabler completed eight straight passes in the Tide's third quarter scoring drive of 74 yards. His last one covered six yards to Homan in the end zone.

The final "Bama" touchdown was a thing of beauty. From the Southern 33, Stabler threw to Homan down the left sideline.

Homan fought off a Southern defender and barely made it to the corner of the end zone. Pete Moore carried up the middle for the conversion.

Quarterback Tommy Boutwell of the Southerners was rushed badly on the second play following the kickoff and he fumbled on the Southern 17. Jim Duke recovered for the Tide.

Alabama had been ranked second nationally two weeks ago but dropped to ninth last week.

Late Field Goal Lets Indiana Notch 18-15 Edge

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A 19-yard field goal by Dave Kornowa early in the fourth quarter handed Indiana a 18-15 college football victory over Kansas Saturday.

The Jayhawks tried to even the score with less than a minute on the clock but a field goal attempt by Dave Aikins from Indiana's 20-yard line fell short.

Flanker Jade Butcher scored both Hoosier touchdowns on a 28-yard pass from quarterback John Isenberger and a nine-yard pass from quarterback Harris Gosno.

Kansas quarterback Bobby Douglass converted a recovered Indiana fumble into a two-yard touchdown run with only 1:07 minutes played and he kept the ball for a 19-yard touchdown run again in the third quarter.

The Hoosiers kept up an aerial attack, completing 11 of 24 passes for a net gain of 183 yards to Kansas' 123 yards on passes.

The Jayhawks built up most of their gains on the ground, running up 146 yards to the Hoosiers' 113. Douglas tried 22 passes but connected on only six.

Oregon State Rans Iowa 38-18

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — It took Oregon State less than 10 minutes to build a 21-0 lead Saturday, and the Beavers went on to whip Iowa 38-18 in an inter-sectional football game.

The Beavers, winners of three in a row this year and nine straight since last season, pulverized Iowa's inept defenders with a three-pronged attack by quarterback Steve Preece, fullback Bill E. Nyart and wingback Bill Main.

With those three consistently making good yardage, Oregon State rammed in touchdowns three of the first four times it had the ball by halftime, it was 21-0.

Meanwhile, the West Coast outfit kept the Hawkeyes and their vaunted quarterback, Ed Podolak, bottled up most of the day. The Hawkeyes didn't even threaten in the first half and their last two touchdowns came after Oregon State had built a 38-6 lead.

Oregon State outgained Iowa 321 yards to 13 on the ground in the first half and finished with a 496-393 advantage in total yardage.

Missouri Edges Wildcats, 13-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Quarterback Gary Kombrink was a one-man gang and Missouri's defense did a smothering job to edge Northwestern's stubborn Wildcats Saturday.

Northwestern, a stunning 12-7 victor over Miami of Florida, was unable to contain Kombrink in a 71-yard Missouri touchdown drive in the first quarter. The Tigers iced the game with 37 and 35 yard field goals by Jay Wallace.

Kombrink, who ran and passed for 233 yards, sparked Missouri's long scoring drive by passing three times for 54 yards and scooting 13 on a keeper to set up a one-yard scoring plunge by fullback Barry Lischner.

The key play in the Tiger march was Kombrink's 28-yard toss to halfback Henry Brown on Northwestern's one-yard line.

Northwestern's touchdown also came in the first period after Dennis Coyne blocked Tiger Steve Kenmore's punt on the Missouri 17. Two plays later Bill Melzer hit Chico Kurzawski with a 17-yard touchdown pass.

That was the first touchdown scored against Missouri which opened last week with a 21-0 victory over Southern Methodist.

Although the Wildcats came out with a surprising passing combination, Melzer and split end Don Anderson, who clicked on 11 passes for 123 yards, Northwestern never could get a sustained ground game underway.

At halftime, although Northwestern trailed only 10-6, the Wildcats had been smothered for minus 20 rushing yards by the bruising Tigers.

Tovar Melted Old 'Iron Hands' Tag To Fill Posts For Twins

By IRA BERKOW
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Iron Hands was playing his first game in the big leagues and he made 'em all turn and sit back down.

It was opening day at Metropolitan Stadium in 1965. Two were out in the ninth inning and Minnesota led the Yankees 4-3.

The huge crowd elbowed happily toward the exits as a pop fly looped to Iron Hands at third base. He dropped it.

Iron Hands is what they began calling Cesar Tovar. It's a name they no longer use. It weren't for a guy named Yastrzemski, Tovar's new epithet might be: Most Valuable Player in the American League.

Throughout the frenetic 1967 season, Tovar batted near .300, fielded spectacularly and shifted positions like a restless sleeper. "He's the guy," said White Sox manager Eddie Stanbury, "who made the Twins go."

Not two years ago, though, in that opening day game, the Yankees tied the score on Tovar's error but lost, 5-4, in the 10th on Tovar's single. A month later, the likable little Venezuelan with pristine looks and gold cap-toothed smile was back in the minors.

"That pop-up made him shaky," said a Twins' official. "It seemed he couldn't do a thing right after. He's such an intense guy, anyway. He began battling everything. A few games later he made a costly throw. Then he blew another easy pop in Cleveland. He was shaken."

Tovar disagreed. "My feeling don't go down," he said. "Only me." To Denver of the Pacific Coast League.

He worked his way back to the Twins and began 1966 in center field, moved to left, then replaced ailing Zoilo Versalles at shortstop. At mid-season, he took over second base. That's where he stayed until this spring.

A hotshot named Rod Carew came along and sent Tovar back to centerfield, left, right, short (and second when Carew was out) and, finally, to third. During the mad last month of the pennant race, Tovar stuck at third.

A Red Shirt moves a load of bombs down the flight deck.

Bombs are hoisted into position beneath the aircraft by the Red Shirts.

Their official title is aviation ordnancemen. The pilots who fly air strikes over Vietnam call them, affectionately, "Red Shirts".

On the attack aircraft carriers serving with the U.S. Navy's Attack Carrier Strike Force 77 in the Gulf of Tonkin, these men have the awesome responsibility of arming each plane for its assigned mission.

To do this, varied armament and wing-racks are needed for varied targets. Working 12-18 hours per day, rising hours before the pilot briefing begins, these men change bomb racks with each flight. They trundle the ship's length with 250, 500, 750, 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombloads and somehow, every ninety minutes, have a fully-armed flight ready for launching.

With anywhere from 8 to 10 flights per day, the men are continually on the move. Every third night, with all flights in, the carrier will be resupplied from an ammunition ship. The Red Shirts are there, checking each piece of ordnance carefully before moving the pallets into position for easy accessibility when re-arming of the planes begins again.

These Red Shirts live with danger each day, but their courage is automatic in the face of any emergency. During the recent U.S.S. Forrestal disaster, these men rushed into the inferno to rescue trapped pilots, kept fire hoses running, threw live bombs overboard and, below decks, fought through smoke-filled compartments to minimize any danger from above.

Red traditionally means danger, but the red a combat pilot sees moving about his plane, shown in these pictures aboard the U.S.S. Hancock, is something he knows as security: the security the Red Shirts deliver in their job as ordnancemen.

Lt. Cmdr. P. D. Barrish looks on as the ordnancemen give him the "Ready To Go" signal after final arming.

A 750-pound bomb breaks loose and skids across the flight deck. Within seconds, the Red Shirts move out, bring it to a stop and disarm it.

Once the armament is in place, the delicate job of making each unit "live" is performed.

Rockets Rip 'Dosh 55-0 In PMSC

MEREDOSIA — Routt quarterback Lloyd Krumlauf threw three scoring aerials and ran an 80-yard keeper across the end zone to lead the Rockets to a 55-0 victory over the Meredosians here Friday afternoon.

Routt picked up their third straight grid victory and their first PMSC conference win.

First quarter action saw Krumlauf call a pass play for end John Costa that went 25 yards to score. Don Fuchs, on an interception, ran 30 yards for the next touchdown. Krumlauf again picked Costa as receiver to make the following extra point. Dan Welsh made the Rocket score 19-0 on a reverse in which he ran the ball 60 yards downfield for the TD. Paul Lambert charged over the line for the point after.

The Welsh and Lambert combination gave the Rockets their first score in the second quarter. Welsh ran off tackle within the three-yard mark for six points and Lambert crossed the line once more for the extra point. Routt freshman Mark Yording, a 160-lb. end, took an 11-yard pass play across Meredosians' goal line. Charles Kaufmann ran the point after.

Yording snapped another Krumlauf pass in the third quarter to boost Routt's margin by 39 points. The play gave Routt another seven yards in the passing department. Krumlauf ran the next score over himself, galloping 80 yards for six points on a keeper. Lambert ran the extra point. The Rocket offense charged to the Meredosians 3-yard line from where Dan Welsh plunged for the last touchdown. Lambert gave Routt its final point in the tied contest.

Four Called Back
Routt gave back four touchdowns during the game, three for clipping charges and another for a holding violation. Penalties throughout the game cost Routt 150 yards.

But, despite the loss to penalties, Coach Fred Curtis' Rockets picked up a total of 365 yards on the ground and 127 yards in the air.

Leading the attack from the rushing department was Dan Welsh who picked up 123 yards on eight carries. He scored 14 points. Fullback Lambert, who has consistently given the Routt offense extra yardage, was good for 110 yards in 15 carries during the game, and made four extra point plunges. Keeping the ball eight times, quarterback Krumlauf added 102 yards to the Rockets' gain. In the passing department, he completed 10 of 13 serials.

The Rockets made 15 first downs.

Tigers Have Easy Time In 20-0 Win

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Speedy Jesse Joyner raced for two quick touchdowns as ISD established early superiority and breezed to an easy 20-0 PMSC Conference victory over outmanned Bluffs, on the Tigers' grid-iron Friday afternoon.

ISD, which controlled the game by more than the final score indicated, had no trouble in moving the ball with the first offensive unit, and allowed Bluffs to enter Tiger territory only twice.

Joyner carried the ball only six times but whipped off 131 of the winners' 280 rushing yards. Ron Penn carried only ten times and added 60 more rushing yards.

The ISD first team on offense played less than two quarters, giving way to the second unit most of the afternoon. The Tigers had most of their first defensive unit most of the game.

The victory boosts ISD to a perfect 3-0 record, 1-0 in the conference. Bluffs is winless in three outings and 0-2 in the PMSC.

ISD received to open the contest and it didn't take long to set the trend. Joyner ripped off 15 and 11 in two carries and the Tigers moved to the one in eight plays. Joyner busted over left guard for the TD and Ron Sipek hurried to end Bill Fox for the PAT.

After Bluffs fumbled on their first play from scrimmage, Joyner broke loose on a double reverse two plays and went 55 yards untouched for a second score. Penn legged the point after.

Hurt By Mistakes
Any offensive the Bluejays were able to muster in the first half was nullified by a pair of lost fumbles and an interception by Steve Baker.

After a scoreless third quarter, in which Bluffs reached ISD territory for the first time, down to the 40, the hosts got their final score on the first series of the final period.

Joyner scooted 45 yards to the Bluffs' 35 and four plays later Penn swept left end for a five-yard score. The pass for the PAT fell short.

Bluffs, led by the sparkling running of fullback Danny Vannier, made its best offensive thrust of the day on the next series, a long drive that ate up the remainder of the period.

Vannier, who got 48 of Bluffs' 94 ground yards on 18 carries, led a charge on the ground that netted four consecutive first downs to the ISD 34 before Sipek hauled down an interception at the final gun.

Sw Western Downs Calhoun By 25-0

HARDIN — The Southwestern Birds held Calhoun scoreless in a Friday night Illinois Valley Conference tilt, winning the contest 25-0.

The Warriors lost a fumble in the second play of the game which led to Southwestern's first score by Randy Childress on a one-yard plunge. Kicker Kenny Schrier scored the point after.

A 21-yard pass from Ed Baker to Childress gave Southwestern its second score in the first quarter.

Schrier ran 58 yards around left end in the second quarter to a touchdown and eight-yards in the third quarter for a score on a pitch-out.

Southwestern moved the ball to seven first downs while Calhoun managed six.

Yardage gained by Southwestern added up to 172 yards rushing and 73 yards passing, four completions on 10 attempts. Calhoun gained 144 yards on the ground and 15 in the air, completing one of nine passes. Southwestern was set back 15 yards for penalties while Calhoun lost 20 yards.

Chisox Eliminated

CHICAGO (AP) — The Washington Senators ousted Chicago from the American League pennant race Friday night by nipping the White Sox 1-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Phil Ortega and an unearned run in the first inning.

The White Sox, who blew a tell-tale doubleheader at Kansas City Wednesday night, needed a sweep of the three-game series against Washington to stay alive in the hectic, four-team scramble.

They now can win a maximum of 91 games and must finish behind either the Minnesota Twins or Boston Red Sox, who meet in a two-game set Saturday and Sunday.

The Sox bowed out meekly as

Hank Allen then hit a double play ball to short but relay man Don Buford threw the ball into the dugout after a force at second for another error. Frank Howard drew a walk and Fred Valentine drove Allen home with the first of his three singles.

John, suffering his 12th loss against 10 victories, departed for a pinch hitter in the fifth inning, grounded to third and first baseman Tom McCraw let Keri Boyer's throw get away from him for an error.

Crimsons Defense Tips MacArthur

By BUFORD GREEN

Jacksonville stopped Decatur MacArthur twice in Crimson territory in the final four minutes and held on for a slim 12-7 Capital Conference victory over the Generals, on the JHS field Friday night.

JHS stopped MacArthur at the Jacksonville two when Dick Scott caused and recovered a fumble, then held on again when Gary Buchanan and Charles Grojean collaborated to force another Decatur fumble at the Crimsons' 38.

The final two defensive stands made a third-quarter touchdown by hard-running halfback Jim Bruner stand up after MacArthur scored the first time it had the ball with a 70-yard scoring march.

The running of Bruner and junior halfback Rod Simonds and the accurate throwing arm of quarterback Duane Mounts sparked a Jacksonville offense that rolled up a total of 249 yards for the evening, with most of the running going over tackle John Long and guard Paul Pollock on the left side.

The Jacksonville defense had all it could handle in slick-running halfback Bill Sutton. The 165-pound junior halfback ripped around and through the JHS defenses for a whopping 132 yards in 22 slashes at the line. Sutton blasted out 90 yards in the MacArthur-controlled first period.

On the Crimsons' side Bruner, just recovered from a leg injury, ripped MacArthur for 93 yards in 22 attempts. Simonds picked up 61 yards in 14 lunges and fullback Terry Hammers added 41 yards in 11 tries. Mounts hit five of seven passes for 51 yards.

Generals Dominate First
MacArthur completely dominated the opening period, taking the opening kickoff and marching 70 yards in 15 plays, with Sutton doing most of the damage. Sutton made the final two and ran the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 6:56 to play in the frame.

Hammers coughed up the ball on the ensuing kickoff and MacArthur seemed headed for another score, starting from the JHS 36. The drive cranked to the 23 before Buchanan caught quarterback Ron Boehm for a ten-yard loss and JHS finally got the ball from scrimmage. MacArthur controlled the ball for 25 plays in the quarter to only six for the eventual winners.

Late in the first period Jacksonville started its first scoring drive of the evening, moving from its own nine in a 91-yard romp that took 14 plays. Bruner and Simonds did most of the leg work in the march, with Bruner having tries of ten and 13 and Simonds ten and 19, the last one piling up six points, the play sweeping left ends with blocks from the backfield and end Chuck Stratman. The kick by Mounts for the point after was blocked.

JHS Gamble Fails
A fourth-and-five situation gamble on the JHS 32 failed midway through the second period, giving MacArthur the ball in scoring position. After a touchdown pass was called back, the first of three Decatur scores nullified, Scott intercepted a pass at the Jacksonville 25 to thwart the threat.

A 20-yard punt return by Simonds early in the final period set up what proved to be the deciding touchdown. Tackling over on the Decatur 38, Jacksonville got in to score in seven plays.

Simonds got six to the 32. Bruner and Otis Pitts ground to the 24 and a first down and Bruner legged eight more to the 16. Two more running plays put the ball on the nine and a walk-off against the visitors moved it to the four. Bruner busted over right tackle for the score with 6:24 to play in the frame. Again the extra point effort was no good.

Greg Campbell scored on a two-yard run in the final period to complete Northwestern's scoring. Northwestern is now 2-1 on the season, while Girard is 1-2.

Brad Lyman scored in the second period on an eight-yard run, but the conversion attempt was no good. Shaw plunged four yards to score, then kicked the point after to round out the Saukees' halftime score at 33 points.

Shaw returned the opening kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter, then kicked the extra point.

Tom McCartney threw a 12-yard pass to Charles Coultas in the fourth quarter to score. The conversion was good.

Yankees Sweep Pair From A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bryan's first home run of the season and the slick relief pitching by Fred Talbot led the New York Yankees to a 1-0 second game victory and a sweep of their two-night doubleheader over Kansas City Friday. The Yanks won the opener, 4-3.

Bryan, who spent most of the year with Syracuse of the International League, connected off rookie George Lauzerique in the sixth inning.

Talbot took over from starter Fritz Peterson with two out in the second inning and yielded only four hits the rest of the way. Peterson had reinjured his left ankle.

The Yankees won the first game on Mickey Mantle's sacrifice fly in the eighth that broke a 3-3 tie. Bill Monbouquette went all the way for New York, spacing eight hits. Rick Monday's fourth inning homer accounted for all Kansas City runs.

Hitchcock Fired As Braves' Pilot

ATLANTA (AP) — Billy Hitchcock was fired Friday as manager by the Atlanta Braves, who gave him the same silent treatment they gave Eddie Mathews, their veteran slugger.

Two hours after the public announcement of Hitchcock's discharge was made at a press conference, the erstwhile manager had not been told officially of his removal.

Last winter the Braves traded Mathews, their home run hitting infielder of Boston and Milwaukee days, to Houston but failed to tell him. The Braves later apologized.

Paul Richards, vice-president of the Braves, announced Hitchcock's removal. While no successor was named, Luman Harris is regarded as a strong possibility.

"The only regrets I have," Hitchcock added, "are that I didn't do a better job as manager for the wonderful fans in the Southeast—and that the people I work for didn't have the decency to inform me that I had been fired."

"This comes as a relief," said Hitchcock, who was not expected to be retained because the Braves are winding up their worst season in 15 years. "But I'm upset by how it happened."

"I was told about it by a newspaper man three hours before the announcement, but the Braves still haven't told me about it."

Asked about Hitchcock's statement that he was not told in advance, Richards said, "We tried to get in touch with him and couldn't." Richards said he had nothing to add to that comment.

Told that Richards said he had offered Hitchcock a job in the Braves organization, Hitchcock said "we talked about that possibility during the summer, but nobody has told me yet that I was being released."

"I will not go to work for the Braves under their present ownership," said Hitchcock, declining to elaborate on his reasons.

PRESENT $100,000 TO OLYMPIC FUND

CHICAGO (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, presented a $100,000 gift Friday to the City of Chicago for construction of an Olympic fountain.

Brundage, at a civic celebration of his 80th birthday, said the fountain would be the first of its kind in the world and was aimed at "motivating more young people to participate in amateur athletics and who aspire to be Olympians."

Actually, Brundage, who has headed the IOC since 1962, turned 80 Thursday.

There is no charge as the entire competition is absolutely free to all entrants and all equipment such as footballs and kicking tees are provided. No body contact is involved in PP&K competitions.

When they register, boys receive a free booklet of competition tips written by Green Bay's star punter, Bart Starr, the Baltimore Colts' punting specialist, Dave Lee, and Los Angeles Rams' place-kicking leader for 1966, Bruce Gossett. The booklet includes exercises for better physical fitness oriented to boys of PP&K's competition ages.

Eighteen handsome trophies will be awarded locally by Glisson Motor Co. to the top competitors. Gold trophies go to first place finishers, silver to second and bronze to third, with first place winners going on for further competition in Zone contests.

Griffith Takes Benvenuti Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith, fighting with the desperation of a scorned ex-champion, ended the five-month reign of Italy's Nino Benvenuti as world middleweight king Friday night and won a majority decision in a 15-round title match at Shea Stadium.

Snatching back the title he had lost last April 17 in a tremendous upset, Griffith used a solid left jab and a booming body attack to even matters with the blood spattered Italian, who bled from the nose throughout the bitterly fought match.

Benvenuti went down from a right hand to the chin in the 14th round but bounced up almost immediately, waving his hands to referee Tommy Walsh to indicate it should not be called a knockdown. However, he was given the mandatory eight count.

It was the only knockdown of the fight.

Judges Joe Eppy and Johnny Dran scored it 9-5-1 for Griffith. Walsh called it a draw with 7-7-1 in rounds and 7-7 in points. The AP card had it 10-4-1 for Griffith.

Crowd Disappointing
The once-postponed match went on despite a threat of more rain that cut the crowd far below the expected attendance of 30,000 and $300,000 in receipts.

Griffith surprised everybody, including Nino, by scoring repeatedly with his stiff left jab despite a three-inch edge in reach and a disadvantage in both height and weight. Griffith came in at 154 pounds and Benvenuti 159 1/2.

Benvenuti was not the super boxer of last April 17 when, as a 13-5 underdog, he upset the New Yorker. He was not getting off the brilliant combinations and his punches appeared to lack steam.

The Italian was throwing them on at a time while Griffith kept sending in combinations and lunging in with his head under Benvenuti's chin.

Blood dripped from the Italian's nose from the first round on. He also had a cut under the chin and his mouth was red with his own blood in the late rounds.

While Gil Clancy, his manager, kept shouting at him in the corner between rounds, Griffith closed strong. He had faded in the stretch in their first fight.

When Virginia Was Young

By GRACE T. HOLMES

There was once, many years ago, when a small white monument marked the resting place of an old and much loved citizen, Mike Fahey. He and his wife Bridget are resting in the Potter's field in Walnut Ridge cemetery. Many with grand monuments have never given the happiness Mike gave as he traveled over town with his donkey hitched to his "slop cart." His marker has fallen and is covered with earth.

Children followed his cart and oftentimes one of them got to sit beside him on the narrow seat of his cart. They cared not that the cart was not smelling of roses, what they liked was that kind, smiling face beneath his wide-brimmed black hat and telling wonderful stories in his Irish brogue. And the little donkey plodding along toward Mike and Bridget's log-cabin home.

One of our citizens remembers that her mother who lived in the Fahey neighborhood, told of going over and cooking food for Mike and Bridget when they were ill and she was 12 years of age. That was 76 years ago. Many of the children who enjoyed their associations with Mike, his donkey and cart have joined him in the great beyond.

The Canning Factory
In the 1890s, Virginia had a thriving canning factory, owned by Charles Wilson and E. E. Brass. It was located on the southeast corner of land now owned by Mrs. Glenn Birnbaum. A road ran along the east side of the ground and an east-west highway ran from Beardstown to Springfield on the south of the land.

The factory was a one-story

MIKE FAHEY, a genial Irishman, collected garbage in Virginia in his "slop cart" years ago. The box would hold either liquid or solid garbage and upon arrival at the pig pen it was an easy matter to take off the lid, unhitch the donkey and empty the box by tilting it backwards.

A recent visitor to the Emerald Isle says he saw many of these carts—identical with the one pictured here, donkey, harness and all.

brick building and a goodly number of young and adult persons brought their lunch buckets and spent the day preparing tomatoes and corn for processing.

Mr. Wilson grew thirty acres of tomatoes and sweet corn was grown on the R. W. Mills farm nearby. Produce was hauled to the east front of the factory and the workers who sat at long tables prepared it for canning.

After cans were filled, they were placed in a large steam vat with a heavy metal cover securely fastened down. A small lid on the top of each can was made with a hole in it and this had to be soldered by hand. After the cooking was completed cans were piled outside to cool. After cooling, the labels were applied.

The brand of the tomatoes was "Royal Red." They enjoyed a well-established market.

Mr. Wilson was manager of the factory and Mr. Brass the engineer.

Appendicitis Victim

Back in the 1890s, a trip to the hospital for an operation was tantamount to a funeral. One of Virginia's beloved young people became seriously ill and the doctors agreed that an operation was necessary. Miss Margaret Mae Black was the victim of what later was known as "appendicitis." She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Black. Mr. Black who was a lieutenant colonel in the cavalry in the civil war, died in 1896, the year of Mae's death. Before going under the anesthetic her words were: "If I die, I will be with papa and if I live, I will be with mama."

She passed on and her monument bears these words — "We Loved Her."

Here was the first known case of appendicitis in this city. The story was that grape seeds had lodged in her appendix. Few grapes were eaten in this area for some time.

The Pleasant Milkman

One of the fine rural Virginia families of the long ago, was Uncle Johnny and Aunt Mary Looker. They had two sons, Hampton and Allie, and their country home was always open to many young people from town. Among other things remembered is the well with a "sweep."

For many years, Allie was the milkman. Of mornings he hitched up his horse to an old buggy, in which he had placed two large milkcans, brought along his bell, tickets and measuring cup. Young people liked to take their bucket and ticket and rush out ready for the milk after hearing the bell. Allie liked children and always had time for some cheerful conversation. He sold twenty quart tickets for $1.00.

The Vegetable Man

In the long ago, Virginia had a greenhouse and a nursery owned by Uncle Andy and Aunt Ann Reither. The greenhouse was located west of the residence and nearby was a small rose garden. A block east was the nursery and "truck patch." In season, Uncle Andy hitched his horse to a small spring wagon and early in the morning went to the truck patch and loaded up with all kinds of fresh vegetables. He usually came home with an empty wagon.

They had small shrubs and trees and a number of flowers, among them beautiful roses. Everybody had a yard fence and often I found a pretty rose on our gate post, left there by Bert as he passed by. Uncle Andy always wore a white shirt and Aunt Ann took pride in always having one ready for him.

They had a parlor organ and two girls who were relatives made their home with them. On Sunday afternoon, when Lillie played the organ and Susie sang, neighbors came in to enjoy the music. Susie possessed one of the sweetest soprano voices seldom heard. Heavenly music is more beautiful since she has been there.

Stopping Explosions

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

More deaths in airline accidents are caused by the fire and explosion than by the impact of the crash. Other crashes are caused by an explosion when lightning or a spark ignites the fuel of a plane in the air.

In October, 1966, the Air Line Pilots Association adopted a resolution recommending that devices to stop explosions of spilled fuel be sought. This resolution was implemented on August 7, by a Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) Airworthiness directive to the owners of all 707 and 720 airliners, like the one shown above, except the newer 320B and 320C aircraft.

The airlines were ordered to "Install a flame and explosion suppression system in the fuel tank vent outlet system to prevent flame propagation through the vent system following ignition of vapor by lightning at the vent outlet." The airlines could also satisfy the FAA by installing an auxiliary vent tube with a flame arrester to provide better air flow.

A vent of the type now required by the FAA is produced by Fenwal Inc., of Ashland, Mass. This company, a division of Walter Kidde & Co. Inc., manufactures temperature, gas, and fire control systems.

Fire Control

James R. Keough, president of Fenwal Inc., says: "This system, as have other Fenwal systems, has had complete testing under both flying and laboratory conditions, and is already being used by Trans World Airlines."

"Putting a description of the system in layman terms, aircraft of the type covered by this FAA directive have an overflow, or surge fuel tank located through a vent 18 inches from each tip of the training edge of the wing.

"These vapors have proved highly inflammable and can be ignited from lightning strikes while the plane is flying, or from sparks or other outside flame sources while the craft is on the ground.

"Should a fire start by any cause at the vent, the Fenwal system will sense the presence of flames, and extinguish the fire within about 1/500th of a second before the explosive stage has been reached or before damage to the plane takes place. The engine system operates automatically using its own electrical system."

LITTLE JOE

Part 2: Dreary Silence
Danny had a glorious summer on the farm with his grandparents and hates to see it end as school time draws near. It's not so much that he dislikes school or even that he doesn't like life in the city, but what is to become of Little Joe—his pet fox that he found orphaned and raised from a little fellow. An apartment would be no place for a fox.

There was little conversation around the breakfast table this morning. The autumn school term was drawing near, and everybody was certain that the day's mail would bring word from Danny's mother to send him home on the next train. Although this had been understood from the beginning, the thought of his leaving cast a sort of dreary silence over everyone.

Finally, while trying to appear cheerful, Grandma flashed Danny a warm smile across the table. "We're going to miss you terribly, dear," she said in her breezy sort of way. "But your mother is getting anxious to see you too, and we'll be looking forward to your visit next year after school lets out for the summer."

"You bet we will, son," Gramps put in with a buoyant smile. "A few months time is nothing to worry about, and next year we'll get in a lot of things we didn't get to do this summer. Maybe take a boat and do some fishing down on the river for one thing."

What About Little Joe?
"But I don't know what's going to happen to Little Joe when I leave," Danny said with a plaintive look. "He's not used to having anybody around him but me, and I'm afraid he might get sick or something."

"He's big enough now to look out for himself, son," Gramps was quick to point out. "If you'd turn him loose he'd head for the hills where he could be with other wild creatures of his kind. That's where you found him in the first place, you know."

Turn Him Loose?
Danny gave Gramps a dubious look. "But Little Joe is different," he said. "He's never had to look out for himself, and the other foxes and things might try to fight him or something."

"On he'll make out all right, son," Gramps said with a reassuring smile. "For the most part he'll probably stick around pretty close to the house and I wouldn't be too surprised if he showed up here one day looking for you."

"At the moment I'm more concerned that he might return some dark night to raid the chicken house," Grandma put in with a weak smile. "I shudder to think what he could do to my flock of fine broilers."

"Oh fiddle-faddle!" Gramps said with a nonchalant gesture. "A measly chicken now and then is nothing compared to all the field mice and other rodents a fox will do away with in the run of a year. I say turn Little Joe loose and let nature take its course."

After breakfast Danny went up to his room and for a long while he sat on the side of the bed absorbed in deep thought.

Let's Go Birding

Fall Census

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Our Morgan County Audubon Club bird census was held on September 9 from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. As usual, the birds in their fall and immature plumage were sometimes hard to identify. As usual, the birds themselves were hard to find; they rarely sang or called, and the leaves, large and dense, were a perfect curtain for their concealment. And there were no convenient flats for shorebirds.

The day, for a change, was clear, warm, and quiet.

When the eight census takers met at 8:00 p.m. to total the count, they anticipated a discouraging report. To their surprise they discovered, after double checking, that they had found 118 species in the Jacksonville and Meredosias areas. Mud-plastered feet, poke-berry dyed hiking clothes, and mosquito bites had not been in vain.

As usual we worked as hard to find the most common birds as the unexpected ones. We never succeeded in locating the Titmouse, although it had visited our garden the preceding day. It shouldn't have been difficult to find, for it is always revealing its presence by its talking or scolding and is a permanent resident.

Two Missing?
As the end of the day neared, some of us kept wailing, "Where are the Red-winged Blackbirds? The Kingfishers?" Then, by chance, as we were speeding up to try another spot, we saw telephone wires lined with little dark birds; upon a closer study we saw all of our different swallows — sitting, visiting, flying in space, and maneuvering in a distant cornfield. Upon examining the cornfield more carefully, we also recognized a great flock of Red-winged Blackbirds. Our list of birds was still increasing.

Two Surprises
The two surprises for our total list were the Duck Hawk near Meredosias and the Pine Warbler near Jacksonville. We had not seen either one for several years. Two Caspian Terns near Sunset Beach gave us a thrill.

We were also pleased with a Black-crowned Night Heron, two Redheads, two Bluebirds, over 20 American Egrets, a Turkey Vulture, a Cooper's Hawk, a Sora Rail, several Stilt Sandpipers, 3 Ruby-throated Hummingbirds, a Kingfisher, 3 Olive-sided Flycatchers, 5 kinds of swallows, a Blue-gray Gnatcatcher, a White-eyed Vireo, 19 kinds of silent warblers, a large flock of Pied-billed Grebes, 4 kinds of herons, 7 kinds of ducks, 5 kinds of hawks.

Bobwhites and several Ring-necked Pheasants, a Semipalmated Plover, a Dowitcher, 12 kinds of sandpipers, both cuckoos, 5 kinds of woodpeckers, with the Red-headed leading the list, 4 kinds of flycatchers, 6 kinds of thrushes, some Cedar Waxwings, 2 Loggerhead Shrikes, 4 kinds of vireos, a Louisiana Waterthrush, exclusive European Tree Sparrows, bounding Goldfinches, and others. On such a census even the noisy Grackles, the nest-stealing Cowbirds, and the over-populated English Sparrows are welcome.

Prayer Poem

Nature Weeping

By Mary Pence Claywell

The sky so over-cast for days, Wept oceans, Lord, of rain, Until the earth was like a sponge,

Way back . . . in early Spring: The earth worms tried to find a place

In Mother Earth's cold breast, A limber, squirming bit of life, But found . . . no place to rest:

The trees bowed down their heads in grief, Their prayerful limbs upraised, A sad contrast to lifted ones, When Nature smiled and praised:

The muddy streams along the streets, Gushed out their grief and woe, The waters gathering here and there,

They had no place . . . to go; But Summer time dried up the Earth,

And sometimes, we'd complain, Yet, God in Mercy, now Looks down,

And Nature . . . weeps again: We thank Thee, Lord, in humbleness,

Thou knowest, when it's time to Bless, And we confess our doubts and shame,

For wet . . . or dry . . . man doth complain!

South's opening call of four hearts is not recommended. We favor opening this type of hand with one heart only. Sometimes this lets your opponents get into successful competition but there are many more times when a four heart bid gets you too high or keeps you from getting to a slam.

This time four hearts should have worked like a charm in spite of North being void of the suit.

West opened the king of diamonds. South took his ace and proceeded to cash dummy's three top spades in order to discard his deuce of diamonds. Then he ruffed a diamond to get back to his hand and played his king of hearts. East won with the ace and led the three of clubs to his partner's king. West returned the ten and East was in again.

East played his ten of spades and South had no way to keep West from making his ten of trumps. If he ruffed low West would cash it immediately. If he ruffed high West would make it later on.

"Beautiful defense!" said West. "You timed everything exactly right."

We agree with West's analysis of the defense. East had to lead the low club when he did. West had to return a club and East had to lead his fourth spade exactly when he did lead it.

We don't agree with South's play of the hand. He started out correctly by cashing dummy's three high spades and discarding his losing diamond. His next play was where he went wrong. Instead of ruffing a diamond he should have led dummy's last spade. Then, when East played the ten South would discard a club. Dropping the first club on the losing spade would have forestalled the eventual establishment of West's ten of trumps as a winner.

A.S.C. Committee In Morgan Takes Office

The Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee members who will be responsible for administering farm action programs in the county for the next year are: Lester E. Martin, Chairman, of Alexander, Illinois; Harold W. McDevitt, Vice-Chairman, of Franklin, Illinois; and R. Gloyd Leavell, Regular Member, of R. 2, Jacksonville, Illinois.

Terms of office for county committees are on a 3-year basis, with one member normally being elected each year at a convention of newly elected ASC community committees. The situation varies, however, according to the number of actual vacancies on the committee. In addition, first and second alternates are elected for one year each.

Mr. Martin is serving his third year of a 3-year term, Mrs. Leavell is serving his second year, and Mr. McDevitt was re-elected.

System Unique
The ASC farmer - committee system is unique. No other group of citizens has so direct a voice in developing and running Government Programs.

Farmers eligible to take part in programs administered by the committee first elect county committee members, who in turn elect county committees. While the county committee is in actual charge of administering the program locally, including expenditures of Federal funds, the community committees lend operating assistance where needed and are particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about the programs available.

The elected committees are not Federal officials. Congress holds the Department of Agriculture responsible, and the judgment and leadership of the Department in turn relies on the locally elected farmers and the county office employees. The county office serves as the headquarters for farmer business connected with program participation.

Major ASC activities in Morgan County include the Agricultural Conservation Program, Price Support Loans on Corn, Soybeans, and Wheat, Storage Facility and Equipment Loans, the Feed Grain Program, the Wheat Program, the Cropland Adjustment Program, and the National Wool Program.

Farm Program business handled by the ASCS Office in Morgan County last year amounted to over $2,100,000.00, which both improved the income of farm producers and strengthened the economy of the whole area.

Marshall Takes Oath Next Monday As First Negro On Supreme Court

By JOSEPH E. MOHAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty years at the bar and on the bench appear to propel Thurgood Marshall, who takes the oath Monday as the Supreme Court's first Negro justice, toward the court's liberal wing.

It is often risky to speculate on the future course of a new justice. But a quarter-century as a distinguished civil rights lawyer, dozens of opinions as a lower federal court judge and his two-year stint as solicitor general—representing the federal government before the high court—provide a fairly reliable yardstick of the 59-year-old Marshall's legal and judicial temperament.

The 97th justice to join the court since the nation's founding, Marshall will take the judge's oath—"to administer justice without respect to persons and do equal justice to the poor and to the rich"—as the court opens a new term.

He has actually been a justice since Sept. 1, when Justice Hugo L. Black administered the constitutional oath in a private ceremony.

PRESENT BADGES TO MEMBERS OF CUB PACK 106

Salem Cub Pack 106 held its monthly meeting Thursday night in the school basement with Den I leading the opening of the meeting with the pledge to the flag.

Cubmaster Robert Versen then made the following awards: Dennis Jarmen, Wolf Badge; Greg Lee, Doug Jarmen and Jay Dickman, Bear Badges; Greg List, gold and silver arrows for Wolf Badge.

Several of the cubs then presented projects which had helped them to earn awards. Dennis Jarmen and Jay Dickman displayed coin collections while Doug Jarmen's project consisted of a scrap book of places visited on his summer vacation trip. Greg Lee had made U.S. Flags from 1776 to the present 50 star flag. Rick Versen displayed a collection of insects, Greg List a collection of models and David Beckman showed a colorful set of pennants gathered during his summer western trip.

Bob Versen called attention to the round table meeting for persons interested in Cubing which will be held at the Grace Methodist Church Monday, Oct. 2, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting was closed with the singing of God Bless America.

Marshall has taken over the chambers vacated by retired Justice Tom C. Clark. He has hired two law clerks—one from Harvard, one from Columbia—to help him with the mountain of legal business the court must dispose of by June. Both are white.

For several weeks, Marshall and his clerks have been reviewing hundreds of petitions for Supreme Court review of cases decided in state and lower federal courts. In the hectic days following the court's ceremonial opening Monday, the junior justice will cast one of nine votes on what cases to accept for review.

Until midwinter, however, he will be taking part in barely half of the court's work. Because he was U.S. solicitor general for the past two years, passing on all federal cases to come before the high court, he will disqualify himself from consideration of any federal cases in which he had a hand.

What may be expected from the newest justice as he settles into the court's routine? It has been routinely assumed that he will quickly align himself with the liberal majority led by Chief Justice Earl Warren, with Black and Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Abe Fortas. Clark usually voted on the "conservative" side with John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, and Byron R. White.

The "liberals" of the court read the Constitution, as Marshall put it recently, as a "living document," to be interpreted and applied in the light of new situations as they arise.

The "conservatives," loosely speaking, take a more rigid view of the Constitution. The "liberals" are identified with the defendant in the public debate over the rights of suspects and criminals, while the "conservatives" are popularly identified with the police and society at large.

Infantry Essential

Con Thien Drives Home World War II Lessons

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran U.S. officers say the battle of Con Thien is driving home again lessons learned in World War II and Korea: Massive firepower and big gun power have only limited effect in silencing a dug-in enemy.

These officers, many of whom saw action in both early wars, said the only way to do the job is to send in infantry to root out enemy batteries burrowed into holes and caves.

Current U.S. policy forbids any U.S. infantry attacks across the border into North Vietnam, from which most of the Communist artillery fire is aimed at Con Thien.

U.S. sources said the North Vietnamese have arrayed between 75 and 125 artillery pieces north of the Ben Hai River boundary.

These Soviet-designed guns, ranging from 85 to 152 millimeters, have been pounding the U.S. Marine outpost, some 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone, for nearly a month.

U.S. batteries have fired as many as 10,000 shells at the North Vietnamese guns in a single day.

This was 10 times as many as the North Vietnamese guns were throwing at Con Thien.

In addition, waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers dumped 600,000 pounds of high explosive on enemy positions.

The American officers said it appears the Communists wheel their artillery out of caves and tunnels to fire, and then probably roll them back in under cover.

In addition, Communist mortars ranging from 60 millimeter to 120 millimeter weapons, fire into the outpost from positions inside South Vietnam, west and south of Con Thien. These mortars are believed dug into deep holes.

Experts said American shells and bombs would have to score direct hits or near bursts to collapse the caves, tunnels and holes from which the Communists are pumping rounds into the Marine outpost.

The Communist artillery and mortars are believed highly mobile, so that they probably are shifted from position to position after bursts of fire. This makes them hard to hit, too.

So far as is known here, the Communist positions for the most part are not reinforced with concrete, but may be shored up with timber.

The Marines have available to them a new Army-produced mobile radar designed to detect the positions of mortars and other high angle weapons such as howitzers.

The specifications say these radar units can locate a gun position with an accuracy of about 160 feet at a range of up to about six miles.

But officers acknowledge that the radar has limitations, in that it emits a relatively narrow beam and must be pointed in the direction from which the enemy's fire comes in order to spot the trajectory and plot it back to the mortar or howitzer position.

There is a difference in opinion among U.S. military men here as to how severely the American air and artillery barrage may be punishing the North Vietnamese gunners and mortar men.

One U.S. Army artillery authority said the North Vietnamese "have to be suffering tremendously."

He said he considers "remarkable that they are willing to take heavy losses in people and guns and keep on with their shelling."

But other Americans who remember World War II and Korea dispute the belief that the enemy is being badly bloodied.

"I ran into this kind of thing on Iwo Jima and Okinawa," said one Marine officer.

"If they get enough cover, it's hard to knock them out even with a direct hit."

Commerce Office Authorizes Merge Of 2 Railroads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission upheld Thursday the merger of the Chicago Great Western Railway into the Chicago & North Western Railway, and said the consolidation may take place in 35 days.

At the same time, the commission modified its April 20 approval of the merger to afford greater protection to employees who might be affected.

The commission had been asked to reconsider its earlier decision by the Soo Line Railroad, the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin, and two union groups—the Railway Labor Executives' association and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

To protect labor, the ICC ordered that in the event of any dispute regarding employees and resulting from the merger, a labor-management arbitration committee shall be selected—one member by labor, one by management and a third by both.

In the event both sides fail to agree on selection of the third member, they are to ask the National Mediation Board to designate them. The committee's decision, in any case, is to be binding.

The commission in its earlier decision had imposed arbitration-type protection for employees of the railroads.

In Chicago, Ben W. Heineman, North Western chairman, said he is delighted that the commission reaffirmed its earlier decision approving the merger.

Heineman said no date has been selected for the official combining of the two railroads. The Soo Line had complained that as a result of the merger it would suffer severe losses—possibly more than $1.3 million a year because of diversion of traffic.

The Soo was concerned particularly about freight traffic between Chicago and Minneapolis. But four other railroads also operate between Chicago and the Twin Cities: Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; and C. & N.W.

In its original decision last April the commission laid down a set of special conditions to protect the Soo Line. These required C. & N.W. to lease the Soo certain tracks and provide for interchanges of freight traffic with other railroads.

The ICC found that the original decision "is based upon adequate findings" and nothing more is necessary.

Under the ICC's order the C. G. W. and C. & N.W. have 180 days within which to consummate their merger.

The Chicago & North Western, one of the most merger-minded of the nation's railroads, currently is involved in a proposed merger with the Milwaukee Road, and is competing with several other railroads for a large chunk of the Rock Island.

YOKE OF WAR rests heavily on the shoulders of this young member of the 3rd Battalion, 26th Marine Regiment, as he uses his M-16 rifle to distribute the weight of his equipment. But Some Firms Get Sales

Most Russ Officials Snub U.S. Trade Tries

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS

MOSCOW (AP) — "I'm never coming here again," the American businessman said. "I'm fed up."

He was expressing the frustration of his company and a number of others that tried and failed to crack the Soviet market this summer.

In a major U.S. effort to get Russians to buy American, four groups of company representatives came over to give sales pitches.

Communist officials listened politely and in most cases said "nyet."

Some of the businessmen were successful, ringing up total sales exceeding $600,000 in items ranging from inventory-control computers to textile machinery.

These few sales helped raise this year's total U.S. exports to Russia, which are at an annual rate of about $63 million, up from $41.7 million last year.

But most of the U.S. businessmen went home empty-handed.

An embittered salesman of men's socks put it this way: "I came over here twice. Every time I tried to get a firm answer, they gave me the run-around."

"Their bureaucracy is so big they can't make any fast decisions. I haven't got time to hang around. It would be cheaper to open a new sales office in San Francisco."

U.S. firms' competitors from Western Europe and the Soviet bloc racked up sales in the millions of dollars.

"The problem is political," a U.S. Embassy official said. "Because of the Vietnam war and their position as the leader of Communist nations, the Russians feel embarrassed to embrace us too closely."

Even without Vietnam, Moscow shies from buying American because it means spending hard-to-get dollars. Rubles are not accepted outside the Soviet bloc.

The black sands of Kara Kum Desert cover almost 90 per cent of the 188,400 square miles of the Soviet Union's Turkmen Republic.

We, The Women

Sexual 'Togetherness' Can Be Carried Too Far

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I just could not tell whether it was a boy or girl.

It was skinny. It wore shorts, a T-shirt sneakers. And that same jawlined bobby hair by which Dr. Timothy Leary seems to be asserting the Freudian thesis that males are endowed with feminine qualities as we are endowed with masculine ones. Not that I object to this Viennese formulation. I think it's splendid for males to claim the female right to weep when they're unbearably hurt just as I think women should claim the male right to fight when we're unbearably bullied.

On the other hand, our revolted youth (and in this case revolting, too) can overdo this sexual "togetherness." Because all I can tell you about that it of anonymous gender is that it was 15 years old. And that I know only because the adult who paid its breakfast check hissed at it, "It's disgusting for a 15-year-old child to slurp up orange juice like that."

Not that I cared how old it was. And for other square ancients among us who are as bored as I am with revolted youth's confusion of transvestism with Dr. Freud's compassionate permission of weeping to wounded men and fighting to wounded women, I've culled some comments recently made by Dr. John L. Schimmel of the William Alanson White Psychoanalytic Society.

"In our country," he told a meeting of his colleagues, "there are three cultural factors which cause difficulties in the sexual area. First, our egalitarian ideal looks to a denial of actual difference between the sexes, imposing on both unrealistic expectations and standards of performance. Second, the ideals of materialism have become incorporated into sexual expectations and judgments. And lastly, sexual performance... is viewed in the context of the American proclivity for making things work, for know-how, for function — like plumbing."

Religion In The News

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Nominal Christianity has had it."

That's the stark assessment of present-day church life voiced by a leading Methodist theologian, the Rev. Dr. Albert Outler. Others have sounded similar views.

They call for firmer commitment to basic doctrine and its demands, and they challenge what they consider a rash of lax departures from it to appeal to passing, modern outlooks.

"The time may have come for theology to be more concerned with the truth of the Christian faith than with courting the elusive modern man," says the Rev. Dr. William Hordern, a United Church of Canada scholar.

There also is a growing conclusion that the Church is entering a period when its character and makeup will require tougher dedication to its teaching, in an atmosphere of much disbelief.

"In the new era—and it has started already—phony Christians will be recognized as phony," Roman Catholic Archbishop Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio told a recent gathering there.

In this connection, two tendencies, cited as widespread problems in recent church life, have drawn increasing fire from various religious leaders:

—The casual apathy of many churchgoers toward doctrine and its implications for conduct. This indifference, and vagueness about specific belief, has been brought out in numerous studies.

—The recent splurge of novel, iconoclastic approaches to faith, often by some theologians themselves, such as the coiners of the "Death of God" label for the modern technological age.

Both approaches are producing a backlash, however, and also signs of a countertrend, resisting the casual, complacent type of churchmanship and the scaling down of doctrinal criteria.

Noting the flurry of assaults on classic Christian beliefs, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, told its central committee meeting in August on the island of Creta that the interdenominational body must stick to gospel standards.

"The ecumenical movement depends today as it has from its beginnings on the transcendent God made known in His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord," he declared.

Other influential churchmen, including Pope Paul VI, have spoken out increasingly lately against what they call a wave of superficial interpretations that have spread skepticism in the churches.

Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Washington, says the modern "enemies of religion" usually are within it.

Dr. Outler, of Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, says churches have been indulging in "the dangerous game of theological roulette—of seeing who had the gravest doubts, the most audacious repudiations of historic Christian teaching, who could come the closest to atheism and not topple over."

Sao Paulo Biental Draws Art From 61 Countries

By JOSEPH NOVITSKI
Associated Press Writer

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) —

The Sao Paulo Biental, the largest periodical competitive exposition in the Americas of the world's modern art opened for a four-month stand here in late September.

Over 5,000 works of 1,000 artists from 61 foreign countries and Brazil are arranged in national displays in the huge, three-story Biental Building in this city's Ibirapuera Park. The biental is scheduled to close on Jan. 8.

An international jury of art critics from Brazil and seven foreign countries have begun their task of selecting the winner of the $10,000 Itamaraty Award for the best individual work in any field.

The jury composed of Werner Schmeelenbach, West Germany, Alan Bowness, Britain, Ryszard Stanislawski, Poland, Andrew Ritchie, U.S., Ida Rodriguez, Mexico, Ignacio Pirovano, Argentina, Teijiro Kubo, Japan, and Brazil's Geraldo Ferraz, will also choose the winners of the 10 Biental of Sao Paulo Awards of $2,222 granted in each of the individual fields of the plastic arts.

The works of foreign artists are entered by the governments of their countries, and the biental accepts only works dated after 1963 as competitive entries.

The more than 1,000 Brazilian entries show a much stronger influence from "pop" art than the selection displayed at the eighth biental in 1965.

The U.S. exposition, like those of Western European countries, seems to strike a balance between the traditional and the very new. A special retrospective salon of 39 works of the late Edward Hopper contrasts with the list of 21 young artists including Jasper Johns, Andy Warhol and Tom Rosenquist.

The "op" and "pop" works of Jean-Pierre Reynaud, 28, and the "primary structures" of Alain Jacquet, also 28, represent the new French style. Two more mature artists, James Cuitet and Baldacini Cesar, complete France's selection.

Gianni Colombo's electro-mechanical constructions, spark the Italian entry of 20 artists. Russia, apparently unwilling to face the old vs. new issue, is only exhibiting stage and costume design for the theater.

The Sao Paulo Biental, in the heart of this industrial capital of Latin America's largest nation, is also the occasion for auxiliary international exhibitions, notably photography.

A "Biental of Science and Humanism" is another novelty scheduled for this year. A symposium on the relation between science and humanism will be held alongside an exposition of space-age hardware.

Antarctica's emperor penguins reverse courtship customs, the females take the initiative and the males incubate the eggs.

Tax Case Opens Door To Broaden Tax Base Throughout Illinois

By JOHN B. MARTIN

Friday, the Supreme Court of Illinois announced a decision in which the Court reversed Morgan County Circuit Judge William Chamberlain's August 31, 1966, decision in which he held 9 tracts of MacMurray College real estate to be tax exempt.

The effect of the Supreme Court's decision means that henceforth college-owned property used for staff housing will be taxed like any other property in the State of Illinois, not just in Morgan county.

The appeal from the Circuit court was taken by State's Attorney Charles J. Ryan and was argued before the high court on May 12, 1967.

In his brief and argument before the Supreme Court, Ryan contended that housing facilities furnished by MacMurray for certain members of its staff and faculty were not being used "exclusively for school purposes" as is required by the revenue code to qualify such property for tax exemption.

The concluding paragraph of Ryan's brief was: "MacMurray College has a staff of some 245 persons; 30 of them live in college owned housing. None of these thirty are obligated to live in college owned housing to fulfill their responsibilities to the college. What argument can contend that these thirty persons should be relieved of local property taxation while the remaining 215 members of the staff and faculty pay either directly on the homes they own or indirectly by rent? To allow the exemptions in this case would thus be discriminatory. We must presume that the legislature did not intend to violate the Constitution, and we must, therefore, adopt a construction of the statute which will not bring about an unconstitutional effect."

A check with Sheriff Dean Colwell on the amount of taxes still unpaid by MacMurray College indicated a total bill of $3,587.64 for real estate (two years), plus slightly more than $450 in personal property which had nothing to do with the tax case. The amount of tax involved in the litigation was $2,823.62.

MacMurray was assisted in the appeal by the Federation of Independent Illinois Colleges and Universities whose membership includes the University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Loyola, Illinois College and almost all other private universities and colleges in the state.

MacMurray College was represented in the trial court and Supreme Court by Attorney William L. Fay of Jacksonville.

In the course of the opinion the Supreme Court stated: "A party seeking tax exemption for staff housing facilities as property exclusively used for school purposes obviously must do more than merely show that the property is owned by the school and occupied by school personnel. Use must be exclusively for school purposes. "Exemption will be sustained (only) if it is established that the property is primarily used for purposes which are reasonably necessary for the accomplishment and fulfillment of the educational objectives, or efficient administration, of the institution."

"The college has failed to demonstrate clearly that the faculty and staff housing was primarily used for purposes which were reasonably necessary for the carrying out of the school's educational purposes. The record does not show that any of the faculty or staff members of the college were required, because of their educational duties, to live in these residences, or that they were required to do or did perform any of their professional duties there."

"Foot in the Door"

The decision involving MacMurray College is regarded throughout the state as a "foot in the door" to closer observation by taxing bodies of the exemption status of educational institutions as well as other organizations claiming exemptions because of their charity nature.

Already several counties throughout Illinois have placed real estate tax assessments against parsonages of churches. This has not started in Morgan county, but may come soon according to the board of county commissioners.

The high court Friday also ruled that North Shore Post No. 21 of the American Legion could not declare its property tax exempt for 1964.

This decision, coupled with the MacMurray decision, could cause a decided change in the tax base of a number of counties throughout the state as well as Morgan county.

As property taxes increase, along with multipliers supplied by the revenue department, the pressure on local tax officials to broaden the tax base increases too.

Taxpayers' Pressure

Many taxpayers who consider themselves overburdened have long wondered why all property, churches, colleges and many other governmental properties are not taxed just like everyone else since they require as much, and in some cases more, services from government as private citizens.

The federal government has moved to provide contributions to local taxing bodies if the location of a large military base presents undue hardships. A large air base located near Rantoul created a hardship for school officials several years ago but the federal government provided funds for construction of schools to house dependents of the military staff as well as the civilian workers.

School District 117, less than a year ago, joined with several other school districts in an effort to secure the same type of grant from the State of Illinois. The argument locally was that the State of Illinois, because of the large amount of real estate within the district enjoying tax-exempt status, should provide a contribution in lieu of taxes for the upkeep of the schools. The request, of course, fell on deaf ears as far as the state was concerned, but the objective may be pursued with renewed vigor in the next few years.

Private Clubs Tax-Exempt

Private clubs in Jacksonville enjoy tax-exempt status at the present time, but the time could come in the not too distant future when the tax assessor will consider the building as a part of the regular tax base. The pressure is already on local officials from those heavy taxpayers who operate restaurants, hotels and motels. Their argument is sound and in many cases convincing: Why must they compete for such things as wedding receptions, banquets and other functions of a public nature with an organization that enjoys a tax shield.

Where to draw the line is the tight-rope that the Board of County Commissioners has to walk daily. Ask yourself, should tax bills be sent to (for example) the convent at Our Saviour's Parish; the Masonic Temple; the American Legion Home, the parsonage of the Methodist Church, the Elks Club, the city light department and others?

Members of the board have always welcomed suggestions from county residents.

The Sherwood Eddy Y.M.C.A. construction program is progressing on a schedule that should permit beginning occupancy of the building in December. The total construction program will be completed early in 1968. The building will house a complete physical plant.

Included in the building — a modern Olympic size swimming pool 75 feet by 36 with six lanes for competitive swimming — will be one of the first areas opened in the new Y. A complete aquatic program, including instruction, life saving, scuba, and recreational swimming, will be offered. Final steps are now being done on the pool construction, including the tile work. When completed, the pool will be one of the finest in the state.

The physical plant will include a gymnasium, judo and wrestling room, two handball courts, and extensive exercise and weight lifting room. In addition there will be multi-use play fields, tennis courts and ball fields outside when the project is completed.

The Sherwood Eddy Y.M.C.A. will include a modern Health Club, featuring sauna baths, sunlight, massage, sitz bath, and private lounge.

Included in the plans are an assembly room lounge, club rooms and a limited food service. The total facilities are planned to meet the needs of the total family.

Robert Mowry, Executive Director, announced that program schedules are available at the Y.M.C.A. These programs list partial times for the more than 375 meeting activities which will be offered to Y.M.C.A. members.

A temporary fall schedule will be offered members beginning October 9, using the gymnasium facilities at Jonathan Turner Junior High School, the pool at the Illinois School for the Deaf, and the present Y.M.C.A. building at 423 West State. As the new building is completed programs will be moved to the new site.

Howard L. Aufrecht of Blue Island was westbound when he served to avoid contact with a parked auto. His door flew open, and Aufrecht had almost fallen out of the vehicle when an eastbound auto struck and closed the car door.

The second unit was operated by Jo Ann Trumbo of 908 Cox street. Aufrecht sustained arm abrasions and bruises. Time of the accident was listed as 6:13 p.m.

Employment Up In Local Area

An employment increase of 700 in the Jacksonville area for the six-month period of February through August, was announced Friday by L. N. Caldwell, area manager for the Illinois State Employment Service. Caldwell credited seasonal hiring in both the manufacturing and the non-manufacturing sectors for the rise from the February employment total of 16,250 to the mid-August level of 16,950.

Caldwell also reported unemployment in the Jacksonville area totaled 525 persons, representing about 3% of the total work force. This compares favorably with the national rate of 3.7 per cent and a preliminary state rate of 4 per cent, is slightly higher than the August, 1966, rate of 2.6 per cent.

The Jacksonville area includes Morgan and Scott counties.

Market Hits Peak Then Back-Pedals; Car Sales Set Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market hit another new 1967 high Monday, then back-pedaled the rest of this past week. The performance was much like that of the previous week. The market rose to its highest level since the recovery drive began last October. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed Monday at 943.08, up 8.73, exceeding the previous high of 938.74 achieved a week earlier.

Brokers said the advance was made against a background of a year-to-year gain in new-car sales despite the strike against Ford and indications that time is beginning to run out on tax increase possibilities this year. The market reversed its course Tuesday as profit takers nibbled away at gains amassed during the extended advance. And Wall Street rumors that the Federal Reserve Board might soon raise the margin rate — the amount of cash investors must put up to buy stock — from the current 70 per cent proved unsettling. Despite continued price increases for industrial and consumer products, which brokers pointed out were inflationary influences, the market continued to drift lower for the rest of the week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 7.69 points to 926.66 this past week. The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 2.0 points to 338.8.

Among 1,623 issues traded, 875 declined and 620 advanced. There were 250 new 1967 highs and 86 new lows.

Volume for the week fell to 58,854,210 shares and 56,590,770 the previous week.

Government and corporate bonds advanced in price late this past week, offsetting most of the losses which occurred earlier in the week.

Federal reserve purchases spurred, in part, the late improvement in governments.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market floated through a quiet, inconclusive session in fairly active trading Friday.

Advances and declines among individual stocks were virtually even.

Electronics were strong and drugs were weak. Most other groups were mixed.

Of 1,456 issues traded, 612 advanced and 611 declined. New 1967 highs topped new lows 87 to 30.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 2.72 to 926.66. The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped 2 to 338.8 with industrials off 1.7, rails up 1.0 and utilities unchanged.

The New York Stock Exchange common stock index showed a gain of one cent in the average price of a share. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index slipped .08 to 56.71.

Volume contracted to 9.72 million shares from 10.47 million Thursday.

Among the 15 most active, 8 advanced, 5 declined and Scott Paper and Pan American World Airways were unchanged.

For the third straight session Amphenol, up 2 1/4 at 37 3/4 on 255,500 shares, was most active.

Tandy closed with a gain of 4 1/4 at 39. Alleghany common stock rose 1 1/2 to 13 1/2 and Alleghany preferred was up 1/4 at 45 1/2.

American Research jumped 1 1/2 to 137. Trans America advanced 1/2 to 47 1/2 and Trans International Airlines added 1 1/2 at 21 1/2.

The declines of the narrower averages reflected losses of 2 1/2 to 17 1/4 by Du Pont, 1 1/4 to 13 1/2 by Eastman Kodak and 1 1/2 to 5 1/2 by Union Carbide.

Among the electronics, Sperry Rand advanced 1/2 to 47 1/2 and Zenith gained 1/2 at 69 1/2.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. The exchange index rose 17 cents to 222.75.

Committee Reports Too Much Invested In U.S. Agriculture

By C. YATES McDANIEL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A study made for the President's National Advisory Commission on Food and Fiber finds that the United States probably has too much invested in agriculture and blames major federal policies and programs for encouraging waste of farm resources.

The study of 1980 food and agriculture requirements emphasizes the "rapidly-dwindling need" for farmers, indicating that in 13 years the United States will require about one-third fewer farming man-hours "no matter what farm policy we follow."

The commission's analysis, made by Dr. Early Heady and Leo Mayer of the Center for Agriculture and Economic Development at Iowa State University, contends that new capital and new technology flowing into agriculture are replacing manpower. "Even if U.S. farms were asked for maximum output in 1980," the authors say, "man-hour requirements would be down 31 percent."

Noting substantial underemployment on many farms now, they contend the country "must expect to find nonfarm jobs for the equivalent of 40 per cent of its current farm manpower (about 5.9 million) by 1980 to avoid continued depressed incomes for farmers."

The change in labor requirements would vary by regions, the projection showed. It would mean finding non-farm employment for 53 per cent of agricultural workers in the Mississippi Delta states, but for only 18 per cent in the Pacific Coast area.

The study indicates the country is farming "millions more acres than we need ... and essentially wasting the labor and capital that farmers invest in those extra acres."

The "major contributors to this misuse of resources," the authors state, are federal farm commodity programs which use acreage allotments and temporary land retirement to regulate production.

These programs, they contend, tend to preserve existing production patterns, instead of encouraging output to shift as technology and markets change the comparative advantages of production regions.

Underscoring their contention, the authors say that if farm output followed current comparative advantages without government intervention more cotton production would shift from the Southeast toward the Southwest, wheat growing would shift from the Corn Belt toward the Eastern Great Plains and feed grain production would concentrate more in the Corn Belt.

The study maintains that the overall result would be production of food and fiber at less cost to consumers without necessarily reducing farmers' financial returns.

The authors suggest the more economical and effective longer range solution is to shift some more excess acreage to grazing and forestry.

The projection showing that farmers could maintain their financial returns while producing at less cost "is based on two big 'ifs'—if a free market encourages efficiency and technology continues to develop at the present rate, and if the government refuses to decree programs to hold prices at artificially high levels.

Under such circumstances, the study sees a 1980 wheat price of $1.27 per bushel, down 14 cents from late 1967 levels; feed grains (corn equivalent) sold by farmers for 75 cents, against $1.11 now; a soybean price of $1.23 per bushel, less than one-half the current price, and cotton produced for 17 cents a pound, down only 11 cents from the present but substantially below recent prices in recent years.

Living Cost Rise Provides Basis For Tax Boost Proposal

This Week in Business By GEORGE TAYLOR AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Government statistics showing a rise in living costs and wholesale industrial prices this past week gave the administration additional arguments for its income tax boost proposal.

Living costs are up 2.7 per cent so far this year and might reach nearly 3 per cent by the end of the year, said Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

If they reach 3 per cent, they would approach last year's 10-year high of 3.3 per cent, he said.

And, Ross added, "A tax increase would mitigate price pressures."

He said wholesale prices rose five-tenths of 1 per cent in the past two months after five months of virtually no movement.

He called wholesale prices most significant because "they move into consumer prices."

The administration argues that a tax boost would take some steam out of inflationary pressures, such as rising prices.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, ranking Republican of the Ways and Means Committee, said Congress should enact a tax increase and, "in the absence of credible action by the President to cut spending," couple it with a ceiling on nondefense expenditures.

The American Bankers Association called on the Federal Reserve to tighten its bank credit policy as an anti-inflation move.

Prices continued their upward movement. Allied Chemical Corp. said it is boosting its price of sulphuric acid, a widely used industrial chemical, between $2.25 and $3 a ton.

Freeport Sulphur Co. said it was increasing by $5.50 a ton its price on domestic sulphur, in short supply.

Some shoe manufacturers announced 3 to 4 per cent price increases on some spring lines.

Admiral, Philco, Magnavox and Zenith said they would raise color television prices, following the lead of Radio Corporation of America.

Crucible Steel Corp. said it would raise the price of stainless steel in bar, sheet and strip form.

There was one notable price rollback. Chrysler, which had announced 1968 auto prices cut its prices by about an average of $31 a car from those originally announced. This would make them about $140 above the 1967 list.

Meanwhile, the Ford auto strike went into its fourth week with no immediate sign of settlement.

With the Ford strike, auto production this past week was estimated at 140,858 cars, down from 147,447 the previous week.

In other economic developments, the Commerce Department said corporate profits fell in the April-June period for the third consecutive quarter. Before-tax profits totaled $78.9 billion at an annual rate in the second quarter, down from $79 billion in the first quarter.

Imports declined to a seasonally adjusted August total of $2,114,800,000, lowest since August 1966.

Camera Shop Plans Location On Square

Plans were announced this week by Robert Linebaugh and Jack Barwick of the Camera Shop that the business will be moved to a new and larger location on the public square within the next two months.

Linebaugh, vice-president in charge of retail sales of Mid-state Photo Labs Inc., said that the Camera Shop has leased the location, formerly occupied by Rainbo Paint and Wallpaper Company, 52 North Side, Public Square.

Barwick, manager of the Camera Shop, said that the site is presently being remodeled. The front of the store will be recessed, and the rear entrance to the business will undergo a change, which will include a new entranceway, complete with "red carpet" treatment for customer.

The expansion, remodeling and moving of the business to the new location is expected to cost approximately $25,000.

Barwick said that the growth of the camera specialty store has been tremendous, and that the present location at 221 East

State is not large enough to meet the demands of customers. Linebaugh disclosed that the new facilities will be 20 by 186 feet, as compared to the East State street store, which was 18 by 55 feet.

Included in the new facilities will be a larger and more modern camera repair department, which will be located on the second floor of the building.

Barwick said that the increased space will allow the Camera Shop to broaden product lines, which will include audio-visual equipment and tape recorders.

The Camera Shop opened its doors at 202 East Court street in 1946, and later, owing to the same conditions presently being experienced, moved to the larger location on East State street.

Linebaugh said that improved parking facilities at the municipal lots on North Main and North Mainville would make shopping easier for Camera Shop customers.

"We also want to encourage persons parking in either of the two lots at the rear of the store to come through the shop if they are planning to shop on the square."

"Jack and myself will welcome shoppers wanting to use the store as a short-cut to the square," Linebaugh stated.

The Camera Shop hopes to open the new location by the first week in November, if not sooner.

Heritage Center Ponders Fate Of Voorhies Castle

The Illinois Pioneer Heritage Center in Monticello, Illinois, is confronted with the perplexing problem of the best possible restoration program for Voorhies Castle and Clock Tower Barn which they recently acquired as a gift to the center.

The Castle is doubly unique in that it was abandoned 54 years ago by the owner, Nels Larson, upon the death of his wife. He walked out leaving the house and all contents as they were. The house remains today just as it was found when opened by the Heritage Center more than a month ago.

Since that opening, more than 30,000 persons have seen the home and the clock tower barn. Not a single visitor has ever before seen a situation like that at Voorhies. This in itself is very unusual, because among the thousands of visitors are a great many who have traveled the world over seeing places of historic interest.

In the words of almost every visitor, "stepping into Voorhies is stepping into yesterday." The center plans to keep the home and barn exactly as they are until at least November first, so that more thousands of people will be able to see it just as it is after all these years.

Dean Gordon, executive director of the Heritage Center contacted the Three Dimension Exhibit Company in Chicago for help and assistance in planning the restoration of Voorhies. They are one of the most prominent concerns in the United States in the exhibit and preservation field.

They have prepared a series of drawings for the Illinois Heritage Center depicting a plan for a geodesic dome that would cover the Voorhies Castle and Clock Tower Barn. The dome would be made of clear sections of plastic and would appear to be a giant bubble resting on the Voorhies Estate.

The dome would be climate controlled the year round, and provide an entire area of exhibit space available under it. The Castle and the Clock Tower Barn would then become exhibits within the dome. Spacious flower beds, fountains and many of the other buildings to be restored at Voorhies could be included in the dome complex.

A restaurant in the sky, under the dome, is also a possibility within the development. The restaurant would be supported in the air within the dome and would be above the Castle and Clock Tower Barn. It would be large enough to seat about 1,500 persons at a time with room for a dance floor accommodating hundreds of dancing couples. A circular revolving stage in the center of the dome, would also be a feature of the restaurant.

The dome restaurant could be used the year round for entertainment, banquets, convention meals, and special programs for organizations as well as for dining by the general public.

The impact of the dome at the time of this release, in initial thinking the structure, along with the more than outstanding contents, would draw in excess of one million visitors a year from outside the State of Illinois, and produce more than 1,500 new Central Illinois jobs.

The new employment would come from the additional persons needed in the housing, food handling, and other related service industries necessary for the hosting of major numbers of visitors in the greater central Illinois area. Preliminary estimates indicate more than thirty million dollars a year in revenue to the general economy of Illinois.

"The economic impact of the dome and development at Voorhies will effect a very wide area of Illinois, and will be felt by virtually all of the service industries. Petroleum companies will be particularly involved. For that reason we are very anxious to hear from persons over a wide area in relation to the impact of the dome at Voorhies," Gordon said.

"The Illinois Pioneer Heritage Center is in need of the help of the people of Illinois," according to Gordon. "We need to know if the people of our state would like to have this most unusual structure and attraction here. We need to know what their reaction to having such a unique dining area would be, as well as the possibility of the year round entertainment program. We know already that this structure would be one of the most interesting places in our country to visit and would be more than an asset to the general good of the future in Illinois. It is our hope that persons will write or come by to see us expressing their thoughts on this gigantic undertaking," Gordon said.

Persons who are willing to express an opinion should address their letters to the Illinois Pioneer Heritage Center at Post Office Box 12 in Monticello, Illinois.

Also included in the massive program would be an electronic touring system for all seven museums of the Heritage Center, improved parking and sign facilities, and a host of lesser improvements necessary to the continued growth and expansion of the already largest development of its kind in Illinois.

"Persons who have not yet had the opportunity of visiting the Voorhies Estate are urged to do so before November first. It will be open seven days a week, and will be left exactly as it was closed fifty four years ago until that time. Many persons may wish to see the estate before rendering an opinion as to their thoughts about the dome," Gordon said.

Hard-Core Unemployed Have Rough Row To Hoe

By GEORGE TAYLOR

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — John M. is a Baltimore Negro who has held six jobs in the last year and needs another.

His reading and knowledge of math are about fourth grade level.

He's 25, separated from his wife, and obligated to support his two children on an annual income of less than $3,500.

John M. is a fictitious name. The facts aren't. They represent the vital statistics of a typical trainee enrolled in a job training program for the hard-core unemployed in Baltimore.

A total of 109 trainees, 78 men and 31 women, are enrolled. All are unskilled or semiskilled and were recruited for the program by state labor officials.

MacMurray College is giving Girl Staters a chance to return to the Jacksonville campus.

Each summer an estimated 600 girls participate in Illini Girls State on the 60 acre MacMurray Campus. This has been the only home for the citizen-conference run by the Illinois American Legion Auxiliary. In recognition of the long association between the college and the Girl Staters MacMurray's President Gordon E. Michelson has announced the formation of a special scholarship.

Five participants in last summer's Girl State activities will be awarded financial scholarships to the liberal arts college. They can receive up to $1700 per year under the program announced by Dr. Michelson.

The participants have been notified by Bruce A. Westerhahl, MacMurray's Director of Admissions. According to Mr. Westerhahl winners will be chosen on the basis of academic achievement, leadership qualities, interest in extra-curricular activities and potential for success at MacMurray.

Girls State Scholarships may be supplemented by campus employment and National Defense Student Loans. Students who do not qualify for the MacMurray Girls State Awards will be considered for other grants and scholarships offered by the college.

The same scholarship opportunities are being issued to participants of the 1967 Premier Boys State. That session is held at the state fairgrounds in Springfield.

SCHOOL BOARD AT GREENFIELD OKs TAX LEVY

GREENFIELD — The Board of Education of Greenfield Community Unit District No. 10 approved at a meeting held September 1, the following tax levy for the 1967 tax year:

Transportation, $18,500; education, $330,00; building, $90,000; working cash, $9,500; municipal retirement, $7,000; Junior College tuition, $6,000; fire protection and safety, $25,855; liability insurance, $800.

Several levys show an increase over previous ones, with the exception of Education and Municipal Retirement. These increases were made to allow for any increase in assessed valuation and do not reflect a direct increase in the amount of tax to be collected.

The Fire Protection and Safety levy will be extended only so long as it will be necessary, in order to recover expenses to be incurred in bringing the Junior and Senior High School buildings up to the requirements of the New State Fire and Safety code for public school buildings. A survey completed by Wilson and Wilson last spring indicates a total slightly in excess of $25,000.00 will be needed for this purpose.

Top Grain Harvest Triggers Price Skid On Board Of Trade

By ED DE MOCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Major grain futures prices declined again on the Chicago Board of Trade during the week, and corn and soybeans set seasonal lows in all deliveries.

The principal factors in the sell-off was the start of harvesting the greatest corn and soybean production farmers have ever produced in this country.

By earlier estimates of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1967 corn production will total nearly 4.7 billion bushels or 14 per cent more than last year's record crop; soybeans production will total 1 billion bushels, 8 per cent more than the 1966 record.

The wheat crop, covering all types, totaled more than 1.5 billion bushels, also a record. Wheat harvesting has been completed.

When grain trade closed for the week Friday, wheat prices were 7/8 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, December 1.54 1/2-55; corn was 1 to 1 1/2 cents lower, December 1.13 1/2-12; oats were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, December 69 1/2 cents; rye was 1/4 to 3/4 lower, December 1.21 1/2; and soybeans were 1 to 3 cents lower, November 2.62 1/2-78.

Soybean oil and soybean meal, which mostly fluctuate with the basic product, trended lower in light trade. Soybean oil closed 17 to 23 points lower for the week, October 8.83-84, and soybean meal closed 10 to 100 points lower, October 71.80-75.

There appeared to be little in the news or in Washington to stimulate any kind of an upward price movement for any length of time. Lack of outside interest with spirited selling by commercials and local professionals helped prices downward earlier in the week.

At midweek, however, reports of a possible frost in northern portions of the Midwest tended to influence higher prices for corn and soybeans. Rain also fell in the area and prices advanced on the theory that it might injure the corn crop and delay harvesting of the two commodities.

The advances, over two days, totaled about 2 cents a bushel and this was wiped out under liquidation at the close of the week.

Some export buying Friday tended to influence an advance wheat for a brief period, but the movement got underway when the bread grain was at its lowest point of the session. Prices advanced about 1 cent a bushel, then fell back under profit taking and closed lower for the day.

As corn and soybeans harvesting was getting under way, hedging by large country buyers of the two commodities began to show up in the futures market. On Friday, the nearby soybeans deliveries were nearly 1 cent a bushel lower than the previous close, while the deferreds closed higher.

The hedging by commercials was not quite as apparent in the corn pit, but selling was noted every session.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Stirling Moss is a man who equates bravery with stupidity. It doesn't take bravery to accelerate a car down a straightaway at 200 miles an hour.

Stirling Moss

Before you can make such a statement, though, you have to have the Moss credentials. He's a peppery, little Englishman who was to racing what Willie Mays has been to baseball, O. G. to Graham to football, Bob Cousy to basketball, Arnold Palmer to golf. Stirling was not only the greatest racing driver of his time, but won with the class that distinguishes a poet with long hair from a hippie.

He thinks that the greatest race of his career was winning the Grand Prix at Monaco back in '61 when he estimates he drove flat out 90 per cent of the time, with a car that was inferior in speed to the surge of Ferraris around him.

But like it must to most drivers, a wipeout eventually flattened Stirling, muddled his reflexes so that he doesn't trust himself behind the wheel of a racing vehicle and left him feeling lucky to be alive, but not lacking any of his old zap or energy.

He's racing director for Johnson Wax and trying to give away $90,000 in prize money during the Canadian-American Challenge Cup of six sports car races running into mid-November.

"The element of danger in racing," says Stirling, "is exaggerated, and I think it's good for the sport that it is exaggerated. After all, we don't want everybody thinking they can be a racing driver. There are too many already."

"If I had to say one person is the best in the world today, it's Jimmy Clark. But I do think that Dan Gurney, Graham Hill, John Surtees and possibly Jackie Stewart are very close.

"You know, everybody who drives a bit too quickly thinks he should be a racing driver, which, of course, is stupid. Accidents are caused by being stupid—in other words, going too quickly. I know when I meet people they say you must be terribly brave to race. That's not true."

But Rodger Ward, who has his own niche in racing as a winner of the Indianapolis 500, said that a man making a turn at 150 miles an hour is always on the brink of being out of control.

"True," nods Stirling, "but Rodger, I'm glad to say, is still alive and therefore always has been on the right side of the brink. There are people who drive a lot slower than Rodger or any of the other drivers and yet have accidents. Because they're on the wrong side of the brink."

"The brink is an individual thing that moves from man to man. I believe it is the intelligent man who knows which side of the brink he rides on, and where the brink is."

In practicing brinkmanship, the successful racing drivers of the Grand Prix circuit are motivated as much by the kicks of the sport as well as the material payoff because a guy with the special abilities required could find a more lucrative field in, say, Indianapolis or the stock car circuit of the South.

And in recent years, some of them—such as Clark and Hill—have.

"The fact of Indianapolis is important," says Moss, "because it's well-promoted and worth a lot of money. I don't believe it gives our type of driver as much exhilaration as the Monaco Grand Prix, which is worth a 50th of Indy. But if you can come over and take the Yankee dollar away once a year, this is very good. It helps the national debt."

Unfortunately, Stirling himself never got in on that kind of loot and at this stage is realistic enough to know that he never will, although he still steps jauntily and does some vehicle testing as a motor editor for a British magazine.

"I would like to be competing still," he admits, "but I'm not because I couldn't do it as well as I would expect myself to do it. Therefore, it would be foolish for me to try."

"In racing, there really isn't room for people who have foolish thoughts."

AL Pennant Race Down To Wire

IC Battles To 7-7 Tie

Both Teams Guilty Of Mistakes

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Illinois College and Rose Poly of Terre Haute, Ind., both refused to take advantage of each other's many mistakes and the two clubs battled to a 7-7 tie in the Blueboys' season-opener Saturday afternoon.

The two clubs were anything but sharp when they had the ball, with ballhandling mistakes by both sides dominating the game. IC coughed up four fumbles and had two passes picked off, while Rose Poly lost a pair of fumbles and lost the ball five times via pass thefts.

While the offenses were left lacking, both displayed strong defenses when their offense let them down. In terms of ball control Rose dominated the action, reaching IC territory ten times while the Blueboys reached Rose Poly turf only four times. Rose got inside the IC 20 three times and inside the 30 five times.

Leading the defensive efforts for the Blueboys were halfback Tom Rowland, three interceptions, Bill Ordendorff, two key thefts late in the fourth quarter, and linebackers Dennis Watson, Mike Herter and John Levens. All three were instrumental time and again in stopping Rose Poly thrusts, while Watson and Herter recovered fumbles. Several players in the interior line turned in strong games.

On Offense Too

Rowland was also an offensive standout, getting all seven of IC's points and grinding out 89 yards in 21 carries. Fellow halfback Phil Snowden picked up 62 yards in 13 tries and fullback Jerry Sapp gained 21 in seven attempts. For the visitors' freshman halfback Roger Ward, a shifty 175-pounder, was the workhorse with 29 carries for 96 yards gained. Fullback Fred Valanti punched for 66 yards in 12 plunges.

The two teams traded interceptions in the first quarter to kill two sustained drives, with Rowland stopping Rose Poly at the IC six with the first of his three interceptions.

With Rose driving again late in the first and early in the second quarter, Rowland again stopped progress with a theft at the Blueboy 15, returning the ball to the 42. Midway through the quarter linebacker Watson fell on a Ward bobble at the Engineers' 32 and it took only seven plays for the hosts to score.

Rowland and Snowden moved the ball for a first at the 20 before quarterback Dave Barr was thrown for a seven-yard loss back to the 27. A pass interference call against Rose moved the ball to the 14. From there Rowland broke over left guard, cut back, twisted off tackles twice and raced in for the only Blueboy score of the day. Rowland split the uprights with 8:47 showing in the half.

Herter Saves TD

Herter knocked down a sure TD pass on the next Rose march, a 50-yard drive that stopped on the 17, and a 26-yard goal try fell well short on the next as the half ended.

Neither team picked up more than one first down in succession in a defense-dominated third quarter until Rose marched off its own 35 to the IC 17 late in the period. There the middle of the line again held and another field goal try sailed wide to the left.

A Snowden fumble on the IC set up the Illinois College score midway through the final 15 minutes. Rose took over on the 43 and scored four plays later. Hills found end Mike Mefford at the five and Mefford plunged the remaining distance at the 5:21 mark. Chuck Bosenberg booted the knotting PAT.

In the following two series IC was unable to move, but Ordendorff picked off passes at the IC 30 and at midfield to thwart Rose threats.

The final Illinois College threat moved the ball from the Rose Poly 37 into scoring position, with Rowland and Snowden moving the ball to the 25. From there Rowland's attempted field goal fell a few feet short with 27 seconds to play.

Rose managed to advance to the IC 39 on desperation passes before time ran out.

Purdue Takes 28-21 Upset Over Irish

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's alert football team intercepted four passes by Notre Dame quarterback Terry Hanratty and smashed the nationally top-ranked Irish 28-21 Saturday.

The teams took turns scoring touchdowns—and the lead changed hands six times—but Purdue got the last one on a 31-yard pass from sophomore Mike Phipps to Bob Baltzell.

The biggest crowd ever to see a game at Purdue's Ross-Ade Stadium, 62,316, almost tore up the stadium as the Boilermakers maintained a tradition of being bad medicine for Notre Dame.

They have licked the Irish four times in their last six meetings.

The Irish were last defeated in 1965 by Michigan State 12-3.

Burly Perry Williams, Purdue fullback, bulled his way 10 yards for a first period touchdown but the kick failed. Hanratty, who completed 29 of 63 passes, pulled Notre Dame even with a one-yard sneak and Joe Azzarone's conversion gave the Irish a 7-6 lead.

Clan Nets 3-2 Margin In Soccer

Chris Dimeglio scored a pair of goals, including the game-decider, as the MacMurray soccer team scored its second straight win, a 3-2 conference triumph over Calvin College of Grand Rapids, Mich., on the Clan field Saturday afternoon.

Dimeglio broke a scoreless tie with a goal from his left wing spot at the 3:20 mark of the second quarter. Herb Silva made it 2-0 early in the third with a goal on a cross from outside right Kai Best at the 8:15 mark.

After Calvin scored at 17:00 of the third to cut the difference to 2-1, Dimeglio iced the game with a goal five minutes into the final stanza, getting an assist from Tom Burden. Calvin got its final goal after 17 minutes of the quarter.

Mac got off 29 shots to Calvin's 16, and goalie Ted Dilday was credited with four saves to eight by the Calvin goalie. The winners had three corner kicks to the losers' four.

For the second straight game center fullback Mike Crossman defended a strong MacMurray defense.

MacMurray is now 2-1 overall and 1-1 in league play, while Calvin drops to 1-4 and 0-1.

Williams carried another load of Notre Dame tacklers over the goal line from three yards out after a scoreless second quarter and Phipps hit end Jim Beirne with a two-point conversion pass that made it 14-7.

Halfback Bob Bleier, who played a magnificent ground game for the Irish, plunged for a third quarter touchdown and Azzarone tied it up 14-14 going into the last period.

Phipps passed 11 yards to Leroy Keyes on the third play of the last quarter and Bob Baltzell kicked the point.

Notre Dame marched 75 yards for a tying touchdown, getting the score on Hanratty's 27-yard pitch to Paul Snow, and Azzarone kicked again.

Purdue's Jim Kirkpatrick ran the kickoff back 30 yards to his 36 and the Boilermakers charged 64 yards in five plays for the winning touchdown. A Phipps-to-Baltzell pass for 31 yards got the touchdown.

Notre Dame never quit, going to the Purdue 14 on a flurry of Hanratty passes in the closing minutes, only to lose the ball on downs.

Tigers Lose Chance To Capture Lead

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Fregosi's two-run single in the eighth inning climaxed a six-run explosion that carried the California Angels past Detroit 8-6 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday and backed the Tigers into a dark corner in the frantic American League pennant race.

Detroit won the first game 5-0 on Mickey Lolich's three-hitter, but California's stunning comeback victory in the nightcap dropped the Tigers one-half game behind both Minnesota and Boston going into the final day of the regular season.

The Tigers now must sweep Sunday's doubleheader against the giant-killing Angels to gain a tie for the flag with either the Twins or Red Sox, who meet at Boston Sunday in a single game. The Red Sox beat Minnesota 6-4 Saturday, leaving each club with a 91-70 mark and the Tigers at 90-70.

The Tigers were breezing along with a 6-2 lead in the nightcap when Fregosi touched off the eighth inning burst with a single off Fred Lasher, who had replaced 22-game winner Earl Wilson in the sixth.

Lasher walked Jimmie Hall and was clipped for run-scoring singles by Don Mincher and Rick Reichardt before giving way to Hank Aguirre. The veteran southpaw got pinch hitter Bubba Morton to tap back to the mound, but threw to first base for the first out as Mincher scored the third run in the inning.

Satriano Ties It
Aguirre then walked Bob Rodgers and was lifted for Fred Gladding. After Bobby Knoop singled off Gladding's glove to fill the bases, John Hiller became the Tigers' fourth pitcher in the inning and Tom Satriano greeted him with a run-scoring single, tying it 6-6.

Hiller fanned pinch hitter Bob Taylor for the second out, but Fregosi then lined a single to right center for the winning runs.

The Tigers scored three runs in the first inning. Dick McAuliffe singled and Angels starter Jack Hamilton walked Jerry Lumpe, Willie Horton and Ed Matthews forcing in one run. Curt Simmons came in and hit Jim Northrup with a pitch to let in a second run and Bill Freeman brought home the third with a sacrifice fly.

California scored in the third when Fregosi cracked his ninth homer of the year. In the fourth, Mincher singled and Angels starter Jack Hamilton walked Jerry Lumpe, Willie Horton and Ed Matthews forcing in one run. Curt Simmons came in and hit Jim Northrup with a pitch to let in a second run and Bill Freeman brought home the third with a sacrifice fly.

Southern Cal Tips Michigan State 21-17

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Ploot-rooted O.J. Simpson raced for two touchdowns and passed for another as second-ranked Southern California handed Michigan State a 21-17 football beating Saturday.

Simpson rushed for 190 yards. Steve Sogge, No. 2 quarterback for the unbeaten Trojans, balanced Simpson's slashing runs with deadeye passing, including tosses of 16 and 45 yards that set up touchdowns.

Sogge hit nine of his first 10 pitches. Simpson, who piled up more than 100 yards rushing in the first half, scored the first Trojan touchdown on an eight-yard run in the first period, then lunged a yard in the second quarter for another score.

The unranked and winless Spartans exploded for 17 points in the second quarter, capitalizing on Southern Cal mistakes, including a fumble inside the Trojan two.

Dwight Lee bashed a yard for a touchdown after MSU end Al Brenner recovered the fumble.

Stabler Guides Alabama Past South Miss. 25-3

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Quarterback Kenny "Snake" Stabler and his flashing split end, Dennis Homan, carried the Alabama Crimson Tide to a 25-3 victory over tough Southern Mississippi Saturday night.

The two teams on three scoring passes of 20, six, and 33 yards, and provided the margin of victory.

Stabler again had a hot hand, connecting on 19 of 26 passes for 151 yards. The speedy Homan broke a Tide record with 11 receptions.

The Tide defense, which gave up a snacking 31 points in the opening game with Florida State, sputtered at times but held the Southerners to one net goal, a 30-yard effort by Ihor Kondrat.

'Bama could do no better than 7-3 in the first half, the Tide touchdown coming on a second quarter 20-yard pass from Stabler to Homan. It climaxed a 33-yard drive.

Stabler completed eight straight passes in the Tide's nine quarter scoring drive of 74 yards. His last one covered six yards to Homan in the end zone.

The final 'Bama touchdown was a thing of beauty. From the Southern 33, Stabler threw to Homan down the left sideline. Homan fought off a Southern defender and barely made it into the corner of the end zone. Pete Moore carried up the middle for the conversion.

Quarterback Tommy Boutwell of the Southerners was rushed badly on the second play following the kickoff and he fumbled on the Southern 17. Jim Duke recovered for the Tide.

Hughes, Cardinals Down Atlanta, 3-1

ATLANTA (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals scored two runs in the sixth inning on two scratch singles, two stolen bases and a pair of infield outs to trim Atlanta 3-1 Saturday night.

Dick Hughes pitched a three-hitter for his 16th win of his rookie season.

Nebraska Shades Minnesota, 7-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska sophomore halfback Joe Orduña cracked open a rugged defensive football battle with a bulging 25-yard touchdown run in the third quarter Saturday and the seventh-ranked Cornhuskers posted a 7-0 decision over Minnesota.

It was the 20th consecutive home field win for Nebraska, and an all-time record Memorial Stadium crowd of 65,361 sat in as Nebraska ran its season record to 2-0. It was Minnesota's first loss in two starts.

A 94-yard drive highlighted by rookie quarterback Frank Patrick's passes set up the game winning touchdown after each team had shackled the other's offenses and the only solid threat had been long field goal tries.

Passes of 11 and nine yards to Dennis Richnafsky and an 18-yarder to Dick Davis helped put Orduña in scoring position, and the 5-10 180-pound speedster shook off four tacklers to reach the end zone standing up. Minnesota 0 0 0 0—0
Nebraska 0 0 7 0—7

Late Field Goal Lets Indiana Notch 18-15 Edge

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A 19-yard field goal by Dave Kornowa early in the fourth quarter handed Indiana a 18-15 college football victory over Kansas Saturday.

The Jayhawks tried to even the score with less than a minute on the clock but a field goal attempt by Dave Aikins from Indiana's 20-yard line fell short.

Flanker Jade Butcher scored both Hoosier touchdowns on a 28-yard pass from halfback John Isenbarger and a nine-yard pass from quarterback Harris Gonso.

Kansas quarterback Bobby Douglass converted a recovered Indiana fumble into a two-yard touchdown run with only 1:07 minutes played and he kept the ball for a 19-yard touchdown run again in the third quarter.

The Hoosiers kept up an aerial attack, completing 11 of 24 passes for a net gain of 183 yards to Kansas' 123 yards on passes.

The Jayhawks built up most of their gains on the ground, running up 146 yards to the Hoosiers' 113. Douglas tried 22 passes but connected on only six.

Oregon State Rans Iowa 38-18

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — It took Oregon State less than 10 minutes to build a 21-0 lead Saturday, and the Beavers went on to whip Iowa 38-18 in an inter-sectional football game.

The Beavers, winners of three in a row this year and nine straight since last season, pulverized Iowa's inept defenders with a three-pronged attack by quarterback Steve Preece, fullback Bill E. Nyart and wingback Bill Main.

With those three consistently making good yardage, Oregon State rammed in touchdowns three of the first four times it had the ball by halftime. It was 17-0.

Meanwhile, the West Coast outfit kept the Hawkeyes and their vaunted quarterback, Ed Podolak, bottled up most of the day. The Hawkeyes didn't even threaten in the first half and their last two touchdowns came after Oregon State had built a 38-6 lead.

Oregon State outgained Iowa 321 yards to 13 on the ground in the first half and finished with a 496-393 advantage in total yardage.

Missouri Edges Wildcats, 13-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Quarterback Gary Kombrink was a one-man gang and Missouri's defense did a smothering job to edge the Wildcats Saturday.

Northwestern, a stunning 12-7 victor over Miami of Florida, was unable to contain Kombrink in a 71-yard Missouri touchdown drive in the first quarter. The Tigers iced the game with 37 and 35 yard field goals by Jay Wallace.

Kombrink, who ran and passed for 233 yards, sparked Missouri's long scoring drive by passing three times for 54 yards and scooting 13 on a keeper to set up a one-yard scoring plunge by fullback Barry Lischner.

The key play in the Tiger march was Kombrink's 28-yard toss to halfback Henry Brown on Northwestern's one-yard line.

Northwestern's touchdown also came in the first period after Dennis Coyne blocked Tiger Steve Kenmore's punt on the Missouri 17. Two plays later Bill Melzer hit Chico Kurzawski with a 17-yard touchdown pass.

That was the first touchdown scored against Missouri which opened last week with a 21-0 victory over Southern Methodist.

Although the Wildcats came out with a surprising passing combination, Melzer and split end Don Anderson, who clicked on 11 passes for 123 yards, Northwestern never could get a sustained ground game underway.

At halftime, although Northwestern trailed only 10-6, the Wildcats had been smothered for minus 20 rushing yards by the bruising Tigers.

MEREDOSIA — Routt quarterback Lloyd Krumlauf threw three scoring aerials and ran an 80-yard keeper across the end zone to lead the Rockets to a 55-0 victory over the Meredosians here Friday afternoon.

Krumlauf again picked Costa as receiver to make the following extra point. Dan Welsh made the Rocket score 19-0 on a reverse in which he ran the ball 60 yards downfield for the TD. Paul Lambert charged over the line for the point after.

The Welsh and Lambert combination gave the Rockets their first score in the second quarter. Welsh ran off tackle within the three-yard mark for six points and Lambert crossed the line once more for the extra point. Routt freshman Mark Yording, a 160-lb. end, took an 11-yard pass play across Meredosians' goal line. Charles Kaufmann ran the point after.

Yording snatched another Krumlauf pass in the third quarter to boost Routt's margin by 39 points. The play gave Routt another seven yards, in the passing department. Krumlauf ran the next score over himself, galloping 80 yards for six points on a keeper. Lambert ran the extra point. The Rocket offense charged to the Meredosians 3-yard line from where Dan Welsh plunged for the last touchdown. Lambert gave Routt its final point in the iced contest.

Tigers Have Easy Time In 20-0 Win

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Speedy Jesse Joyner raced for two quick touchdowns as ISD established early superiority and breezed to an easy 20-0 PMSC Conference victory over outmanned Bluffs, on the Tigers' gridiron Friday afternoon.

ISD, which controlled the game by more than the final score indicated, had no trouble in moving the ball with the first offensive unit, and allowed Bluffs to enter Tiger territory only twice.

Joyner carried the ball only six times but whipped off 131 of the winners' 280 rushing yards. Ron Penn carried only ten times and added 60 more rushing yards.

The ISD first team on offense played less than two quarters, giving way to the second unit most of the afternoon. The Tigers had most of their first defensive unit most of the game.

The victory boosts ISD to a perfect 3-0 record, 1-0 in the conference. Bluffs is winless in three outings and 0-2 in the PMSC.

ISD received to open the contest and it didn't take long to set the trend. Joyner ripped off 15 and 11 in two carries and the Tigers moved to the one in eight plays. Joyner busted over left guard for the TD and Ron Sipek hurried to end Bill Fox for the PAT.

After Bluffs fumbled on their first play from scrimmage, Joyner broke loose on a double reverse two plays and went 55 yards untouched for a second score. Penn legged the point after.

Hurt By Mistakes
Any offensive Bluejays were able to muster in the first half was nullified by a pair of lost fumbles and an interception by Steve Baker.

After a scoreless third quarter, in which Bluffs reached ISD territory for the first time, down to the 40, the hosts got their final score on the first series of the final period.

Joyner scooted 45 yards to the Bluffs' 35 and four plays later Penn swept left end for a five-yard score. The pass for the PAT fell short.

Bluffs, led by the sparkling running of fullback Danny Vannier, made its best offensive thrust of the day on the next series, a long drive that ate up the remainder of the period.

Vannier, who got 48 of Bluffs' 94 ground yards on 18 carries, led a charge on the ground that netted four consecutive first downs to the ISD 34 before Sipek hauled down an interception at the final gun.

Chisox Eliminated

CHICAGO (AP) — The Washington Senators ousted Chicago from the American League pennant race Friday night by nipping the White Sox 1-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Phil Ortega and an unearned run in the first inning.

The White Sox, who blew a tell-tale doubleheader at Kansas City Wednesday night, needed a sweep of the three-game series against Washington to stay alive in the hectic, four-team scramble.

They now can win a maximum of 91 games and must finish behind either the Minnesota Twins or Boston Red Sox, who meet in a two-game set Saturday and Sunday.

The Sox bowed out meekly as

Ortega recorded his second shutout of the season and squared his record at 10-10.

Southpaw Tommy John started for the Sox and quickly was clipped for the game's only run. Tim Cullen, leading off the first inning, grounded to third and first baseman Tom McCraw let Ken Boyer's throw get away from him for an error.

Hank Allen then hit a double play ball to short but relay man Don Buford threw the ball into the dugout after a force at second for another error. Frank Howard drew a walk and Fred Valentine drove Allen home with the first of his three singles.

John, suffering his 12th loss against 10 victories, departed for a pinch hitter in the fifth inning, grounded to third and first baseman Tom McCraw let Ken Boyer's throw get away from him for an error.

Crimsons Defense Tips MacArthur

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville stopped Decatur MacArthur twice in Crimson territory in the final four minutes and held off for a slim 12-7 Capital Conference victory over the Generals, on the JHS field Friday night.

JHS stopped MacArthur at the Jacksonville two when Dick Scott caused and recovered a fumble, then held on again when Gary Buchanan and Charles Grojean collaborated to force another Decatur fumble at the Crimson's 38.

The final two defensive stands made a third-quarter touchdown by hard-running halfback Jim Bruner stand up after MacArthur scored the first time it had the ball with a 70-yard scoring march.

The running of Bruner and junior halfback Rod Simonds and the accurate throwing arm of quarterback Duane Mounts sparked a Jacksonville offense that rolled up a total of 249 yards for the evening, with most of the running going over tackle John Long and guard Paul Pollock on the left side.

The Jacksonville defense had all it could handle in slick-running halfback Bill Sutton. The 165-pound junior halfback ripped around and through the JHS defenses for a whopping 132 yards in 22 slashes at the line. Sutton blasted out 90 yards in the MacArthur-controlled first period.

On the Crimson's side Bruner, just recovered from a leg injury, ripped MacArthur for 93 yards in 22 attempts; Simonds picked up 61 yards in 14 lunges and fullback Terry Hammers added 41 yards in 11 tries. Mounts hit five of seven passes for 51 yards.

Generals Dominate First
MacArthur completely dominated the opening period, taking the opening kickoff and marching 70 yards in 15 plays, with Sutton doing most of the damage. Sutton made the final two and ran the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 6:56 to play in the frame.

Hammers coughed up the ball on the ensuing kickoff and MacArthur seemed headed for another score, starting from the JHS 36. The drive cranked to the 23 before Buchanan caught quarterback Ron Boehm for a ten-yard loss and JHS finally got the ball from scrimmage. MacArthur controlled the ball for 25 plays in the quarter to only six for the eventual winners.

Late in the first period Jacksonville started its first scoring drive of the evening, moving from its own nine in a 91-yard romp that took 14 plays. Bruner and Simonds did most of the leg work in the march, with Bruner having tries of ten and 13 and Simonds ten and 19, the last one piling up six points. The play sweeping left ends with blocks from the backfield and end Chuck Stratman. The kick by Mounts for the point after was blocked.

JHS Gamble Fails
A fourth-and-five situation gamble on the JHS 32 failed midway through the second period, giving MacArthur the ball in scoring position. After a touchdown pass was called back, the first of three Decatur scores nullified, Scott intercepted a pass at the Jacksonville 25 to thwart the threat.

A 20-yard punt return by Simonds early in the final period set up what proved to be the deciding touchdown. Taking over on the Decatur 38, Jacksonville got in to score in seven plays.

Simonds got six to the 32, Bruner and Otis Pitts ground to the 24 and a first down and Bruner legged eight more to the 16. Two more running plays put the ball on the nine and a walk-off against the visitors moved it to the four. Bruner busted over right tackle for the score with 6:24 to play in the frame. Again the extra point effort was no good.

Greg Campbell scored on a two-yard run in the final period to complete Northwestern's scoring.

Northwestern is now 2-1 on the season, while Girard is 1-2.

Brad Lyman scored in the second period on an eight-yard run, but the conversion attempt was no good. Shaw plunged four yards to score, then kicked the point after to round out the Saukees' halftime score at 33 points.

Shaw returned the opening kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter, then kicked the extra point.

Tom McCartney threw a 12-yard pass to Charles Coults in the fourth quarter to score. The conversion was good.

Yankees Sweep
Pair From A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bryan's first home run of the season and the slick relief pitching by Fred Talbot led the New York Yankees to a 1-0 second game victory and a sweep of their two-night doubleheader over Kansas City Friday. The Yankees won the opener, 4-3.

Bryan, who spent most of the year with Syracuse of the International League, connected off rookie George Lauzerique in the sixth inning.

Talbot took over from starter Fritz Peterson with two out in the second inning and yielded only four hits the rest of the way. Peterson had reinjured his left ankle.

The Yankees won the first game on Mickey Mandle's sacrifice fly in the eighth that broke a 3-3 tie. Bill Monbouquette went all the way for New York, spacing eight hits. Rick Monday's fourth inning homer accounted for all Kansas City runs.

Hitchcock Fired
As Braves' Pilot

ATLANTA (AP) — Billy Hitchcock was fired Friday as manager by the Atlanta Braves, who gave him the same silent treatment they gave Eddie Mathews, their veteran slugger, when traded last winter. No successor to Hitchcock was named.

Two hours after the public announcement of Hitchcock's discharge was made at a press conference, the erstwhile manager had not been told officially of his removal.

Last winter the Braves traded Mathews, their home run hitting infielder of Boston and Milwaukee days, to Houston but failed to tell him. The Braves later apologized.

Paul Richards, vice-president of the Braves, announced Hitchcock's removal. While no successor was named, Luman Harris is regarded as a strong possibility.

"The only regrets I have," Hitchcock added, "are that I didn't do a better job as manager for the wonderful fans in the Southeast—and that the people I work for didn't have the decency to inform me that I had been fired."

"This comes as a relief," said Hitchcock, who was not expecting to be retained because the Braves are winding up their worst season in 15 years. "But I'm upset by how it happened."

"I was told about it by a newspaper man three hours before the announcement, but the Braves still haven't told me about it."

Asked about Hitchcock's statement that he was not told in advance, Richards said, "We tried to get in touch with him and couldn't." Richards said he had nothing to add to that comment.

Told that Richards said he had offered Hitchcock a job in the Braves organization, Hitchcock said "we talked about that possibility during the summer, but nobody has told me yet that I was being released."

"I will not go to work for the Braves under their present ownership," said Hitchcock, declining to elaborate on his reasons.

PRESENT $100,000 TO OLYMPIC FUND

CHICAGO (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, presented a $100,000 gift Friday to the City of Chicago for construction of an Olympic fountain.

Brundage, at a civic celebration of his 80th birthday, said the fountain would be the first of its kind in the world and was aimed at "motivating more young people to participate in amateur athletics and who aspire to be Olympians."

Actually, Brundage, who has headed the IOC since 1952, turned 80 Thursday.

Ford Punt, Pass
And Kick Entry
Blanks Ready

Boys age eight through 13 in the Jacksonville area can register for the seventh annual Punt, Pass & Kick Competition with trophies and trips awarded football-minded youths for skills in punting, passing and place-kicking.

Headquarters for registration in Jacksonville is Glisson Motor Co., where entries will be accepted from now through October 6. Entrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. There is no charge as the entire competition is absolutely free to all entrants and all equipment such as footballs and kicking tees are provided. No body contact is involved in PP&K competitions.

When they register, boys receive a free booklet of competition tips written by Green Bay's star passer, Bart Starr, the Baltimore Colts' punting specialist, Dave Lee, and Los Angeles Rams' place-kicking leader for 1966, Bruce Gossett. The booklet includes exercises for better physical fitness oriented to boys of PP&K's competition ages.

Eighteen handsome trophies will be awarded locally by Glisson Motor Co. to the top competitors. Gold trophies go to first place finishers, silver to second and bronze to third, with first place winners going on for further competition in Zone contests.

Winners of Zone competitions will receive trophies and runners up are awarded certificates. Zone winners move to District competitions where 228 District champions will be awarded trophies and go on to compete for Area championships. Area champs travel to division events in NFL stadiums in San Francisco or Philadelphia where twelve finalists are chosen — six from the NFL Eastern division and six from the NFL Western division.

The twelve division winners go, with both parents, on a "Tour of Champions" to Washington, D.C., and then to the Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida, for the National Finals during the annual NFL Play-Off Game.

The Punt, Pass and Kick competition is sponsored nationally by Ford Dealers and the National Football League. Co-sponsors in Jacksonville are Glisson Motor Co. and Jacksonville Jaycees. Registrations continue through October 6th at Glisson Motor Co., 1312 West Morton, for all boys eight through 13 years of age.

Rushville Bombs
Havana By 63-6

HAVANA — The Rushville Rockets, on accurate passing by Rich Patterson and Mark Reynolds, walloped the Havana Ducks 63-6 in a Spoon River Conference game Friday night.

Both teams were scoreless in the first quarter. Havana began the scoring on a 10-yard pass from Dennis Speckateer to Les Newton.

Rushville bounced back on an eight-yard run by Bob Greer followed by an accurate kick by Joe Reische for the extra point. Rich Patterson made the next score on a 40-yard run. Reische kicked the extra point.

Greer scored on a 41 yard run and Reische kicked another point after. Mike Blaessing scored next in the second quarter on a pass interception from 32 yards.

Greer opened the second half for Rushville with a 70 yard run to the end zone. A 60-yard pass from Patterson to Reynolds gave Rushville another score.

Greer went over from the seven-yard line in the fourth quarter. Eric Reynolds scored on a 40-yard run. Extra point was picked up on a pass from Mark to Eric Reynolds. Eric Reynolds returned a punt 90 yards for the next score. The final score for Rushville came on a pass from Mark Reynolds to Dana Ronnebush.

Griffith Takes Benvenuti Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith, fighting with the desperation of a scorned ex-champion, ended the five-month reign of Italy's Nino Benvenuti as world middleweight king Friday night and won a majority decision in a 15-round title match at Shea Stadium.

Snatching back the title he had lost last April 17 in a tremendous upset, Griffith used a solid left jab and a booming body attack to even matters with the blood spattered Italian, who bled from the nose throughout the bitterly fought match.

Benvenuti went down from a right hand to the chin in the 14th round but bounced up almost immediately, waving his hands to referee Tommy Walsh to indicate it should not be called a knockdown. However, he was given the mandatory eight count.

It was the only knockdown of the fight.

Judges Joe Eppy and Johnny Dran scored it 9-5-1 for Griffith. Walsh called it a draw with 7-7-1 in rounds and 7-7 in points. The AP card had it 10-4-1 for Griffith.

Crowd Disappointing
The once-postponed match went on despite a threat of more rain that cut the crowd far below the expected attendance of 30,000 and $300,000 in receipts.

Griffith surprised everybody, including Nino, by scoring repeatedly with his stiff left jab despite a three-inch edge in reach and a disadvantage in both height and weight. Griffith came in at 154 pounds and Benvenuti 159 1/2.

Benvenuti was not the super boxer of last April 17 when, as a 13-5 underdog, he upset the New Yorker. He was not getting off the brilliant combinations and his punches appeared to lack steam.

The Italian was throwing them on at a time while Griffith kept sending in combinations and lunging in with his head under Benvenuti's chin.

Blood dripped from the Italian's nose from the first round on. He also had a cut under the chin and his mouth was red with his own blood in the late rounds.

While Gil Clancy, his manager, kept shouting at him in the corner between rounds, Griffith closed strong. He had faded in the stretch in their first fight.

Memory Work? It's Easy

By Christine Hembrough

Here's another in our series on how these As (or Bs perhaps). We're hoping YOU can add some ideas of your own.

Memory Work
Memory work can be as easy as pie if you have the right attitude and concentration.

For spelling, vocabulary, and foreign languages you should concentrate on one word at a time. Speak it out-loud, spell it, or pronounce it and define it out loud five to ten times or until you can say it without any hesitation or peeking.

Repeat the procedure for the next word. When you are sure you know it, call on yourself to define, say, or spell both words. Keep this procedure up until you can recite all of the words.

Poetry
Now for sheer memory work like poetry. This can prove fatal to your grades if you have the wrong ATTITUDE. Have you ever played a record over and over a few times and then find that you know the entire song? This was done in a subconscious state of mind, which is how you are going to learn that poetry.

First of all get yourself into a subconscious state of mind. You can do it by pretending. Pretend that you are a famous ballerina on stage and dance around your room humming softly. Or become a famous actor and set the stage for your

By Mary Pence Claywell

The sky so over-cast for days,
Wept oceans, Lord, of rain,
Until the earth was like a sponge,
Way back . . . in early Spring,
The earth worms tried to find a place
In Mother Earth's cold breast.
A limber, squirming bit of life,
But found . . . no place to rest:
The trees bowed down their heads in grief,
Their prayerful arms upraised,
A sad contrast to lifted ones,
When Nature smiled and praised:
The muddy streams along the streets,
Gushed out their grief and woe,
The waters gathering here and there,
They had no place . . . to go;
But Summer time dried up the Earth,
And sometimes, we'd complain.
Yet, God in Mercy, now Looks down,
And Nature . . . weeps again:
We thank Thee, Lord, in humbleness,
Thou knowest, when it's time to Bless,
And we confess our doubts and shame,
For wet . . . or dry . . . man doth complain!

Stopping Explosions

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

More deaths in airline accidents are caused by the fire and explosion than by the impact of the crash. Other crashes are caused by an explosion when lightning or a spark ignites the fuel of a plane in the air.

In October, 1966, the Air Line Pilots Association adopted a resolution recommending that devices to stop explosions of spilled fuel be sought. This resolution was implemented on August 7, by a Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) Airworthiness directive to the owners of all 707 and 720 airliners, like the one shown above, except the newer 320B and 320C aircraft. The airlines were ordered to "Install a flame and explosion suppression system in the fuel tank vent outlet system to prevent flame propagation through the vent system following ignition of vapor by lightning at the vent outlet." The airlines could also satisfy the FAA by installing an auxiliary vent tube with a flame arrestor to provide better air flow.

A vent of the type now required by the FAA is produced by Fenwal Inc., of Ashland, Mass. This company, a division of Walter Kidde & Co. Inc., manufactures temperature, gas, and fire control systems.

Fire Control
James R. Keough, president of Fenwal says: "This system, as have other Fenwal systems has had complete testing under both flying and laboratory conditions, and is already being used by Trans World Airlines. "Putting a description of the system in layman terms, aircraft of the type covered by this FAA directive have an overflow, or surge fuel tank located through a vent 18 inches from each tip of the training edge of the wing.

"These vapors have proved highly inflammable and can be ignited from lightning strikes while the plane is flying, or from sparks or other outside flame sources while the craft is on the ground.

"Should a fire start by any cause at the vent, the Fenwal system will sense the presence of flames, and extinguish the fire within about 1/500th of a second before the explosive stage has been reached or before damage to the plane takes place. The engine system operates automatically using its own electrical system."

LITTLE JOE

Part 2: Dreary Silence

Danny has had a glorious summer on the farm with his grandparents and hates to see it end as school time draws near. It's not so much that he dislikes school or even that he doesn't like life in the city, but what is to become of Little Joe—his pet fox that he found orphaned and raised from a little fellow. An apartment would be no place for a fox.

There was little conversation around the breakfast table this morning. The autumn school term was drawing near, and everybody was certain that the day's mail would bring word from Danny's mother to send him home on the next train. Although this had been understood from the beginning, the thought of his leaving cast a sort of dreary silence over everyone.

Finally, while trying to appear cheerful, Grandma flashed Danny a warm smile across the table. "We're going to miss you terribly, dear," she said in her breezy sort of way. "But your mother is getting anxious to see you too, and we'll be looking forward to your visit next year after school lets out for the summer."

"You bet we will, son," Gramps put in with a buoyant smile. "A few months time is nothing to worry about, and next year we'll get in a lot of things we didn't get to do this summer. Maybe take a boat and do some fishing down on the river for one thing."

What About Little Joe?
"But I don't know what's going to happen to Little Joe when I leave," Danny said with a plaintive look. "He's not used to having anybody around him but me, and I'm afraid he might get sick or something." "He's big enough now to look out for himself, son," Gramps was quick to point out. "If you'd turn him loose he'd head for the hills where he could be with other wild creatures of his kind. That's where you found him in the first place, you know."

Turn Him Loose?
Danny gave Gramps a dubious look. "But Little Joe is different," he said. "He's never had to look out for himself, and the other foxes and things might try to fight him or something."

"Oh he'll make out all right, son," Gramps said with a reassuring smile. "For the most part he'll probably stick around pretty close to the house and I wouldn't be too surprised if he showed up here one day looking for you."

"At the moment I'm more concerned that he might return some dark night to raid the chicken house," Grandma put in with a weak smile. "I shudder to think what he could do to my flock of fine broilers." "Oh fiddle-faddle!" Gramps said with a nonchalant gesture. "A measly chicken now and then is nothing compared to all the field mice and other rodents a fox will do away with in the run of a year. I say turn Little Joe loose and let nature take its course."

After breakfast Danny went up to his room and for a long while he sat on the side of the bed absorbed in deep thought.

Let's Go Birding

Fall Census

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Our Morgan County Audubon Club bird census was held on September 9 from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. As usual, the birds in their fall and immature plumage were sometimes hard to identify. As usual, the birds themselves were hard to find; they rarely sang or called, and the leaves, large and dense, were a perfect curtain for their concealment. And there were no convenient flats for shorebirds. The day, for a change, was clear, warm, and quiet.

When the eight census takers met at 8:00 p.m. to total the count, they anticipated a discouraging report. To their surprise they discovered, after double checking, that they had found 118 species in the Jacksonville and Meredosias areas. Mud-plastered feet, Poke-berry dyed hiking clothes, and mosquito bites had not been in vain.

As usual we worked as hard to find the most common birds as the unexpected ones. We never succeeded in locating the Titmouse, although it had visited our garden the preceding day. It shouldn't have been difficult to find, for it is always revealing its presence by its talking or scolding and is a permanent resident.

Two Missing?
As the end of the day neared, some of us kept wailing, "Where are the Red-winged Blackbirds? The Kingfishers?" Then, by chance, as we were speeding up to try another spot, we saw telephone wires lined with little dark birds; upon a closer study we saw all of our different swallows—sitting, visiting, flying in space, and maneuvering in a distant cornfield. Upon examining the cornfield more carefully, we also recognized a great flock of Red-winged Blackbirds. Our list of birds was still increasing.

Two Surprises
The two surprises for our total list were the Duck Hawk near Meredosias and the Pine Warbler near Jacksonville. We had not seen either one for several years. Two Caspian Terns near Sunset Beach gave us a thrill. We were also pleased with a Black-crowned Night Heron, two Redheads, two Bluebirds, over 20 American Egrets, a Turkey Vulture, a Cooper's Hawk, a Sora Rail, several Stilt Sandpipers, 3 Ruby-throated Hummingbirds, a Kingfisher, 3 Olive-sided Flycatchers, 5 kinds of swallows, a Blue-gray Gnatcatcher, a White-eyed Vireo, 19 kinds of silent warblers, a large flock of Pied-billed Grebes, 4 kinds of herons, 7 kinds of ducks, 5 kinds of hawks.

Bobwhites and several Ring-necked Pheasants, a Semipalmated Plover, a Dowitcher, 12 kinds of sandpipers, both cuckoos, 5 kinds of woodpeckers, with the Red-headed leading the list, 4 kinds of flycatchers, 6 kinds of thrushes, some Cedar Waxwings, 2 Loggerhead Shrikes, 4 kinds of vireos, a Louisiana Waterthrush, exclusive European Tree Sparrows, bounding Goldfinches, and others. On such a census even the noisy Grackles, the nest-stealing Cowbirds, and the over-populated English Sparrows are welcome.

Whether you are under 65 and have regular hospital insurance—or over 65 and eligible for Medicare—it will pay you to read the facts now about the new "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan."
Discover how you could go to the hospital and come out with money left over.

What if you should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital bed—and be there for weeks or even months? Think of all the things that $2,000 or $5,000 or $8,000 in extra spendable cash, over and above your hospital insurance, could mean.

Cash to pay the mortgage. Cash to buy food. Cash to meet car payments—pay for child care—buy gasoline—buy school clothing—pay a tax bill.

Your regular health care insurance is not intended to help with family living needs. The "high cost of living" is apart from hospital costs. Household bills go on just the same. Your family still has to eat three meals a day. The landlord or the bank still wants the money when it is due.

Just a few weeks of this kind of financial pressure—with nothing coming in, everything going out—could plunge your loved ones into actual want. No husband or father, hospitalized or healthy, wants his family to go into debt.

A New Service of Americare®

It is to meet this kind of personal and family emergency that American Republic has developed the new "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan"—a service of Americare. Here, specifically, is what this new plan can do for you:

This plan can pay you $157.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $22.50 per day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. It gives you the right to collect this $157.50 per week for any number of weeks up to ONE FULL YEAR. This extra cash income is paid directly to you. You don't have to pay one penny of it to the hospital. It is yours to spend as you wish.

In fact, you can collect a total of as much as $8,212.50 extra personal cash if you are in the hospital for as long as a year.

What's more, this is LifeGuarded Protection.® This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be yours for LIFE as long as you make timely payment of your current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health or number of claims.

Check All These Advantages

- Pays whether you are in the hospital for injury OR sickness.
- Pays in cash directly to you. It's yours to spend any way you like.
- Benefits are increased 10% if premium is paid annually in advance, or increased 5% if paid semi-annually in advance.
- Pays in addition to any other insurance carried with American Republic or any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation or Medicare.
- You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident from the date your policy is issued, and for any sickness that begins after 30 days from date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U.S. Government or Veterans Hospital.
- NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION, regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

Easy As 1... 2... 3...

Protection under the new American Republic "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan" is available in individual protection "units."

You simply decide how many of these units you need for your particular coverage requirements—and put them together like building blocks. For example:

The "1-UNIT" PLAN pays you $52.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. This plan can pay you as much as $2,737.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

The "2-UNIT" PLAN pays you $105.00 per week (at the rate of $15.00 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to as much as $5,475.00 if you should be in the hospital a full year.

American Republic has been granted this seal

The "3-UNIT" PLAN pays you $157.50 per week (at the rate of $22.50 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to a total of $8,212.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

Your decision is easy. Just choose the plan that fits your needs best. Best of all, no matter which plan you choose, you get...

Protection That PAYS

According to latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance. So, when you own this policy, you have protection that PAYS. This is another important advantage of Americare.

A.S.C. Committee In Morgan Takes Office

The Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, who will be responsible for administering farm - action programs in the county for the next year are: Lester E. Martin, Chairman, of Alexander, Illinois; Harold W. McDevitt, Vice-Chairman, of Franklin, Illinois; and R. Gloyd Leavell, Regular Member, of R. 2, Jacksonville, Illinois.

Terms of office for county committees are on a 3-year basis, with one new member normally being elected each year at a convention of newly elected ASC community committees. The situation varies, however, according to the number of actual vacancies on the committee. In addition, first and second alternates are elected for one year each.

Mr. Martin is serving his third year of a 3-year term. Mrs. Leavell is serving his second year, and Mr. McDevitt was re-elected.

System Unique
The ASC farmer - committee system is unique. No other group of citizens has so direct a voice in developing and running Government Programs.

Farmers eligible to take part in programs administered by the committee first elect community committees, who in turn elect county committees. While the county committee is in actual charge of administering the program locally, including expenditures of Federal funds, the community committees lend operating assistance where needed and are particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about the programs available.

The elected committees are not Federal officeholders. Congress holds the Department of Agriculture responsible, and the judgment and leadership of the Department in turn relies on the locally elected farmers and the county office employees. The county office serves as the headquarters for farmer business connected with program participation.

Major ASC activities in Morgan County include the Agricultural Conservation Program, Price Support Loans on Corn, Soybeans, and Wheat, Storage Facility and Equipment Loans, the Feed Grain Program, the Wheat Program, the Cropland Adjustment Program, and the National Wool Program.

Farm Program business handled by the ASCS Office in Morgan County last year amounted to over $2,100,000.00, which both improved the income of farm producers and strengthened the economy of the whole area.

Marshall Takes Oath Next Monday As First Negro On Supreme Court

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty years at the bar and on the bench appear to propel Thurgood Marshall, who takes the oath Monday as the Supreme Court's first Negro justice, toward the court's liberal wing.

It is often risky to speculate on the future course of a new justice. But a quarter-century as a distinguished civil rights lawyer, dozens of opinions as a lower federal court judge and his two-year stint as solicitor general—representing the federal government before the high court—provide a fairly reliable yardstick of the 59-year-old Marshall's legal and judicial temperament.

The 97th justice to join the court since the nation's founding, Marshall will take the judge's oath—"to administer justice without respect to persons and do equal justice to the poor and to the rich"—as the court opens a new term.

He has actually been a justice since Sept. 1, when Justice Hugo L. Black administered the constitutional oath in a private ceremony.

Marshall has taken over the chambers vacated by retired Justice Tom C. Clark. He has hired two law clerks—one from Harvard, one from Columbia—to help him with the mountain of legal business the court must dispose of by June. Both are white.

For several weeks, Marshall and his clerks have been reviewing hundreds of petitions for Supreme Court review of cases decided in state and lower federal courts. In the hectic days following the court's ceremonial opening Monday, the junior justice will cast one of nine votes on what cases to accept for review.

Until midwinter, however, he will be taking part in barely half of the court's work. Because he was U.S. solicitor general for the past two years, passing on all federal cases to come before the high court, he will disqualify himself from consideration of any federal cases in which he had a hand.

What may be expected from the newest justice as he settles into the court's routine? It has been routinely assumed that he will quickly align himself with the liberal majority led by Chief Justice Earl Warren, with Black and Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Abe Fortas. Clark usually voted on the "conservative" side with John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, and Byron R. White.

The "liberals" of the court read the Constitution, as Marshall put it recently, as a "living document," to be interpreted and applied in the light of new situations as they arise. The "conservatives," loosely speaking, take a more rigid view of the Constitution. The "liberals" are identified with the defendant in the public debate over the rights of suspects and criminals, while the "conservatives" are popularly identified with the police and society at large.

Infantry Essential

Con Thien Drives Home World War II Lessons

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran U.S. officers say the battle of Con Thien is driving home again lessons learned in World War II and Korea: Massive firepower and big gun power have only limited effect in silencing a dug-in enemy.

These officers, many of whom saw action in both early wars, said the only way to do the job is to send in infantry to root out enemy batteries burrowed into holes and caves.

Current U.S. policy forbids any U.S. infantry attacks across the border into North Vietnam, from which most of the Communist artillery fire is aimed at Con Thien.

U.S. sources said the North Vietnamese have arrayed between 75 and 125 artillery pieces north of the Ben Hai River boundary.

These Soviet-designed guns, ranging from 85 to 152 millimeters, have been pounding the U.S. Marine outpost, some 2 1/2 miles south of the demilitarized zone, for nearly a month.

U.S. batteries have fired as many as 10,000 shells at the North Vietnamese guns in a single day.

This was 10 times as many as the North Vietnamese guns were throwing at Con Thien.

In addition, waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers dumped 600,000 pounds of high explosive on enemy positions.

The American officers said it appears the Communists wheel their artillery out of caves and tunnels to fire, and then probably roll them back in under cover.

In addition, Communist mortars ranging from 60 millimeter to 120 millimeter weapons, fire into the outpost from positions inside South Vietnam, west and south of Con Thien. These mortars are believed dug into deep holes.

Experts said American shells and bombs would have to score direct hits or near bursts to collapse the caves, tunnels and holes from which the Communists are pumping rounds into the Marine outpost.

The Communist artillery and mortars are believed highly mobile, so that they probably are shifted from position to position after bursts of fire. This makes them hard to hit, too.

So far as is known here, the Communist positions for the most part are not reinforced with concrete, but may be shored up with timber.

The Marines have available to them a new Army-produced mobile radar designed to detect the positions of mortars and other high angle weapons such as howitzers.

The specifications say these radar units can locate a gun position with an accuracy of about 160 feet at a range of up to about six miles.

But officers acknowledge that the radar has limitations, in that it emits a relatively narrow beam and must be pointed in the direction from which the enemy's fire comes in order to spot the trajectory and plot it back to the mortar or howitzer position.

There is a difference in opinion among U.S. military men here as to how severely the American air and artillery barrage may be punishing the North Vietnamese gunners and mortar men.

One U.S. Army artillery authority said the North Vietnamese "have to be suffering tremendously."

He said he considers "remarkable that they are willing to take heavy losses in people and guns and keep on with their shelling."

But other Americans who remember World War II and Korea dispute the belief that the enemy is being badly bloodied.

"I ran into this kind of thing on Iwo Jima and Okinawa," said one Marine officer.

"If they get enough cover, it's hard to knock them out even with a direct hit."

Commerce Office Authorizes Merge Of 2 Railroads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission upheld Thursday the merger of the Chicago Great Western Railway into the Chicago & North Western Railway, and said the consolidation may take place in 35 days.

At the same time, the commission modified its April 20 approval of the merger to afford greater protection to employees who might be affected.

The commission had been asked to reconsider its earlier decision by the Soo Line Railroad, the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin, and two union groups—the Railway Labor Executives' association and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

To protect labor, the ICC ordered that in the event of any dispute regarding employees and resulting from the merger, a labor-management arbitration committee shall be selected—one member by labor, one by management and a third by both.

In the event both sides fail to agree on selection of the third member, they are to ask the National Mediation Board to designate them. The committee's decision, in any case, is to be binding.

The commission in its earlier decision had imposed attrition-type protection for employees of the railroads.

In Chicago, Ben W. Heineman, North Western chairman, said he is delighted that the commission reaffirmed its earlier decision approving the merger.

Heineman said no date has been selected for the official combining of the two railroads.

The Soo Line had complained that as a result of the merger it would suffer severe losses—possibly more than $1.3 million a year because of diversion of traffic.

The Soo was concerned particularly about freight traffic between Chicago and Minneapolis. But four other railroads also operate between Chicago and the Twin Cities: Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul & Pacific; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, and C. & N.W.

In its original decision last April the commission laid down a set of special conditions to protect the Soo Line. These required C. & N.W. to lease the Soo certain tracks and provide for interchanges of freight traffic with other railroads.

The ICC found that the original decision "is based upon adequate findings" and nothing more is necessary.

Under the ICC's order the C. G. W. and C. & N.W. have 180 days within which to consummate their merger.

The Chicago & North Western, one of the most merger-minded of the nation's railroads, currently is involved in a proposed merger with the Milwaukee Road, and is competing with several other railroads for a large chunk of the Rock Island.

But Some Firms Get Sales

Most Russ Officials Snub U.S. Trade Tries

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS
MOSCOW (AP) — "I'm never coming here again," the American businessman said.

"I'm fed up."

He was expressing the frustration of his company and a number of others that tried and failed to crack the Soviet market this summer.

In a major U.S. effort to get Russians to buy American, four groups of company representatives came over to give sales pitches.

Communist officials listened politely and in most cases said "no."

Some of the businessmen were successful, ringing up total sales exceeding $600,000 in items ranging from inventory-control computers to textile machinery.

These few sales helped raise this year's total U.S. exports to Russia, which are at an annual rate of about $63 million, up from $41.7 million last year.

But most of the U.S. businessmen went home empty-handed.

An embittered salesman of men's socks put it this way: "I came over here twice. Every time I tried to get a firm answer, they gave me the run-around."

"Their bureaucracy is so big they can't make any fast decisions. I haven't got time to hang around. It would be cheaper to open a new sales office in San Francisco."

U.S. firms' competitors from Western Europe and the Soviet bloc racked up sales in the millions of dollars.

"The problem is political," a U.S. Embassy official said. "Because of the Vietnam war and their position as the leader of Communist nations, the Russians feel embarrassed to embrace us too closely."

Even without Vietnam, Moscow shies from buying American because it means spending hard-to-get dollars. Rubles are not accepted outside the Soviet bloc.

The black sands of Kara Kum Desert cover almost 90 per cent of the 188,400 square miles of the Soviet Union's Turkmen Republic.

Tax Case Opens Door To Broaden Tax Base Throughout Illinois

By JOHN B. MARTIN

Friday, the Supreme Court of Illinois announced a decision in which the Court reversed Morgan County Circuit Judge William Chamberlain's August 31, 1966, decision in which he held 9 tracts of MacMurray College real estate to be tax exempt.

The effect of the Supreme Court's decision means that henceforth college-owned property used for staff housing will be taxed like any other property in the State of Illinois, not just in Morgan county.

The appeal from the Circuit court was taken by State's Attorney Charles J. Ryan and was argued before the high court on May 12, 1967.

In his brief and argument before the Supreme Court, Ryan contended that housing facilities furnished by MacMurray for certain members of its staff and faculty were not being used "exclusively for school purposes" as is required by the revenue code to qualify such property for tax exemption.

The concluding paragraph of Ryan's brief was: "MacMurray College has a staff of some 245 persons; 30 of them live in college owned housing. None of these thirty are obligated to live in college owned housing to fulfill their responsibilities to the college. What argument can contend that these thirty persons should be relieved of local property taxation while the remaining 215 members of the staff and faculty pay either directly on the homes they own or indirectly by rent? To allow the exemptions in this case would thus be discriminatory. We must presume that the legislature did not intend to violate the Constitution, and we must, therefore, adopt a construction of the statute which will not bring about an unconstitutional effect."

A check with Sheriff Dean Colwell on the amount of taxes still unpaid by MacMurray College indicated a total bill of $2,587.64 for real estate (two years), plus slightly more than $450 in personal property which had nothing to do with the tax case. The amount of tax involved in the litigation was $2,823.62.

MacMurray was assisted in the appeal by the Federation of Independent Illinois Colleges and Universities whose membership includes the University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Loyola, Illinois College and almost all other private universities and colleges in the state.

MacMurray College was represented in the trial court and Supreme Court by Attorney William L. Fay of Jacksonville.

In the course of the opinion, the Supreme Court stated: "A party seeking tax exemption for staff housing facilities as property exclusively used for school purposes obviously must do more than merely show that the property is owned by the school and occupied by school personnel. Use must be exclusively for school purposes. "Exemption will be sustained (only) if it is established that the property is primarily used for purposes which are reasonably necessary for the accomplishment and fulfillment of the educational objectives, or efficient administration, of the institution.

"The college has failed to demonstrate clearly that the faculty and staff housing was SUNBATHING is no problem right now at the new YMCA site. Bob Mowry, executive director of the Y, and J. R. Davidsmeyer, treasurer, are dwarfed by the size of the new gymnasium portion of the building. The roof is next in the construction process according to Y officials. Grading is expected to begin within a week.

Expect Construction Completion Dec. 1 At Sherwood Eddy Y

The Sherwood Eddy Y.M.C.A. construction program is progressing on a schedule that should permit beginning occupancy of the building in December. The total construction program will be completed early in 1968. The building will house a complete physical plant.

Included in the building — a modern Olympic size swimming pool 75 feet by 36 with six lanes for competitive swimming — will be one of the first areas opened in the new Y. A complete aquatic program, including instruction, life saving, scuba, and recreational swimming, will be offered. Final steps are now being done on the pool construction, including the tile work. When completed, the pool will be one of the finest in the state.

The physical plant will include a gymnasium, judo and wrestling room, two handball courts, and extensive exercise and weight lifting room. In addition there will be multi-use play fields, tennis courts and ball fields outside when the project is completed.

The Sherwood Eddy Y.M.C.A. will include a modern Health Club, featuring sauna baths, sunlight, massage, sitz bath, and private lounge.

Included in the plans are an assembly room lounge, club rooms and a limited food service. The total facilities are planned to meet the needs of the total family.

Robert Mowry, Executive Director, announced that program schedules are available at the Y.M.C.A. These programs list partial times for the more than 375 meeting activities which will be offered to Y.M.C.A. members.

A temporary fall schedule will be offered members beginning October 9, using the gymnasium facilities at Jonathan Turner Junior High School, the pool at the Illinois School for the Deaf, and the present Y.M.C.A. building at 423 West State. As the new building is completed programs will be moved to the new site.

Two Hurt Early Saturday Night

Two drivers sustained minor injuries as a result of individual accidents in the city Saturday evening, according to reports filed by city police.

A 49-year old Blue Mound, Ill., man miraculously escaped a serious injury when he almost fell from a moving auto in the 800 block of West Lafayette.

Howard L. Aufrecht of Blue Island was westbound when he served to avoid contact with a parked auto. His door flew open, and Aufrecht had almost fallen out of the vehicle when an eastbound auto struck and closed the car door.

The second unit was operated by Jo Ann Trumbo of 908 Cox street. Aufrecht sustained arm abrasions and bruises. Time of the accident was listed as 6:13 p.m.

A 23-year old Alexander man sustained a head abrasion in an accident on the southeast corner of the public square about 6:40 Saturday.

Police said that Lloyd R. Flynn of Alexander was slightly injured when his car struck the rear of a unit driven by George R. Gebhardt of 356 E. Court street.

The Gebhardt vehicle had stopped suddenly for another unit.

grams will be moved to the new site.

The Y.M.C.A. membership campaign will open October 10, and run thru October 26. An exciting program is being arranged for the 225 volunteers working on the campaign at the Kick-Off Dinner on October 10. Memberships for the new Y.M.C.A. will officially go on sale at that time. Jack Gillespie is the general chairman of the enrollment campaign.

All residents of the greater Jacksonville area are invited to inspect the new building located off Woodland Place north of West Morton Road. For information regarding the Y.M.C.A. program and membership, call the Y.M.C.A. — 243-1016 or 245-2141.

Christine C. Reiter Receives Posthumous Medal For Husband

The Air Medal with Gold Stars, in lieu of the second through sixth Air Medal, has been presented, by the President of the United States, posthumously to First Lieutenant Dean W. Reiter, United States Marine Corps Reserve.

The medal was presented to his widow, the former Christine Cleeland, Jacksonville, by a member of the Marine Corps from the St. Louis office on Saturday.

Lt. Reiter, a 1964 graduate of MacMurray College, was killed in Vietnam, September 25, 1966, while on a Medivac Mission.

The citation reads, "For meritorious achievement in aerial flight as a designated Naval Aviator in Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron One Hundred Sixty-One during combat missions in support of the Republic of Vietnam from July 8 to 19 September, 1966. Completing numerous missions during this period while often exposed to hostile fire at close range, First Lieutenant Reiter contributed materially to the success of his squadron. His courage and devotion to duty in the face of hazardous flying conditions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

He received the first Air Medal while serving in Vietnam.

A memorial has been established at MacMurray by the family and friends of Lt. Reiter.

Known as the Dean Reiter Memorial Award, the citation goes to a MacMurray senior member of the Men's College who displays leadership and responsibility.

The first recipient was Fred Lewis, Diverson, who graduated last spring.

Pike Woman Injured Friday Still Critical

A Pike County woman is hospitalized in Quincy with what authorities term "major" injuries suffered Friday in a two-vehicle accident on Illinois 96, one mile south of Pleasant Hill.

Mrs. Mary M. Buchaltz, 30, of Nebo was rushed to Illinois hospital in Pittsfield following the crash, and was later transferred to Blessing hospital in Quincy. Her condition late Saturday was described as "critical."

State police at Pittsfield said Mrs. Buchaltz was the driver of a northbound car that collided with the left rear of a road grader, operated by 53-year-old Francis J. Hendrickson of Pleasant Hill. Hendrickson, who is the Pleasant Hill road commissioner, was not injured.

Troopers said the accident is still being investigated.

The Buchaltz auto sustained heavy damage.

Local Elks Help Crippled Child Along The Way

Merle Wade, Exalted Ruler of Jacksonville Elks Lodge, Saturday issued a statement reminding members of the local lodge that stamp appeal letters from the Illinois Elks Association Crippled Children's Commission should soon be in their hands.

Wade urges local Elks to respond promptly to the appeal by returning their contributions in the yellow postage-free envelopes enclosed with the appeal.

Wade also calls attention to the program for the rehabilitation of physically handicapped children by the Illinois Elks Association — a program through which thousands of unfortunate children are being aided by the Elks of the state.

No appeal is made to the general public to support this civic project which provides free diagnostic clinics throughout the state of Illinois. Last year 3,763 patients were examined in Elks clinics and at clinics at University of Illinois Research and Educational Hospitals. There were 243 patients who received 4,898 days of free hospitalization and special hospital care, including surgery in some cases.

Members of the Elks staff provided physical therapy treatments for 184 patients. Five Elks White Mobile units traveled nearly 100,000 miles serving these patients.

Now, regardless of your age or occupation...

COLLECT $52.50 ... $105 ... OR $157.50 A WEEK,
JUST LIKE WAGES, WHILE IN THE HOSPITAL

Whether you are under 65 and have regular hospital insurance—or over 65 and eligible for Medicare—it will pay you to read the facts now about the new "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan."
Discover how you could go to the hospital and come out with money left over.

What if you should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital bed—and be there for weeks or even months? Think of all the things that $2,000 or $5,000 or $8,000 in extra spendable cash, over and above your hospital insurance, could mean.

Cash to pay the mortgage. Cash to buy food. Cash to meet car payments—pay for child care—buy gasoline—buy school clothing—pay a tax bill.

Your regular health care insurance is not intended to help with family living needs. The "high cost of living" is apart from hospital costs. Household bills go on just the same. Your family still has to eat three meals a day. The landlord or the bank still wants the money when it is due.

Just a few weeks of this kind of financial pressure—with nothing coming in, everything going out—could plunge your loved ones into actual want. No husband or father, hospitalized or healthy, wants his family to go into debt.

A New Service of Americare®

It is to meet this kind of personal and family emergency that American Republic has developed the new "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan"—a service of Americare. Here, specifically, is what this new plan can do for you:

This plan can pay you $157.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $22.50 per day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. It gives you the right to collect this $157.50 per week for any number of weeks up to ONE FULL YEAR. This extra cash income is paid directly to you. You don't have to pay one penny of it to the hospital. It is yours to spend as you wish.

In fact, you can collect a total of as much as $8,212.50 extra personal cash if you are in the hospital for as long as a year.

What's more, this is LifeGuarded Protection®. This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be yours for LIFE as long as you make timely payment of your current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health or number of claims.

Check All These Advantages

- Pays whether you are in the hospital for injury OR sickness.
- Pays in cash directly to you. It's yours to spend any way you like.
- Benefits are increased 10% if premium is paid annually in advance, or increased 5% if paid semi-annually in advance.
- Pays in addition to any other insurance carried with American Republic or any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation or Medicare.
- You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident from the date your policy is issued, and for any sickness that begins after 30 days from date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U.S. Government or Veterans Hospital.
- NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION, regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

Easy As 1...2...3...

Protection under the new American Republic "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan" is available in individual protection "units."

You simply decide how many of these units you need for your particular coverage requirements—and put them together like building blocks. For example:

The "1-UNIT" PLAN pays you $52.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. This plan can pay you as much as $2,737.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

The "2-UNIT" PLAN pays you $105.00 per week (at the rate of $15.00 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to as much as $5,475.00 if you should be in the hospital a full year.

The "3-UNIT" PLAN pays you $157.50 per week (at the rate of $22.50 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to a total of $8,212.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

Your decision is easy. Just choose the plan that fits your needs best. Best of all, no matter which plan you choose, you get...

Protection That PAYS

According to latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance. So, when you own this policy, you have protection that PAYS. This is another important advantage of Americare.
